League Conference Meets on May 29 But Certain to Adjourn Immediately

NATIONS SUSPICIOUS

Germany Determined to Rearm Unless Other Powers Keep Promise

GENEVA, May 16—(UP)—League of Nations leaders virtually agreed today to adjourn the disarmament conference indefinitely, despairing of reaching an agreement. Adjournment would leave the way open for a perilous arms race.

The full representation of the world conference is to meet here May 29, and leaders felt that unless there was an unexpected—a miraculous—change in international feeling, it would be useless to continue.

It was forecast that the full conference would meet and, after a brief wake-like meeting, adjourn activities sine die.

Germany's departure from the conference and the league; French suspicion of German armament ambitions; increased army, air force and navy appropriations in most all countries and a general pessimism regarding the chance of fruitful efforts even to stabilize armaments on their present basis led to today's atmosphere.

Germany has expreseed determination to rearm herself unless the other powers keep their promise, embodied in the Versailles treaty 15-years ago, to disarm to her level. France will not consent to German rearmament and will not reduce her own armaments until assured Germany is peacefully inclined; Great Britain is ready to double its air force in fear that Capt. Hermann Goering, German minister of aviation now in charge of all German air activities, will build up o force of formidable size, despite treaty prohibitions.

Delegates' hopelessness was increased by public revelation and comment over a situation they had known all along—that even France was selling munitions to Germany

LATE NEWS FLASHES

WASHINGTON, May 16.—(UP)—President Roosevelt hopes to have his message on war debts ready for congress next week, he said today. Pressure of business, it was explained, has kept the chief executive from working on the message.

LIVINGSTON, Ala., May 16.—(UP)—A strong windstorm ripped through southwest Alabama today, killed two Negroes, demolished the old amademic building of the Livingston State Normal school and damaged several other structures. None of 250 students at the school was injured.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—(UP)—The house judiciary committee today approved the bill passed by the senate last week which would prohibit persons holding federal office from being delegates to political party conventions.

Board Votes To Ask Bids On H.S. Plant

Partial Reconstruction Expected to Be Started in Eight Weeks

THE SANTA ANA board of education will proceed at once to call for bids on partial high school plant reconstruction, having voted late yesterday to authorize plans for a new main building and auditorium, and reconstruction of the present junior college building, to be immediately followed by bids upon the contract for rebuilding the science building, all at an estimated cost of $330,000.

Because of uncertainty as to the extent of funds remaining available from the $500,000 allocation to Santa Ana under the Greene bill, $100,000 of which already has been allocated to reconstruction of Julia Lathrop Junior High school, no action will be taken at present toward reconstruction of the high school shop unit, or the fine arts and home economics building, it was decided.

It had been expected to finance reconstruction of those units from the $132,000 grant sought from the federal government, but there is now no assurance of receiving the grant, according to the board's latest information. Under the estimate of the architects for the construction authorized yesterday, about $70,000 would remain from the Green bill allocation to be applied toward the shop and fine arts buildings.

$330,000 Estimate

Architect J. E. Allison, of Los Angeles, told the board informally yesterday that he privately expected the bids on the main building, science and junior college buildings to run well under the $330,000 estimated.

Allison, with his assistant, A. J. Hill, former member of the state board of school planning, who recommended employment of the firm, Allison and Allison, to the Santa Ana board, and later was employed by that firm, conferred with the board at yesterday's

DIRIGIBLE STARTS TRIP TO CALIFORNIA

MIAMI, Fla., May 16.—(UP)—The U. S. S. dirigible Macon left here today for its permanent base at Sunnyvale, Calif., after extensive maneuvers with the U. S. fleet in Caribbean waters. The giant ship arrived here April 22 after a 54-hour cross-country trip from the west coast.

Commander A. C. Dressel, who studied weather charts carefully the last two days, said weather conditions which held the ship here since Sunday had improved greatly.

At dawn preparations were made for the departure. After a few hours of maneuvering the ship finally was free of its mooring mast and headed toward the west at 7 a. m. Officers did not expect to better the 54-hour record made in coming here.

FASCIST STATE PROCLAIMED IN LATVIA TODAY

Political-Military Coup Effected and Country Under Martial Law

RIGA, Latvia, May 16.—(UP)—A political-military coup today added Latvia to the growing list of fascist states in Europe and put the country under martial law.

Without warning, the entire country was put under sternest martial law in the early hours of today "in order to forestall unrest" pending enforcement of constitutional reforms.

All activities of parliament and political parties were suspended.

The Riga garrison was mobilized and public buildings, including parliament, were occupied. Police and troops, backed up by tanks, patrolled the streets.

Soldiers armed with machine guns surrounded the headquarters of the socialist party, removed the red flag and hoisted the state flag. Several socialist leaders were arrested, including Dr. Pauls Kalnins, speaker of parliament.

The coup put into effect, at least for the time, a dictatorship subservient to wealthy landowners co-operating with fascist formations called Katsuelit.

From the foreign viewpoint, the coup was calculated to facilitate creation of a co-operating Baltic bloc of nations comprising Latvia, Poland, Esthonia and Lithuania.

President Of N. E. A. Will Visit County

Jessie Grey, president of the National Educational association, will visit Orange county on May 23, it was announced today by Ray Adkinson, coupty superintendent of schools.

Miss Grey will speak at a county-wide meeting at the Santa Ana Willard Junior High school auditorium at 8 o'clock the evening of May 23.

"Rarely does one of such distinction pay us a visit," Superintendent Adkinson said, "and we hope to be able to extend her an appropriate welcome."

Formal Announcement Is Made of Decision on Doctors' Advice

SAN FRANCISCO, May 16.—(UP)—The race among California Republicans for their party's nomination was thrown wide open today by Gov. James Rolph jr.'s formal announcement he will not seek re-election.

Illness forced the decision from the reluctant Rolph, the effusive, sentimental politician who is completing his fi[illegible] term as chief executive of the state after serving 19 years as mayor of San Francisco.

Federal And State Peace Agents Busy

Trail Being Pursued Following Identification of Garbage Cans

TUCSON, Ariz., May 16.—(UP)—Ace federal and state investigators today pushed search for the kidnapers of six-year-old June Robles, as their child victim rapidly recovered from imprisonment in a hot desert hole.

Experts from Washington joined Arizona and Tucson authorities in examining clews and running down leads imparted in the little girl's own story of 19 terrible days she spent in the kidnapers hands.

She retained a slight limp from an ankle lacerated by the chain which bound her in a filthy hole in the desert, nine miles from her home. The effects of exposure in blistering sun and scant, improper foods almost had disappeared.

Federal agents pursued a warming trail with the identification of two garbage cans found in the desert cage from which the girl was liberated.

Two unnamed suspects, both with police records, were said to be under surveilliance.

Identify Cans

First results of the intensive investigation came when Steve Gollobe, a rancher, identified the cans as having been stolen from his home on May 13, the day before June was rescued.

The development puzzled investigators in view of the child's story that she spent the entire 19 days of her captivity in the cage, and the last few days without seeing a visitor. One of the cans had provided her with drinking water. Many believe she was locked in the "prison" at a much later date to permit her kidnapers a full chance to escape.

In the hope of finding some hideaway of the kidnapers, Indian trackers were placed on the trail, starting at the desert hole. Investigators found a deserted cabin nearby which they believed provided the kidnapers with living quarters for some time. The cabin showed signs of recent occupancy

SHIP CONSTRUCTION TO BEGIN SHORTLY

WASHINGTON, May 16.—(UP)—Construction will start on 20 warships, costing $40,000,000, as soon as funds are obtained from the $1,322,000,000 public works allotment asked by President Roosevelt, Secretary of the Navy Claude A. Swanson announced today.

The secretary said the building program would include 12 destroyers, two destroyer leaders and six submarines. It will form the first year program of the Vinson act which authorizes replacement of 102 ships to bring the navy to full treaty strength.

Allocation of the work to different shipyards has not been made, Swanson said, but the navy's policy is to award half of the work to private yards and the remainder to navy yards.

Reveal Women Refused To Quit Ice Floe

WASHINGTON, May 16.—(UP)—Ten women dared death on the arctic ice rather than give up their Soviet doctrine of equal rights, Commander Otto Schmidt of the lost Russian exploring vessel, Cheliuskin, revealed today.

Schmidt said the women members of the party refused to leave when first rescue planes reached the craft locked in the ice north of Siberia.

"They held to the doctrine of equal rights," said Schmidt, here on his way back to Russia. "I finally was forced to order them to leave."

GOVERNMENT IN MOVE TO HALT COAST STRIKE

Assistant Labor Secretary Leaves by Plane for California Today

WASHINGTON, May 16.—(UP)—Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward F. McGrady boarded a plane at 11 o'clock today for San Francisco where he hopes to arbitrate the Pacific coast longshoremen's strike. He will arrive there tomorrow morning.

McGrady said he knew nothing of "what was going on out there but I am going to do all I can to get things going right away." He said latest reports indicated Washington state authorities were threatening to call out state troops to curb the strikers.

"Up to an hour ago, however," he said, "no troops had been called."

The national labor board ordered McGrady to the coast after President Roosevelt's mediation commission, sitting in San Francisco, failed to negotiate a settlement.

McGrady will make his headquarters at the Whitcomb hotel, San Francisco.

SAILORS' UNION IN VOTE TO JOIN STRIKE

SAN FRANCISCO, May 16. —(UP)—A complete tieup of all shipping on the Pacific coast for an indefinite period impended today through the action of the sailors' union of the Pacific in voting to join the strike movement initiated by 10,000 longshoremen.

As paralysis spread steadily over ship movements and over industries depended on ships for raw materials and supplies, 1000 union sailors here voted strike action. Similar action was taken in other coastal ports, affecting about 3000 men, leaders said.

Other union organizations affiliated with the shipping trades prepared to join the movement, making the walkout general.

Among the unions reported to be considering a sympathy strike are the ferryboatmen's union, mates and pilots' union and the marine

TRIO PLEAD GUILTY IN NIGHT COURT

Agree to Plead Guilty to Charges to Escape Possible Sentence of Death

BULLETIN

LOS ANGELES, May 16.—(UP)—Complaints charging kidnaping were ordered issued today against Loretta Woody and Joan Burke, alleged members of the gang which abducted William F. Gettle, Beverlly Mills millionaire.

District Attorney Buron Fitts ordered the complaints issued as a federal grand jury prepared to indict the women and James Kirk, Larry Kerrigan and Roy Williams, under sentence of life imprisonment for kidnaping, on charges of using the mails to extort.

LOS ANGELES, May 16.—(UP)—Prison walls closed about the kidnapers of William F. Gettle today, a week after James Kirk, Roy Williams and Larry Kerrigan planned the ransom abduction of the Beverly Hills millionaire.

Swift justice was meted the trio last night when, on their pleas of guilty, they were sentenced to life imprisonment under California's new kidnaping law.

Under the California law, as interpreted by Judge Charles W. Fricke, the trio will be doomed to life imprisonment but "with the possibility of parole.' They agreed to plead guilty to escape a possible death penalty, permitted only if a victim has been harmed. Gettle said he was not.

The kidnapers will be transferred to San Quentin prison late today.

Spurred by public indignation over the kidnaping, the district attorneys office moved with unprecedented speed to bring the kidnapers to trail. District Attorney Buron Fitts yesterday afternoon interrupted the happy reunion of Gettle with his wife and four children to summon him before the grand jury. While Gettle was telling the grand jurors of his abduction from his country estate in Arcadia by two masked men a week ago tonight, and of his five-day imprisonment in the kidnapers' lair, Fitts was interviewing the prisoners.

Spars for Time

"Plead guilty to kidnaping and take life sentences—or we'll do our best to hang you when you go to trial," he decreed.

Kirk, the admitted ring-leader, sparred for time.

"We want to see an attorney first," he announced.

Their request was granted. One attorney urged them to plead guil-

The Need For All Orange Growers To Co-Operate

(An Editorial)

The 1933 agricultural census of Orange County reveals that $11,500,000 of new gold was brought here by the Valencia orange. In 1930 almost $36,000,000 was the golden return for this fruit. The sharp decline experienced not only in Orange county, but by the citrus industry as a whole, was due only in part to the decline in the purchasing power of consumers of citrus fruits. IN A VERY LARGE MEASURE THE DECLINE IN INCOME WAS DUE TO GREATLY INCREASED PRODUCTION OF CITRUS CROPS, ACCORDING TO GOVERNMENT STATISTICS. THIS INCREASE CAME AT A TIME WHEN THE MARKETS COULD ABSORB SUCH GREAT VOLUMES ONLY AT PRICES WHICH MEANT SEVERE HARDSHIP TO THE BULK OF THE CITRUS GROWERS.

During the three seasons from 1930 to 1933, commercial supplies of oranges marketed in the United States averaged 40,917,000 boxes per year. These marketings were 11,557,000 boxes, or 40 per cent in excess of average marketings from 1923 to 1927 of 29,360,000 boxes. In terms of oranges per capita this represented an increase from 50.4 oranges per person to 65.6 oranges per person.

The nature of the citrus industry is such that it is impossible for citrus growers, acting individually, to adjust citrus production to declining demand and to cope with excessive surpluses. Citrus groves represent a large investment. The yielding capacity of trees increases for many years, and once they reach full yielding capacity, they live and bear to an old age.

The present relation between commercial shipments of citrus products and prices to farmers is such that growers receive materially less gross income from a large crop than they receive from a moderate or small crop. This same relation is true of many other farm products.

Citrus crops are subject to wide variations in yield from year to year and the product is perishable. If the number of trees were reduced to those needed to supply the market in average years, supplies would be excessive in years of high yield, and insufficient in years of low yield. It is therefore necessary to develop some method of organizing the industry so as to control the volume shipped in each year, rather than to attempt to control directly acreage or tree numbers. Likewise it is desirable to control shipments so as to produce reasonable income to growers, rather than permit unchecked competition to drive the purchasing power of citrus fruits down to the vanishing point in years of large supplies.

If growers bring to maturity all the young and non-bearing trees the present acreages would produce, in favorable years, a combined crop approaching 100,000,000 field-run boxes, or nearly 60 per cent in excess of production during the five years, 1924-28. Such crops, thrown on the market without regulation would still further destroy the purchasing power of the growers and disrupt the economic organization of the producing regions.

Through forces not under their control citrus growers have found themselves in a position of supplying more fruit to the market than they did prior to the depression, but being able to purchase only about half as many products and service in exchange for it. It is essential that all citrus areas and all parts of the industry participate in a program designed for the restoration of the economic status of the industry.

Of course it has been recognized that California could not accomplish the ends desired if she organized her citrus fruit producers and other states did not join in. Fortunately, under the Agricultural Adjustment Act, usually spoken of as the "AAA," an act of the federal government, it was possible to co-ordinate all of the orange producing states.

As the result of efforts already worked out, there is a marketing agreement applying to oranges and grape-fruit in Florida. This was signed by shippers handling 72 per cent of the fruit by volume. This became effective last December. The California and Arizona agreement of the same type represents 88 per cent of the volume in these states. The Texas agreement was signed by shippers representing 87 per cent. The California and Arizona agreement went into effect the 14th of last December, and the Texas agreement two weeks later.

Plans for co-ordinating these agreements so as to make a master plan for the whole citrus industry will be presented at a conference in Washington next month. With that plan effective, the citrus industry will come under this united, amalgamated program, which will only need the co-operation of the individual growers for shipments, consumption and price to be practically determined by those who are themselves interested in the citrus industry.

(Tomorrow we will show how the grower and the packer can do their part in producing a perfected organization.)

District Attorney Buron Fitts ordered the complaints issued as a federal grand jury prepared to indict the women and James Kirk, Larry Kerrigan and Roy Williams, under sentence of life imprisonment for kidnaping, on charges of using the mails to extort.

LOS ANGELES, May 16.—(UP)—Prison walls closed about the kidnapers of William F. Gettle today, a week after James Kirk, Roy Williams and Larry Kerrigan planned the ransom abduction of the Beverly Hills millionaire.

Swift justice was meted the trio last night when, on their pleas of guilty, they were sentenced to life imprisonment under California's new kidnaping law.

Under the California law, as interpreted by Judge Charles W. Fricke, the trio will be doomed to life imprisonment but "with the possibility of parole.' They agreed to plead guilty to escape a possible death penalty, permitted only if a victim has been harmed. Gettle said he was not.

The kidnapers will be transferred to San Quentin prison late today.

Spurred by public indignation over the kidnaping, the district attorneys office moved with unprecedented speed to bring the kidnapers to trail. District Attorney Buron Fitts yesterday afternoon interrupted the happy reunion of Gettle with his wife and four children to summon him before the grand jury. While Gettle was telling the grand jurors of his abduction from his country estate in Arcadia by two masked men a week ago tonight, and of his five-day imprisonment in the kidnapers' lair, Fitts was interviewing the prisoners.

Spars for Time

"Plead guilty to kidnaping and take life sentences—or we'll do our best to hang you when you go to trial," he decreed.

Kirk, the admitted ring-leader, sparred for time.

"We want to see an attorney first," he announced.

Their request was granted. One attorney urged them to plead guil-

The Need For All Orange Growers To Co-Operate

(An Editorial)

The 1933 agricultural census of Orange County reveals that $11,500,000 of new gold was brought here by the Valencia orange. In 1930 almost $36,000,000 was the golden return for this fruit. The sharp decline experienced not only in Orange county, but by the citrus industry as a whole, was due only in part to the decline in the purchasing power of consumers of citrus fruits. IN A VERY LARGE MEASURE THE DECLINE IN INCOME WAS DUE TO GREATLY INCREASED PRODUCTION OF CITRUS CROPS, ACCORDING TO GOVERNMENT STATISTICS. THIS INCREASE CAME AT A TIME WHEN THE MARKETS COULD ABSORB SUCH GREAT VOLUMES ONLY AT PRICES WHICH MEANT SEVERE HARDSHIP TO THE BULK OF THE CITRUS GROWERS.

During the three seasons from 1930 to 1933, commercial supplies of oranges marketed in the United States averaged 40,917,000 boxes per year. These marketings were 11,557,000 boxes, or 40 per cent in excess of average marketings from 1923 to 1927 of 29,360,000 boxes. In terms of oranges per capita this represented an increase from 50.4 oranges per person to 65.6 oranges per person.

The nature of the citrus industry is such that it is impossible for citrus growers, acting individually, to adjust citrus production to declining demand and to cope with excessive surpluses. Citrus groves represent a large investment. The yielding capacity of trees increases for many years, and once they reach full yielding capacity, they live and bear to an old age.

The present relation between commercial shipments of citrus products and prices to farmers is such that growers receive materially less gross income from a large crop than they receive from a moderate or small crop. This same relation is true of many other farm products.

Citrus crops are subject to wide variations in yield from year to year and the product is perishable. If the number of trees were reduced to those needed to supply the market in average years, supplies would be excessive in years of high yield, and insufficient in years of low yield. It is therefore necessary to develop some method of organizing the industry so as to control the volume shipped in each year, rather than to attempt to control directly acreage or tree numbers. Likewise it is desirable to control shipments so as to produce reasonable income to growers, rather than permit unchecked competition to drive the purchasing power of citrus fruits down to the vanishing point in years of large supplies.

If growers bring to maturity all the young and non-bearing trees the present acreages would produce, in favorable years, a combined crop approaching 100,000,000 field-run boxes, or nearly 60 per cent in excess of production during the five years, 1924-28. Such crops, thrown on the market without regulation would still further destroy the purchasing power of the growers and disrupt the economic organization of the producing regions.

Through forces not under their control citrus growers have found themselves in a position of supplying more fruit to the market than they did prior to the depression, but being able to purchase only about half as many products and service in exchange for it. It is essential that all citrus areas and all parts of the industry participate in a program designed for the restoration of the economic status of the industry.

Of course it has been recognized that California could not accomplish the ends desired if she organized her citrus fruit producers and other states did not join in. Fortunately, under the Agricultural Adjustment Act, usually spoken of as the "AAA," an act of the federal government, it was possible to co-ordinate all of the orange producing states.

As the result of efforts already worked out, there is a marketing agreement applying to oranges and grape-fruit in Florida. This was signed by shippers handling 72 per cent of the fruit by volume. This became effective last December. The California and Arizona agreement of the same type represents 88 per cent of the volume in these states. The Texas agreement was signed by shippers representing 87 per cent. The California and Arizona agreement went into effect the 14th of last December, and the Texas agreement two weeks later.

Plans for co-ordinating these agreements so as to make a master plan for the whole citrus industry will be presented at a conference in Washington next month. With that plan effective, the citrus industry will come under this united, amalgamated program, which will only need the co-operation of the individual growers for shipments, consumption and price to be practically determined by those who are themselves interested in the citrus industry.

(Tomorrow we will show how the grower and the packer can do their part in producing a perfected organization.)

ROLPH NOT TO BE CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

ting me to serve them for a second term as governor and I am confident that they would do so if my illness did not stand in the way.

"Twenty-three years of arduous public service, 19 of them as mayor of San Francisco and approximately four as governor, have left me broken in both health and fortune.

"The loss of fortune has not troubled me greatly nor held me back. But without sound health I cannot undertake the strenuous activities of the campaign or four years more of the intense labor and anxieties of the governorship.

"My physicians warn me that to attempt to do so would be fatal, so, at the end of my present term, I shall retire from public office and shall devote myself to restore my health and provide for those dependent on me.

"I trust that my friends who have supported me so loyally through the years, will continue to stand together for the maintenance of those ideals of public service and those humane standards of government to which, in spite of the imperfections of performance, I have always endeavored to adhere.

"To the extent to which my health hereafter may permit, I expect always to take an interest in public affairs and such advice and assistance as I can give shall ever be at the service of the people."

Colorful Career

In that statement Rolph removed himself from the public life in which he has been a colorful figure since the day he came forward to lead in the rehabilitation of his native city, San Francisco, after its destructive earthquake and fire in 1906.

The citizens recognized Rolph's services by electing him mayor in 1911. He held the office 19 years. His sponsorship of civic improvements won him the name of "Rolph the Builder". He won international attention as the affable, smiling host of the Pan-Pacific exposition. After a previous failure, he won the Republican nomination for governor four years ago and in November of that year was elected as chief executive of the state.

In that office he publicly condoned last year the lynching of two kidnap-slayers in San Jose.

Rolph's withdrawal was followed shortly by the entrance of John Quinn, Los Angeles supervisor, into the gubernatorial race. Quinn conferred with the governor here during the latter's hospital confinement.

Four candidates already were in the field. They are Lieut. Gov. Frank Merriam, State Treasurer Charles Johnson, State Senator Jones of San Jose, and Clara Foltz. Former Governor C. C. Young and Raymond Haight are independent candidates who are registered as Republicans. Rolland A. Vandegrift, director of finance in the Rolph administration, also is considered a possible entry.

JOHN QUINN THROWS HIS HAT IN RING

LOS ANGELES, May 16.—(UP)—The "power trust" became the political target of John R. Quinn today as he announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for governor.

Power corporations "must be forced out of politics," the chairman of the Los Angeles county board of supervisors asserted in his formal announcement of candidacy.

Disclaiming intentions of making "empty promises," Quinn pledged himself, if elected, to work for tax reduction, reorganization of state departments and to "sever permanently the grip of power interests on legislation."

Quinn is a former national commander of the American Legion. He was born in Porterville, July 17, 1889, and is a graduate of the University of California. Headquarters for his campaign will be in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

SCHOOL BOARD VOTES TO ASK FOR H. S. BIDS

meeting, and suggested submitting a series of alternate plans for bids, so that if the original plans ran above the amount available, alternate plans of less cost could be used.

This suggestion was put forth to allay the fears of board members regarding the possibility that, after ordering the plans and calling for bids, they would find themselves confronted by contracts they could not finance.

The vote to authorize the plans adopted was four to one, W. M. Burke casting a "no" vote. Burke's opposition was not directed against the plans or their adoption, but against the order of procedure with construction. He contended that instead of building the main building and auditorium first, with the junior college building to follow, the auditorium should be left to the last, because the need for class-rooms was more pressing than the need for an auditorium.

Architects' Plans

The architects, however, pointed out that the main building itself included 10 class-rooms, which could be increased in number by utilizing the library and study hall for such purposes, and that their plan, as recommended would provide 30 class rooms in all, only six short of the number estimated by Principal D. K. Hammond as being required.

Hammond himself stated that he preferred the plan as recommended by the architects, as being better suited to the educational needs than the construction of the class rooms without the main building. He would be able to get along with the class rooms provided, and supplemental facilities, he said.

This assurance decided the opinion of four members of the board, but Burke retained his doubt as to the wisdom of the course, and opposed Dr. Margarete Baker's motion to proceed as the architects recommended. "We should get the essentials first," he contended. Dr. Baker, Chairman George Wells and R. R. Hays and M. B. Youel voted for the motion.

Separate Bids

Bids will be asked separately upon the $180,000 main building and the junior college building, but both will be undertaken without delay. These bids may be expected to show approximately what the science building will cost, the architects suggested.

Entirely new construction is proposed, the architects declaring that attempts to remodel and rebuild the present structures would be more costly, due particularly to code requirements upon foundations, which would mean virtually tearing the present foundations entirely out.

The science department will be housed in the present junior college building, on the opposite side of the campus, under the new plans. The science department will not be disturbed in its present location until the new building is ready for it, under the plan adopted.

Actual construction probably will not get under way inside of eight weeks, it is estimated, due to the requirement that plans must be approved by the state board of school planning, of which the architect's representative, Hill, was a former member, before bids are asked. The architects estimate that about eight months will be required for completing the buildings, which means that building operations will be in progress during much of the next school term.

The main building, as described yesterday, will include in addition to the auditorium, a library, study hall, little theater and class-rooms.

Cabin in Use

While June said "the men" visited her only three times, the cabin showed evidences of having been used daily, investigators reported.

The trail of one of the kidnapers faded into Chicago where a map was mailed last Thursday with directions leading to the kidnaped girl's recovery. Agents believed the writer had at least one accomplice who remained in Tucson.

All but recovered from her cruel experience and dressed in a pretty white frock and a blue sash, June accompanied her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fernando Robles, into the desert to inspect the corrugated iron cage where she was held captive. Plans for her to re-enter the cage were abandoned when Mrs. Robles broke down and wept at the sight of the "torture chamber."

"If there is a justice these fiends will pay for this," she sobbed. "Even if they are never caught they will be haunted by the knowledge of the way they treated my little girl."

June's father said it was almost impossible to believe she could have survived 19 days captivity in the cage, lightly screened as it was from the boiling rays of the desert sun. Her grandfather, Bernabe Robles, wealthy retired rancher, also was outspoken in his wrath.

June said she saw only two men, one of whom forced her into his car as she was returning home from school April 25. She said the men called each other "Will" and "Bill." One bound her ankle with a chain which was fastened to the cage.

SUPERVISORS WILL ATTEND CONVENTION

Four members of the Orange county board of supervisors will attend the state convention of county supervisors, starting at Santa Cruz May 23, they announced yesterday. Chairman Willard Smith, W. C. Jerome, George Jeffrey and Leroy Lyon will be in attendance. Supervisor John Mitchell does not expect to go, he said.

County Highway Superintendent Nat Neff was authorized by the board to attend the state convention of county surveyors next week also at Santa Cruz, with expenses allowed.

BELGIANS ENTOMBED AFTER MINE BLAST

MONS, Belgium, May 16.—(UP)—Thirty-nine men were entombed today in the Flef de Landbrechies mine near here, and 12 charred bodies were at the surface, after a terrific explosion. Five survivors, rescued before fire made further search impossible, suffered broken limbs and burns.

Fire damp was believed to have caused the explosion. It shattered mine galleries and reverberated through the entire district. Rescuers brought out the five injured. Great stones blocked the galleries and timbers were shattered. It was thought that the mine would have to be sealed.

CITES NEW LAW IN REQUEST FOR JAIL RELEASE

Contending that he is being illegally held in the county jail, having served more than one year of a two-year sentence, Walter Meeks, of Midway City, yesterday applied to Superior court for release on a writ of habeas corpus, and will receive a hearing before Judge H. G. Ames at 1:30 p. m. Friday.

Meeks, who was sentenced January 27, 1933, on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, invokes a new statute, which provides that no defendant can be sentenced to the county jail for more than one year either for any offense, or as a condition of probation. The statute was not in force at the time he was sentenced.

Meeks was jailed after the birth and death of an infant to an 18-year-old Santa Ana girl who was living with him, unwed. The child was born without medical attention, its birth was not reported, and the body was found buried at the rear of premises where Meek and the girl were living with his mother, Mrs. Juda Meeks.

GOVERNMENT IN MOVE TO HALT COAST STRIKE

engineers' union of the San Francisco bay district. Should these two groups walkout, ferry traffic in the bay area would be halted, interfering greatly with the extensive transbay commuting of thousands of workers.

The ferryboatmen's union was to meet today to consider action.

To avert this situation, powerful interests, business and public, addressed pleas to President Roosevelt and the national labor board for immediate intervention. The governors of California, Oregon and Washington personally wired the president, recommending arbitration. They pointed to the setback the national recovery movement was suffering from general disruption of freight and passenger service in the far west.

The strike was called last week from the headquarters here when negotiations over wage demands of the longshoremen collapsed. They want a scale paying $1 an hour for a 30-hour week and $1.50 an hour for overtime.

Frequent outbreaks of violence occurred on the waterfronts of San Francisco, Los Angeles, Portland and Seattle. The most serious was at San Pedro, where a striker was killed and several others were wounded in an attack on a strike-breaker's headquarters.

REVEAL CLARA BOW TO BECOME MOTHER

HOLLYWOOD, May 16.—(UP)—Clara Bow, the "it" girl of the films, it to become a mother, friends said they were advised today.

Her husband, Rex Bell, wired here from their ranch at Nipton, Cal., that they are expecting a child in December.

Not until last Christmas did madcap Clara confide a longing for children. Friends said she told them she was "never happier" than when she brought two small cousins from Brooklyn and entertained them over the holidays.

Bell and Miss Bow were married in Nevada in 1931. They are living at their ranch until their Beverly Hills home is redecorated. Neither is making a picture at present.

EXCHANGE CONTROL BILL UP ON MONDAY

WASHINGTON, May 16.—(UP)—The house rules committee gave right of way to the commodity exchange control bill today after being informed the administration wants action on it this session.

The bill will be taken up next week under a rule limiting debate to three hours.

The decision came after Chairman Jones of the agriculture committee said at a hearing that "the administration is anxious to get this bill through, feeling it desirable as a companion measure to the stock exchange control bill."

The bill, favorably reported last week, gives a federal commission board control over future trading on commodity exchanges.

Hence, when the league council met Monday, the situation hardened rapidly.

It was understood that the big powers—probably including the United States, represented by Hugh R. Fire damp was believed to have caused the explosion. It shattered mine galleries and reverberated through the entire district. Rescuers brought out the five injured. Great stones blocked the galleries and timbers were shattered. It was thought that the mine would have to be sealed.

CITES NEW LAW IN REQUEST FOR JAIL RELEASE

Contending that he is being illegally held in the county jail, having served more than one year of a two-year sentence, Walter Meeks, of Midway City, yesterday applied to Superior court for release on a writ of habeas corpus, and will receive a hearing before Judge H. G. Ames at 1:30 p. m. Friday.

Meeks, who was sentenced January 27, 1933, on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, invokes a new statute, which provides that no defendant can be sentenced to the county jail for more than one year either for any offense, or as a condition of probation. The statute was not in force at the time he was sentenced.

Meeks was jailed after the birth and death of an infant to an 18-year-old Santa Ana girl who was living with him, unwed. The child was born without medical attention, its birth was not reported, and the body was found buried at the rear of premises where Meek and the girl were living with his mother, Mrs. Juda Meeks.

engineers' union of the San Francisco bay district. Should these two groups walkout, ferry traffic in the bay area would be halted, interfering greatly with the extensive transbay commuting of thousands of workers.

The ferryboatmen's union was to meet today to consider action.

To avert this situation, powerful interests, business and public, addressed pleas to President Roosevelt and the national labor board for immediate intervention. The governors of California, Oregon and Washington personally wired the president, recommending arbitration. They pointed to the setback the national recovery movement was suffering from general disruption of freight and passenger service in the far west.

The strike was called last week from the headquarters here when negotiations over wage demands of the longshoremen collapsed. They want a scale paying $1 an hour for a 30-hour week and $1.50 an hour for overtime.

Frequent outbreaks of violence occurred on the waterfronts of San Francisco, Los Angeles, Portland and Seattle. The most serious was at San Pedro, where a striker was killed and several others were wounded in an attack on a strike-breaker's headquarters.

REVEAL CLARA BOW TO BECOME MOTHER

HOLLYWOOD, May 16.—(UP)—Clara Bow, the "it" girl of the films, it to become a mother, friends said they were advised today.

Her husband, Rex Bell, wired here from their ranch at Nipton, Cal., that they are expecting a child in December.

Not until last Christmas did madcap Clara confide a longing for children. Friends said she told them she was "never happier" than when she brought two small cousins from Brooklyn and entertained them over the holidays.

Bell and Miss Bow were married in Nevada in 1931. They are living at their ranch until their Beverly Hills home is redecorated. Neither is making a picture at present.

EXCHANGE CONTROL BILL UP ON MONDAY

WASHINGTON, May 16.—(UP)—The house rules committee gave right of way to the commodity exchange control bill today after being informed the administration wants action on it this session.

The bill will be taken up next week under a rule limiting debate to three hours.

The decision came after Chairman Jones of the agriculture committee said at a hearing that "the administration is anxious to get this bill through, feeling it desirable as a companion measure to the stock exchange control bill."

The bill, favorably reported last week, gives a federal commission board control over future trading on commodity exchanges.

ARMS RACE IS PREDICTED IN EUROPE SOON

privately while talking disarmament.

Hence, when the league council met Monday, the situation hardened rapidly.

It was understood that the big powers—probably including the United States, represented by Hugh R. Wilson, minister to Switzerland—agreed to ask the council to appoint a committee to "follow" the arms question on the chance that the conference might be revived at some later time, when the lions had decided to lie down with the lambs.

Death Notices

A WORD OF COMFORT

One of the hardest trials to face is misunderstanding by those who are nearest and dearest.

Remember that people's failure to understand what you say and do cannot be entirely avoided and that it does no make so much difference after all provided you yourelf know that you are honestly trying to bear your burdens without flinching.

God and your best beloved understand; that is all that matters.

McCAGHERTY—In Tustin, May 15, 1934, Robert E. McCagherty, aged 79 years. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Elon G. Homes of Tustin, at whose home he passed away; Mrs. Ira Mercer of this city, one son, Frank C. McCagherty of Stanton, North Dakota, and four grandchildren. Services will be held Friday, May 18, at 10:30 a. m. from the Church of the Messiah under the direction of the Winbigler Funeral home, followed by interment in Fairhaven cemetery.

FORDER—May 15, 1934, in Los Angeles. Evan Weber Forder, age 35 years. He is survived by his wife, Claire L. Forder; two children, Claire Louise and Walter E., both of Santa Ana; his father, William Forder, of Illinois; one sister, Dorothe Forder, of Hermosa Beach; one brother, Dr. William T. Forder, of Los Angeles; Mr. Forder was a member of Santa Ana fire department; Santa Ana Lodge No. 794 B. P. O. E. and Santa Ana Post No. 131 American Legion. Announcement of funeral later by Harrell and Brown.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends for their kindness and sympathy and for the beautiful flowers which were so deeply appreciated. In tribute to our beloved son, brother, and grandson.

JURY GETS CASE

The case of John J. Carroll, charged with driving while under the influence of liquor near Ocean View school last March 23, went to the jury in Superior Judge James L. Allen's court this morning. The trial started yesterday.

DEATH CLAIMS EVAN FORDER, FIRE FIGHTER

Evan Weber Forder, 35, Santa Ana fireman and veteran of the World War, died at the veterans' hospital in Sawtelle yesterday following a lingering illness.

He had lived in Santa Ana since 1921, and had been a member of the Santa Ana fire department for five years. He also was a member of the Santa Ana volunteer fire department, the Santa Ana American Legion post and the Santa Ana Elks lodge.

A veteran of the World war, he enlisted in the submarine service of the United States navy on December 5, 1917, and was discharged as a first class fireman on November 4, 1919.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Claire L. Forder; two children, Claire Louise and Walter E. Forder, both of Santa Ana; his father, William Forder, of Illinois; one brother, Dr. William T. Forder, of Los Angeles.

Announcement of funeral services will be made later by the Harrell and Brown Funeral home.

LEGISLATURE TO FACE DRIVE ON SOCIAL NEEDS

There will be a greater drive on social government at the next session of the state legislature than ever before in the history of California, Assemblyman Ted Craig of Brea told members of the Orange County Coast association last night in the meeting at the Woman's Club, Costa Mesa.

"We are having it in the nation," said the speaker, "and members of the legislature must be prepared to meet it, too."

Among the things that will be demanded, Craig informed the association, are unemployment insurance and old age pensions. Declaring his belief that most members of the legislature want to see that every one has a chance to work and get food, clothing and shelter, he said the great problem is to get the money to run the government and that the next legislature will have its hands full.

The sales tax has returned more money to coffers of the state than was anticipated he said. There will be an amendment on the November ballot to repeal the sales tax but then the question of balancing the budget will arise. The tax is raising about $96,000,000 every two years and that is in excess of what was expected. Now the legislature must decide whether to cut it to two cents from two and a half or whether to except certain food stuffs. If it is repealed in November then new sources of revenue must be found.

State Senator Nelson T. Edwards of Orange declared that unless there is some change in government looking toward economy that there will be a deficit of $110,000,000 in the state by the middle of the year 1937. The next legislature will be confronted with planning the budget for the biennium from July 1, 1935, to June 30, 1937. There will be a $30,000,000 deficit at the end of the present biennium, he said.

Declaring against resorting to an income tax, Edwards said that that form of revenue drives people from one state to another.

Assemblyman James B. Utt of Tustin, speaking of criticism of bills passed by the last legislature in the earthquake emergency, declared it was not so much the fault of the bills but rather in the enforcement of the laws and declared the main trouble has been a controversy between the architects and the structural engineers.

In order to get through legislation that would provide a possibility of loans for the school districts in the earthquake area it was necessary to satisfy northern legislators to get the bills passed and that is why there were such severe conditions, attention to which has been called by Assistant District Attorney Menton. These conditions provide that where loans are made that the school building and land becomes the property of the state until it has been paid off.

Utt declared that the tax delinquency bill had resulted in $150,000 in property being put back on the tax rolls and that $15,000 in back taxes had been paid up in Orange county.

Menace Of Facism Is Forum Topic

Fascism is organized prejudice and hate; its recruits come from those of low mentality, and it is an actual menace in this country, because Americans are slaves of propaganda—enslaved not at the point of the sword but at the point of the pen.

This comment upon the "Menace of Fascism" was delivered before a meeting of the Progressive Workers association, in Willard school auditorium last evening by Ernest Wooster, local authority upon political philosophy.

Fascism is a development of and a defensive movement against Communism, said Wooster, who sketched the early historical development of conditions that produced both movements. As Communism began to emerge from the disintegraton of established things, due to machine development, and became a menace to law and order, which means protection of property and the existing social order, fearful property owners faced a genuine need for protection of their property, so Fascism was born, declared the speaker.

Ignorance in Power

Fascism is organized, armed ignorance in power, he said. It is a movement for a great, centralized power, and no change in our present forms of government would be required for it to usurp power and control in this country.

Democracy, on the other hand, requires the best educated minds and most highly trained citizenship, such as that from the northern rim of European nations and the English-speaking people, who, he said, seem to be best able to disagree and quarrel without going to war over it.

Three courses are open to the American people, if the forces of Fascism become sufficiently powerful to seek control, according to Wooster. They can either remain passive, embrace Fascism, or set up organized resistance.

Fascism and Communism are not opposites, Wooster stated. Fascism and Democracy are the opposites.

Temporary Control

Fascism, if it did gain control, would be only temporary in America, Wooster believed, unless some sort of benevolent Fascism was developed, that would keep its disciples in some fashion such as a dole. "The world can be bought for $4 or $5 a day," he remarked.

"But otherwise, the American people never would remain satisfied with one thing for long. Fascism would have to be sustained by propaganda. It is itself seeking to sustain a condition and an order that is crumbling under it. Fascism is an organization of men trying to stop a force. As well try to stop an earthquake," he declared.

Various members of his audience joined in the discussion, condemning Fascism and other isms, and agreeing that democracy should and must be retained in America.

"The easiest way to combat Fascism," suggested Wooster, "would be to employ its own methods. Raise the issue of nationalism. Accuse it of being an importation from the nations of Europe—which it is. It is a propaganda organization feeding upon hate and racial prejudice."

PRESIDENT OPPOSED TO SPECIAL AGENCY

WASHINGTON, May 16.—(UP)—President Roosevelt feels that administration of the stock exchange control measure should rest with the federal trade commission instead of a special agency as proposed in the senate bill, the White House revealed today.

The president informed conferees today that he favored the trade commission because it already has machinery to carry out the work.

Secondly, he pointed out that it would save money to add two additional members to the commission instead of slecting an independent body of five as the senate bill proposed.

Mr. Roosevelt also went on record as being defnitely in favor of the marginal requirements in the house bill.

APPEAL MADE TO BOARD FOR WORK INSTEAD OF CHARITY

Typifying the attitude of unemployed men of Orange county whose sole desire is to work and be given an opportunity to earn their living, C. A. Brintnall, of the Garden Grove cooperative association, appealed to members of the SERA committee at a meeting yesterday afternoon to give men work so they would not be forced to seek charity to support their families and feed their children.

Brintnall told a story of how he has sought work of any kind for the county so that he could feel that he is earning his living and is not accepting charity.

"I'd like to repair old furniture in the courthouse or do anything else so I would not have to come to the welfare department for food," he said.

The plight of men who want work, even if through a work relief program, instead of charity was exemplified in Brintnall's appeal.

Other unemployed persons who attended the meeting told stories of how they have been unable to obtain enough staples and other foods through their cooperative associations, and how they are forced to go without the kind of food they need and enjoy.

In addition to other projects submitted, the Garden Grove unit yesterday submitted a project seeking government aid to stock their commissary with staple foods, such as flour, rice, beans, salt, pepper, corn meal, rolled oats, canned milk, syrup, sugar, lard, bacon and oleo.

ROBERT M'CAGHERTY DIES AT HIS HOME

Robert E. McCagherty, 79, resident of Santa Ana and Tustin for the past 10 years, died at his home in Tustin yesterday following a short illness. He had been employed by the Tustin Hills Packing company for many years.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Elon G. Homes, of Tustin, at whose home he passed away, and Mrs. Ira Mercer, of Santa Ana; one son, Frank C. McCagherty, of Stanton, North Dakota, and four grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held from the Church of the Messiah, Episcopal, Santa Ana, with the Rev. W. J. Hatter, rector of the church, officiating.

Interment will be made in Fairhaven cemetery under direction of the Winbigler Funeral home.

MAN INJURED IN TRACTOR ACCIDENT

Pinned between a tractor and haybaler on the highway near San Clemente, Robert Crawford, 39, Hemet, was critically injured yesterday afternoon and is confined in the Santa Ana Valley hospital.

Crawford was driving the tractor and haybaler along the highway when the tractor got out of control and he was caught between the heavy vehicles. An hour was required to liberate him before he could be taken to the hospital in an ambulance. Those assisting in the rescue were Police Chief T. F. Murphine, Dan Mulherron, Chamber of Commerce president and Councilman Earl Van Bon Horst of San Clemente.

The injured man received several broken ribs and severe bruises and cuts but his condition was reported as greatly improved today.

Chickens Stolen At Four Ranches

Chicken stealing in the Oceanview district was reported Monday and Tuesday to sheriff's officers, with four poultry farms reporting losses.

The pens of Ed Dotson were stripped and 35 or 40 hens were stolen. About 20 hens were taken from the ranch of G. H. Potts while Mrs. Grace Wolmesdorf lost about 10, all that were in the pens.

At the R. Williams home, a dog caused a disturbance and evidently frightened away the burglars after two hens had been stolen. It is believed the thieves used a truck.

Police News

R. Dejonghe, Irvine ranch farmer, reported to sheriff's office today that two hay forks, eight mule lines, rope and chains with a total value of $20.80, were stolen from his ranch either Monday or Tuesday.

Francisco Melendrez, arrested for simple assault on a warrant from Judge D. G. Dodge, was arraigned yesterday and had his trial set for tomorrow at 1:30 p. m. He was released without bail.

DISPOSAL OF MATERIAL FROM HARBOR SOUGHT

Appointed by the county supervisors as "contact" man in effecting arrangements for disposal of materials dredged from Newport bay under the new federal-county harbor project, Nat Neff, head of the highway department, today was preparing to enter negotiations for sale of such materials.

The county, he said, contemplates receipts of about five cents per cubic yard of dredged materials. All such arrangements, however, will be subject to approval by the U. S. army engineers.

Neff today sent a proposal to the Irvine company for the disposal of about a half-million cubic yards of materials on lands of that company adjacent to the bay. Such an amount, he estimated, would fill in about 91 acres of land.

EXPECT CROWD TO HEAR VOORHIS TALK

H. Jerry Voorhis, popular lecturer and head of the Voorhis School for Boys at San Dimas, is speaking tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock at the People's Forum, Third and Bush streets, under the auspices of the End Poverty league.

Voorhis sees two ways lying ahead of America, the way of force, suppression of opposition, dictatorship and almost certain war, both civil and international, and the way of steady progress enforced and insisted upon by an ever increasing organization of all sorts of American folk and carried out by trusted leaders in whose hands considerable powers may at times be entrusted, but who must at all times be responsible to the people and their democractically expressed will, according to H. F. Kenny, director of the forum.

Voorhis is well known in Orange county and a large crowd is expected to hear him speak on the subject "Shall We Solve the Unemployment Problem or Not?" There will be no charge for admission.

COAST GROUP ASKS NAME FOR COAST HIGHWAY

Joining hands with San Diego county to give the coast route a name that will help to identify it, the Orange County Coast association last night at Costa Mesa adopted, with only one dissenting vote a resolution suggesting that the highway from the Mexican border be known as "Pacific Highway." The suggestion came from the San Diego county planning commission. The route is known locally as Coast highway. According to Jesse A. Armitage of Sunset Beach it is known as Roosevelt highway in Oregon and Washington and in a large portion of California. The only section of Orange county where it is known by the latter name is in Dana Point.

A resolution also was adopted, at the suggestion of Dan Mulherron of San Clemente, chairman of the roads committee, recommending that the state highway commission repair the Julian-Cain' Springs highway in San Diego county, because it will make a much shorter route to and from Imperial county points for residents of the coast section.

Lew H. Wallace of Newport Beach reported it had been estimated that the rock work on the jetties at Newport harbor would begin about July 1. At his suggestion a vote of thanks was given to Senator Hiram Johnson for his help in getting the federal appropriation for the harbor job.

All members were invited to join the auto caravan which will make a tour to Riverside on Monday of next week, starting from Serra at 9 a. m., going by way of the new Ortega highway and returning through Santa Ana. The purpose of the trip is to advertise the new route to the coast.

A WORD OF COMFORT

One of the hardest trials to face is misunderstanding by those who are nearest and dearest.

Remember that people's failure to understand what you say and do cannot be entirely avoided and that it does no make so much difference after all provided you yourelf know that you are honestly trying to bear your burdens without flinching.

God and your best beloved understand; that is all that matters.

McCAGHERTY—In Tustin, May 15, 1934, Robert E. McCagherty, aged 79 years. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Elon G. Homes of Tustin, at whose home he passed away; Mrs. Ira Mercer of this city, one son, Frank C. McCagherty of Stanton, North Dakota, and four grandchildren. Services will be held Friday, May 18, at 10:30 a. m. from the Church of the Messiah under the direction of the Winbigler funeral home, followed by interment in Fairhaven cemetery.

FORDER—May 15, 1934, in Los Angeles, Evan Weber Forder, age 35 years. He is survived by his wife, Claire L. Forder; two children, Claire Louise and Walter E., both of Santa Ana; his father, William Forder, of Illinois; one sister, Dorothe Forder, of Hermosa Beach; one brother, Dr. William T. Forder, of Los Angeles; Mr. Forder was a member of Santa Ana fire department; Santa Ana Lodge No. 794 B. P. O. E. and Santa Ana Post No. 131 American Legion. Announcement of funeral later by Harrell and Brown.

DEATH CLAIMS EVAN FORDER, FIRE FIGHTER

Evan Weber Forder, 35, Santa Ana fireman and veteran of the World War, died at the veterans' hospital in Sawtelle yesterday following a lingering illness.

He had lived in Santa Ana since 1921, and had been a member of the Santa Ana fire department for five years. He also was a member of the Santa Ana volunteer fire department, the Santa Ana American Legion post and the Santa Ana Elks lodge.

A veteran of the World war, he enlisted in the submarine service of the United States navy on December 5, 1917, and was discharged as a first class fireman on November 4, 1919.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Claire L. Forder; two children, Claire Louise and Walter E. Forder, both of Santa Ana; his father, William Forder, of Illinois; one brother, Dr. William T. Forder, of Los Angeles.

Announcement of funeral services will be made later by the Harrell and Brown Funeral home.

LEGISLATURE TO FACE DRIVE ON SOCIAL NEEDS

There will be a greater drive on social government at the next session of the state legislature than ever before in the history of California, Assemblyman Ted Craig of Brea told members of the Orange County Coast association last night in the meeting at the Woman's Club, Costa Mesa.

"We are having it in the nation," said the speaker, "and members of the legislature must be prepared to meet it, too."

Among the things that will be demanded, Craig informed the association, are unemployment insurance and old age pensions. Declaring his belief that most members of the legislature want to see that every one has a chance to work and get food, clothing and shelter, he said the great problem is to get the money to run the government and that the next legislature will have its hands full.

The sales tax has returned more money to coffers of the state than was anticipated he said. There will be an amendment on the November ballot to repeal the sales tax but then the question of balancing the budget will arise. The tax is raising about $96,000,000 every two years and that is in excess of what was expected. Now the legislature must decide whether to cut it to two cents from two and a half or whether to except certain food stuffs. If it is repealed in November then new sources of revenue must be found.

State Senator Nelson T. Edwards of Orange declared that unless there is some change in government looking toward economy that there will be a deficit of $110,000,000 in the state by the middle of the year 1937. The next legislature will be confronted with planning the budget for the biennium from July 1, 1935, to June 30, 1937. There will be a $30,000,000 deficit at the end of the present biennium, he said.

Declaring against resorting to an income tax, Edwards said that that form of revenue drives people from one state to another.

Assemblyman James B. Utt of Tustin, speaking of criticism of bills passed by the last legislature in the earthquake emergency, declared it was not so much the fault of the bills but rather in the enforcement of the laws and declared the main trouble has been a controversy between the architects and the structural engineers.

In order to get through legislation that would provide a possibility of loans for the school districts in the earthquake area it was necessary to satisfy northern legislators to get the bills passed and that is why there were such severe conditions, attention to which has been called by Assistant District Attorney Menton. These conditions provide that where loans are made that the school building and land becomes the property of the state until it has been paid off.

Utt declared that the tax delinquency bill had resulted in $150,000 in property being put back on the tax rolls and that $15,000 in back taxes had been paid up in Orange county.

Menace Of Facism Is Forum Topic

Fascism is organized prejudice and hate; its recruits come from those of low mentality, and it is an actual menace in this country, because Americans are slaves of propaganda—enslaved not at the point of the sword but at the point of the pen.

This comment upon the "Menace of Fascism" was delivered before a meeting of the Progressive Workers association, in Willard school auditorium last evening by Ernest Wooster, local authority upon political philosophy.

Fascism is a development of and a defensive movement against Communism, said Wooster, who sketched the early historical development of conditions that produced both movements. As Communism began to emerge from the disintegraton of established things, due to machine development, and became a menace to law and order, which means protection of property and the existing social order, fearful property owners faced a genuine need for protection of their property, so Fascism was born, declared the speaker.

Ignorance in Power

Fascism is organized, armed ignorance in power, he said. It is a movement for a great, centralized power, and no change in our present forms of government would be required for it to usurp power and control in this country.

Democracy, on the other hand, requires the best educated minds and most highly trained citizenship, such as that from the northern rim of European nations and the English-speaking people, who, he said, seem to be best able to disagree and quarrel without going to war over it.

Three courses are open to the American people, if the forces of Fascism become sufficiently powerful to seek control, according to Wooster. They can either remain passive, embrace Fascism, or set up organized resistance.

Fascism and Communism are not opposites, Wooster stated. Fascism and Democracy are the opposites.

Temporary Control

Fascism, if it did gain control, would be only temporary in America, Wooster believed, unless some sort of benevolent Fascism was developed, that would keep its disciples in some fashion such as a dole. "The world can be bought for $4 or $5 a day," he remarked.

"But otherwise, the American people never would remain satisfied with one thing for long. Fascism would have to be sustained by propaganda. It is itself seeking to sustain a condition and an order that is crumbling under it. Fascism is an organization of men trying to stop a force. As well try to stop an earthquake," he declared.

Various members of his audience joined in the discussion, condemning Fascism and other isms, and agreeing that democracy should and must be retained in America.

"The easiest way to combat Fascism," suggested Wooster, "would be to employ its own methods. Raise the issue of nationalism. Accuse it of being an importation from the nations of Europe—which it is. It is a propaganda organization feeding upon hate and racial prejudice."

PRESIDENT OPPOSED TO SPECIAL AGENCY

WASHINGTON, May 16.—(UP)—President Roosevelt feels that administration of the stock exchange control measure should rest with the federal trade commission instead of a special agency as proposed in the senate bill, the White House revealed today.

The president informed conferees today that he favored the trade commission because it already has machinery to carry out the work.

Secondly, he pointed out that it would save money to add two additional members to the commission instead of slecting an independent body of five as the senate bill proposed.

Mr. Roosevelt also went on record as being definitely in favor of the marginal requirements in the house bill.

APPEAL MADE TO BOARD FOR WORK INSTEAD OF CHARITY

Typifying the attitude of unemployed men of Orange county whose sole desire is to work and be given an opportunity to earn their living, C. A. Brintnall, of the Garden Grove cooperative association, appealed to members of the SERA committee at a meeting yesterday afternoon to give men work so they would not be forced to seek charity to support their families and feed their children.

Brintnall told a story of how he has sought work of any kind for the county so that he could feel that he is earning his living and is not accepting charity.

"I'd like to repair old furniture in the courthouse or do anything else so I would not have to come to the welfare department for food," he said.

The plight of men who want work, even if through a work relief program, instead of charity was exemplified in Brintnall's appeal.

Other unemployed persons who attended the meeting told stories of how they have been unable to obtain enough staples and other foods through their cooperative associations, and how they are forced to go without the kind of food they need and enjoy.

In addition to other projects submitted, the Garden Grove unit yesterday submitted a project seeking government aid to stock their commissary with staple foods, such as flour, rice, beans, salt, pepper, corn meal, rolled oats, canned milk, syrup, sugar, lard, bacon and oleo.

ROBERT M'CAGHERTY DIES AT HIS HOME

Robert E. McCagherty, 79, resident of Santa Ana and Tustin for the past 10 years, died at his home in Tustin yesterday following a short illness. He had been employed by the Tustin Hills Packing company for many years.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Elon G. Homes, of Tustin, at whose home he passed away, and Mrs. Ira Mercer, of Santa Ana; one son, Frank C. McCagherty, of Stanton, North Dakota, and four grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held from the Church of the Messiah, Episcopal, Santa Ana, with the Rev. W. J. Hatter, rector of the church, officiating.

Interment will be made in Fairhaven cemetery under direction of the Winbigler Funeral home.

MAN INJURED IN TRACTOR ACCIDENT

Pinned between a tractor and haybaler on the highway near San Clemente, Robert Crawford, 39, Hemet, was critically injured yesterday afternoon and is confined in the Santa Ana Valley hospital.

Crawford was driving the tractor and haybaler along the highway when the tractor got out of control and he was caught between the heavy vehicles. An hour was required to liberate him before he could be taken to the hospital in an ambulance. Those assisting in the rescue were Police Chief T. F. Murphine, Dan Mulherron, Chamber of Commerce president and Councilman Earl Van Bon Horst of San Clemente.

The injured man received several broken ribs and severe bruises and cuts but his condition was reported as greatly improved today.

Chickens Stolen At Four Ranches

Chicken stealing in the Oceanview district was reported Monday and Tuesday to sheriff's officers, with four poultry farms reporting losses.

The pens of Ed Dotson were stripped and 35 or 40 hens were stolen. About 20 hens were taken from the ranch of G. H. Potts while Mrs. Grace Wolmesdorf lost about 10, all that were in the pens.

At the R. Williams home, a dog caused a disturbance and evidently frightened away the burglars after two hens had been stolen. It is believed the thieves used a truck.

Police News

R. Dejonghe, Irvine ranch farmer, reported to sheriff's office today that two hay forks, eight mule lines, rope and chains with a total value of $29.80, were stolen from his ranch either Monday or Tuesday.

Francisco Melendrez, arrested for simple assault on a warrant from Judge D. G. Dodge, was arraigned yesterday and had his trial set for tomorrow at 1:30 p. m. He was released without bail.

DISPOSAL OF MATERIAL FROM HARBOR SOUGHT

Appointed by the county supervisors as "contact" man in effecting arrangements for disposal of materials dredged from Newport bay under the new federal-county harbor project, Nat Neff, head of the highway department, today was preparing to enter negotiations for sale of such materials.

The county, he said, contemplates receipts of about five cents per cubic yard of dredged materials. All such arrangements, however, will be subject to approval by the U. S. army engineers.

Neff today sent a proposal to the Irvine company for the disposal of about a half-million cubic yards of materials on lands of that company adjacent to the bay. Such an amount, he estimated, would fill in about 91 acres of land.

EXPECT CROWD TO HEAR VOORHIS TALK

H. Jerry Voorhis, popular lecturer and head of the Voorhis School for Boys at San Dimas, is speaking tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock at the People's Forum, Third and Bush streets, under the auspices of the End Poverty league.

Voorhis sees two ways lying ahead of America, the way of force, suppression of opposition, dictatorship and almost certain war, both civil and international, and the way of steady progress enforced and insisted upon by an ever increasing organization of all sorts of American folk and carried out by trusted leaders in whose hands considerable powers may at times be entrusted, but who must at all times be responsible to the people and their democractically expressed will, according to H. F. Kenny, director of the forum.

Voorhis is well known in Orange county and a large crowd is expected to hear him speak on the subject "Shall We Solve the Unemployment Problem or Not?" There will be no charge for admission.

COAST GROUP ASKS NAME FOR COAST HIGHWAY

Joining hands with San Diego county to give the coast route a name that will help to identify it, the Orange County Coast association last night at Costa Mesa adopted, with only one dissenting vote a resolution suggesting that the highway from the Mexican border be known as "Pacific Highway." The suggestion came from the San Diego county planning commission. The route is known locally as Coast highway. According to Jesse A. Armitage of Sunset Beach it is known as Roosevelt highway in Oregon and Washington and in a large portion of California. The only section of Orange county where it is known by the latter name is in Dana Point.

A resolution also was adopted, at the suggestion of Dan Mulherron of San Clemente, chairman of the roads committee, recommending that the state highway commission repair the Julian-Cain' Springs highway in San Diego county, because it will make a much shorter route to and from Imperial county points for residents of the coast section.

Lew H. Wallace of Newport Beach reported it had been estimated that the rock work on the jetties at Newport harbor would begin about July 1. At his suggestion a vote of thanks was given to Senator Hiram Johnson for his help in getting the federal appropriation for the harbor job.

All members were invited to join the auto caravan which will make a tour to Riverside on Monday of next week, starting from Serra at 9 a.m., going by way of the new Ortega highway and returning through Santa Ana. The purpose of the trip is to advertise the new route to the coast.

BOARD VOTES ON CONTRACT FOR PRISONERS

The county supervisors yesterday voted to submit a bid to the federal government, at the latter's request, for the contract of housing aliens in the county jail for the federal immigration service.

On a motion by W. C. Jerome, the board voted to submit a bid identical with the contract under which other federal prisoners are housed in the local jail, said to be 65 cents per day per prisoner.

The board also fixed June 12 as the date for an election at Garden Grove on the proposed annexation of territory to Orange County Water Works district No. 3. A strip of territory entirely surrounding the district has petitioned to be annexed, and no protests were filed at the hearing conducted by the board today.

As another routine step in the matter of acquiring the government loan on the $640,000 Newport harbor bonds, Chairman Willard Smith was authorized to sign a certificate of the purpose for which the bond money will be expended. This lists details of the proposed harbor jetty construction and dredging of the channel.

Failure To Pay Wages Brings 75 Day Bastile Term

Charged with petty theft involveing failure to pay wages, Albert Tribolett, 40, Los Angeles, has been booked at the county jail to serve a 75-day jail term.

Judge D. C. McCharles of Tustin sentenced Tribolett to pay $150 or go to jail. Chief John Stanton brought him to the jail when he failed to post the fine.

TRAINING OF CHILDREN FOR WAR ADVOCATED

Advocating the training of children for war, Homer Chaillaux, department commander of the state American Legion, spoke to a large group of Legionnaires at Placentia Legion hall yesterday afternoon at a meeting sponsored by the Placentia Chamber of Commerce.

He said the R. O. T. C. gave valuable training to youths through its military training.

He asked pacifists to join with the Legion in a plan for elimination of war, which he said was to give war profiteers five per cent of the profit in manufacture of war materials, the balance to go to the government to carry on the war; to freeze prices at the declaration of war; and to draft capital and labor in time of war, the same way that men are drfted.

Discussing the American Legion Americanism program, the speaker told of the interest of his organization in Boy Scouts, Sons of the American Legion, education, and other movements.

He decried the fact that more money is spent in the United States on tobacco, as much on cosmetics, as is expended for education. "And our new luxury," he added, referring to alcoholic beverages, "probably will cost 10 times as much."

Chaillaux criticized the American Civil Liberties Union for projection of Communists. He told of the Legion program to deport aliens and to give citizens of the nation employment in preference to aliens. He pointed out that the Legion aided in restoring veteran benefits reduced in the Economy Bill.

Following the luncheon meeting in Placentia Legion hall, Chaillaux addressed school children at the grammar school, teachers and parents of children at a P.-T. A. meeting. He "entertained" the children with stories of heroism and how brave soldiers died for their country during the World War. He urged the children to participate in the Boy Scout, Girl Ccout, Campfire and other wholesome activities and to enjoy their schools and be good Americans.

After the talk at the grammar school, Department Commander Chaillaux told a representative of The Register that personally he does not approve of the attacks Dr. John Waters, chairman of the Americanism committee of Anaheim Legion post, has made on prominent citizens of Orange county, in stating that they are "reds."

PROPOSED CODE APPROVED BY BEAN GROWERS

Approval of the national bean growers' marketing agreement was voiced in a vote taken at a county-wide meeting of Orange county bean growers, attended by about 100 growers, held last night at the Santa Ana Fremont school under the sponsorship of the bean department of the Orange County Farm Bureau.

At the meeting, which was open to all bean growers of the county, a vote taken showed 38 in favor.

The marketing agreement, which and 12 opposed, all of those present not exercising their vote.

The marketing agreemnt, which was explained by two speakers, R. L. Churchill, manager of the California Lima Bean Growers' association and by Dr. W. C. Oakey, of the University of California, provides for a minimum selling price and sets up a bean control board similar in nature to the walnut control board.

J. A. Murdy jr., chairman of the Farm Bureau bean department, presided at the session.

RELIEF GROUP ASKS FOR MORE ROOM. WORKERS

Additional personnel and larger quarters for the handling of relief work in Orange county is needed, the county supervisors were informed late yesterday in a communication from the county emergency relief committee, issued through its chairman, J. K. McDonald, of Huntington Beach.

The supervisors went into a "huddle" with County Welfare Director Byron Curry to discuss the matter, and later announced that they had taken the question of providing larger quarters under advisement.

Such quarters should be located as near as possible to the courthouse annex, where the present quarters are housed, said the relief committee letter.

The county committee has approved additional workers, stating that the present force is unable to cope with the "tremendously increased relief load" and keep abreast of the work. Approval of the state relief committee has been indicated, it was said.

ROAD FUNDS GIVEN TO SAN CLEMENTE

An appropriation of $250 to the City of San Clemente, to be used upon city street maintenance, was authorized by the county supervisors late yesterday from the auto license funds received from the state.

The appropriation is similar to others made to various cities of the county from time to time, under a board policy of defraying a percentage of the cost of street improvements upon certain designated through streets in the cities.

Police Check Up On Prowler Report

A prowler who entered the home of Mrs. Mildred Manlove, 152 South Pine street, Orange, last night about 8:45 o'clock, apparently had a "hunch" that police were on the way after him, for he disappeared before their arrival, leaving empty handed.

Mrs. Manlove reported that she saw the burglar as she was returning home with a woman friend. She reported to officers, but when they arrived, the thief had disappeared.

KIWANIANS MEET

ANAHEIM, May 16.—Speaking yesterday before members of the Anaheim Kiwanis club Miss Mary Kerr, representative of the Better America Federation, declared that "the reds have already caused 71 strikes of real moment in California this year costing $1,250,000." Financial headquarters for the small, highly organized groups working in this state, she declared, is in New York.

MEN FACE COURT ON MORALS COUNT

Three men accused of contributing to the delinquency of an 18-year-old Anaheim girl, went on trial today before a jury in Superior Judge H. G. Ames' court.

The trio of defendants are V. W. Baker, Sam Ross and Loren Finley, who are defended by Attorney Z. B. West, of Santa Ana, while Deputy District Attorney Leo Friis represents the state.

The offense was alleged to have been committed April 12. Mrs. Alma Cox, of Anaheim, also awaiting trial on a similar charge, in connection with the same girl, it being charged that she submitted the girl to the offenses charged against the three men.

CRIMINAL LAW SUBJECT FOR WOMEN VOTERS

A study of the six measures pertaining to criminal law will be launched by the League of Women Voters at a meeting to be held Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A., it was announced today.

Mrs. J. D. Campbell, legislative chairman, will discuss as many of the measures as time will permit. Time also will be allotted for discussion from the floor, according to Mrs. Ora K. Heine, president of the league.

"The administration of criminal justice in America will improve only in proportion to the degree to which we introduce the best administrative organization and practice into our police departments," Mrs. Heine said, "as well as into prosecutor's offices, penal institutions and particularly our crime prevention agencies."

Everyone interested was cordially invited to attend the meeting.

Suicide Attempt Fails; Recovering

Recovering from the effects of inhaling illuminating gas at his home in Tustin Monday, Almon Atkins, 49, is confined in the Orange County hospital.

Atkins was found by neighbors and rushed to the hospital in a semi-conscious condition. He was alone when he attempted to end his life, as his wife was visiting in San Diego. Ill health was cited as the reason for his act.

BOARD VOTES ON CONTRACT FOR PRISONERS

The county supervisors yesterday voted to submit a bid to the federal government, at the latter's request, for the contract of housing aliens in the county jail for the federal immigration service.

On a motion by W. C. Jerome, the board voted to submit a bid identical with the contract under which other federal prisoners are housed in the local jail, said to be 65 cents per day per prisoner.

The board also fixed June 12 as the date for an election at Garden Grove on the proposed annexation of territory to Orange County Water Works district No. 3. A strip of territory entirely surrounding the district has petitioned to be annexed, and no protests were filed at the hearing conducted by the board today.

As another routine step in the matter of acquiring the government loan on the $640,000 Newport harbor bonds, Chairman Willard Smith was authorized to sign a certificate of the purpose for which the bond money will be expended. This lists details of the proposed harbor jetty construction and dredging of the channel.

Failure To Pay Wages Brings 75 Day Bastile Term

Charged with petty theft involving failure to pay wages, Albert Tribolett, 40, Los Angeles, has been booked at the county jail to serve a 75-day jail term.

Judge D. C. McCharles of Tustin sentenced Tribolett to pay $150 or go to jail. Chief John Stanton brought him to the jail when he failed to post the fine.

TRAINING OF CHILDREN FOR WAR ADVOCATED

Advocating the training of children for war, Homer Chaillaux, department commander of the state American Legion, spoke to a large group of Legionnaires at Placentia Legion hall yesterday afternoon at a meeting sponsored by the Placentia Chamber of Commerce.

He said the R. O. T. C. gave valuable training to youths through its military training.

He asked pacifists to join with the Legion in a plan for elimination of war, which he said was to give war profiteers five per cent of the profit in manufacture of war materials, the balance to go to the government to carry on the war; to freeze prices at the declaration of war; and to draft capital and labor in time of war, the same way that men are drfted.

Discussing the American Legion Americanism program, the speaker told of the interest of his organization in Boy Scouts, Sons of the American Legion, education, and other movements.

He decried the fact that more money is spent in the United States on tobacco, as much on cosmetics, as is expended for education. "And our new luxury," he added, referring to alcoholic beverages, "probably will cost 10 times as much."

Chaillaux criticized the American Civil Liberties Union for protection of Communists. He told of the Legion program to deport aliens and to give citizens of the nation employment in preference to aliens. He pointed out that the Legion aided in restoring veteran benefits reduced in the Economy Bill.

Following the luncheon meeting in Placentia Legion hall, Chaillaux addressed school children at the grammar school, teachers and parents of children at a P.-T. A. meeting. He "entertained" the children with stories of heroism and how brave soldiers died for their country during the World War. He urged the children to participate in the Boy Scout, Girl Scout, Campfire and other wholesome activities and to enjoy their schools and be good Americans.

After the talk at the grammar school, Department Commander Chaillaux told a representative of The Register that personally he does not approve of the attacks Dr. John Waters, chairman of the Americanism committee of Anaheim Legion post, has made on prominent citizens of Orange county, in stating that they are "reds."

PROPOSED CODE APPROVED BY BEAN GROWERS

Approval of the national bean growers' marketing agreement was voiced in a vote taken at a county-wide meeting of Orange county bean growers, attended by about 100 growers, held last night at the Santa Ana Fremont school under the sponsorship of the bean department of the Orange County Farm Bureau.

At the meeting, which was open to all bean growers of the county, a vote taken showed 38 in favor and 12 opposed, all of those present not exercising their vote.

The marketing agreemnt, which was explained by two speakers, R. L. Churchill, manager of the California Lima Bean Growers' association and by Dr. W. C. Oakley, of the University of California, provides for a minimum selling price and sets up a bean control board similar in nature to the walnut control board.

J. A. Murdy jr., chairman of the Farm Bureau bean department, presided at the session.

RELIEF GROUP ASKS FOR MORE ROOM, WORKERS

Additional personnel and larger quarters for the handling of relief work in Orange county is needed, the county supervisors were informed late yesterday in a communication from the county emergency relief committee, issued through its chairman, J. K. McDonald, of Huntington Beach.

The supervisors went into a "huddle" with County Welfare Director Byron Curry to discuss the matter, and later announced that they had taken the question of providing larger quarters under advisement.

Such quarters should be located as near as possible to the courthouse annex, where the present quarters are housed, said the relief committee letter.

The county committee has approved additional workers, stating that the present force is unable to cope with the "tremendously increased relief load" and keep abreast of the work. Approval of the state relief committee has been indicated, it was said.

ELECTRIC RANGE JUBILEE NOW IN FULL SWING

Inaugurated as one of the most complete cooperative merchandising enterprises ever undertaken by the electrical dealers of Southern California, the present "electric range jubilee" now under way in full swing, offers prospective electric range users the opportunity to participate advantageously in an industry-wide event, according to R. E. Bacon, division manager of the Southern California Edison company, Ltd.

"We feel that in this new program the electrical dealers have a great deal to offer the public, a new and fully automatic electric range at a price that is tremendously attractive," Bacon said. "The Edison company itself, of course, is not selling this merchandise directly but is putting the full strength of its commercial division behind the plan to cooperate with the electrical range dealers.

"The company, as a part of this cooperative campaign and like the electrical dealers in its territory, has arranged an attractive display of the new ranges in its office here. The public is invited to visit the Edison office at any time to see and learn all about the new ranges, and I am sure that all of the electrical dealers extend the same invitation, regardless of whether their visitors are contemplating the immediate purchase of an electric range.

"Southern California householders have the distinction of being among the leaders of the nation in the use of electric energy for domestic service, for cooking, refrigeration, water heating as well as for lighting and the operation of the small convenient appliances such as the toaster, waffle iron and mixer.

"A noteworthy feature of this 'electric range jubilee' program is that the unusual low price includes the complete installation of the range in most homes."

DELEGATES TO DISABLED VET MEET RETURN

Delegates returning from the thirteenth annual state convention of Disabled American Veterans of the World War, held at Sacramento to report the finest conclave in the history of the organization, featured by the unanimity of the entire assemblage, according to Harry Pickard, Jack Fisher chapter commander.

"The following officers were elected for the coming year without contest," he said: "Charles J. McCarthy, Fresno, commander; Hugh Harrell, Huntington Park, senior vice commander; Manford Bennett, Carruthers, chaplain, and Frank W. Patton, commander of the fourth district, in which the Jack Fisher chapter is included.

"A strong Americanization program was adopted to adhere to the Constitution of the nation; a legislative program including the cancellation of interest on adjusted service certificates; permancy of ratings; elimination of the causative factor; and several items to correct inequalities of the present laws. A program of publicity was unanimously adopted to have the disabled veteran's viewpoint presented to the public to offset the vicious propaganda which in the past, and expected in the future, has been carried in all the subsidized press to the villification of the men who are suffering war connected disabilities."

Headed by Pickard, the following members of the convention delegation have returned: Jules W. Markel, Earl B. Hawks, David R. Day, V. L. Brown, Herbert Thwaite, Frank D. Corey and Dee Thatcher.

Pickard announces that at the next meeting, May 23, several national officers of the D.A.V. organization will be present and a large attendance is expected to hear a report of the convention proceedings. At this meeting new officers for the coming year will be installed.

ATTAIN HIGH SPEED

Only five men have ever driven an automobile faster than 200 miles an hour — Sir Malcolm Campbell, of England, holder of the present land speed mark of 272.108 miles an hour; Major H. O. D. Segrave, of England; Ray Keech ,Frank Lockhart and Lee Bible, all three Americans.

NEWSBOY WINS

AIRPLANE RACES TO BE HELD MEMORIAL DAY IN LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, May 16.—Thrills in abundance are promised aviation enthusiasts on Wednesday afternoon May 30 at the Memorial Day races, to be staged by the West Coast Air Racing Association at that organization's speedway at Dycer Airport, Western avenue south of Manchester in Los Angeles.

Plans for the event were announced this week by Milton L. Gold, Managing director.

Starting at 1 o'clock in the afternoon 11 events are to be staged on a three mile course, which will necessitate planes flying at no greater height than 40 feet. These events include a 110 horse power women's race; 110 horse power men's race; 200 horse power race for men pilots; a 350 horse power race for men pilots; a motion picture stunt pilots race; and a model R race for specially built and licensed racing ships.

The races are fully sanctioned by the National Aeronautic Association. Grandstand seats to accommodate thousands are being erected.

PRIZE CONTEST ENTERS SECOND HALF OF MONTH

Typical of the carriers on The Register, the great American newsboy has been elevated to a new dignity by the recent action of the Art Directors Club at its annual exhibit of advertising art, in awarding its honor medal to the lively photograph of a typical newsboy.

In competition with all the professional beauties, male and female, who have decorated the advertising pages for the past year, this wholesome looking youngster was singled out by the jury of awards. It symbolizes the enthusiasm and zest with which Register carriers are securing points in the big prize contest during the month of May.

The spirit of The Register newsboys was well exemplified Monday night when the kidnaping extra was issued. Scores of the newsboys, many of whom are working in the free prize contest, answered the request for volunteers to sell the papers throughout the city and county, and left their studies and pleasures to carry the news of the latest kidnaping development to an interested public.

John Freitas, Orange 5, is leading the suburban division with 30,000 points, with R. M. Caples, Orange 8, next with 28,000, Everett Brace, Costa Mesa 2, third with 26,000 and Carl Davis, Orange 6, fourth with 24,000. Other leaders are Laverne Rees, Orange 3, 22,000; Alex Grierson, Orange 3, 18,000; James Jones, La Habra, 18,000; and Virgil Frazier, Garden Grove 1, 16,000.

Dale Heinly, Santa Ana carrier 22, leads the city contest with 17,000 points, with Carl Mustol, 55, and James Watters, 7, tied for second with 14,500. Duane Teel, 43, and Horace Hopkins, 56, have 12,000 each and Lemoyne Strickland, 38, has 9000.

The winnig 10 carriers in each division will receive valuable prizes, starting with a $35 bicycle and concluding with a round trip ticket to Catalina Island, in addition to regular commissions for subscriptions.

NOTED ORGANIST TO PRESENT RECITAL

CLAREMONT, May 16. — On Thursday evening, May 17, Porter Heaps, organist of the University of Chicago, will present an organ recital in Bridges auditorium here. Heaps is in Southern California on a year's appointment at the University of Redlands.

A graduate of Northwestern university, where he took special work in music, Heaps continued his musical studies in France under Marcel Dupre, and is today considered one of the finest younger organists in the country. Besides his appointment at the University of Chicago, where he plays regularly on the fine Skinner organ in the chapel, Heaps is organist of the First Congregational church of Chicago.

His Claremont program is as follows: Piece Heroique (Franck); Andante and Scherzo, Symphony IV (Widor); Prelude and Fugue in A Minor (Bach); Berceuse and Finale, "Firebird" (Stravinsky); Seven Casual Brevities (Leach); Jagged Peaks in the Starlight (Clokey); and Fast and Sinister, Symphony in G Major (Sowerby).

The public is cordially invited to this recital, which is presented without admission charge, although there will be opportunity for a voluntary silver offering to be applied toward the expense involved. The event is being presented under the auspices of Claremont colleges.

ELECTRIC RANGE JUBILEE NOW IN FULL SWING

Inaugurated as one of the most complete cooperative merchandising enterprises ever undertaken by the electrical dealers of Southern California, the present "electric range jubilee" now under way in full swing, offers prospective electric range users the opportunity to participate advantageously in an industry-wide event, according to R. E. Bacon, division manager of the Southern California Edison company, Ltd.

"We feel that in this new program the electrical dealers have a great deal to offer the public, a new and fully automatic electric range at a price that is tremendously attractive," Bacon said. "The Edison company itself, of course, is not selling this merchandise directly but is putting the full strength of its commercial division behind the plan to cooperate with the electrical range dealers.

"The company, as a part of this cooperative campaign and like the electrical dealers in its territory, has arranged an attractive display of the new ranges in its office here. The public is invited to visit the Edison office at any time to see and learn all about the new ranges, and I am sure that all of the electrical dealers extend the same invitation, regardless of whether their visitors are contemplating the immediate purchase of an electric range.

"Southern California householders have the distinction of being among the leaders of the nation in the use of electric energy for domestic service, for cooking, refrigeration, water heating as well as for lighting and the operation of the small convenient appliances such as the toaster, waffle iron and mixer.

"A noteworthy feature of this 'electric range jubilee' program is that the unusual low price includes the complete installation of the range in most homes."

DELEGATES TO DISABLED VET MEET RETURN

Delegates returning from the thirteenth annual state convention of Disabled American Veterans of the World War, held at Sacramento to report the finest conclave in the history of the organization, featured by the unanimity of the entire assemblage, according to Harry Pickard, Jack Fisher chapter commander.

"The following officers were elected for the coming year without contest," he said: "Charles J. McCarthy, Fresno, commander; Hugh Harrell, Huntington Park, senior vice commander; Manford Bennett, Carruthers, chaplain, and Frank W. Patton, commander of the fourth district, in which the Jack Fisher chapter is included.

"A strong Americanization program was adopted to adhere to the Constitution of the nation; a legislative program including the cancellation of interest on adjusted service certificates; permancy of ratings; elimination of the causative factor; and several items to correct inequalities of the present laws. A program of publicity was unanimously adopted to have the disabled veteran's viewpoint presented to the public to offset the vicious propaganda which in the past, and expected in the future, has been carried in all the subsidized press to the villification of the men who are suffering war connected disabilities."

Headed by Pickard, the following members of the convention delegation have returned: Jules W. Markel, Earl B. Hawks, David R. Day, V. L. Brown, Herbert Thwaite, Frank D. Corey and Dee Thatcher.

Pickard announces that at the next meeting, May 23, several national officers of the D.A.V. organization will be present and a large attendance is expected to hear a report of the convention proceedings. At this meeting new officers for the coming year will be installed.

ATTAIN HIGH SPEED

Only five men have ever driven an automobile faster than 200 miles an hour — Sir Malcolm Campbell, of England, holder of the present land speed mark of 272.108 miles an hour; Major H. O. D. Segrave, of England; Ray Keech ,Frank Lockhart and Lee Bible, all three Americans.

NEWSBOY WINS

AIRPLANE RACES TO BE HELD MEMORIAL DAY IN LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, May 16.—Thrills in abundance are promised aviation enthusiasts on Wednesday afternoon May 30 at the Memorial Day races, to be staged by the West Coast Air Racing Association at that organization's speedway at Dycer Airport, Western avenue south of Manchester in Los Angeles.

Plans for the event were announced this week by Milton L. Gold, Managing director.

Starting at 1 o'clock in the afternoon 11 events are to be staged on a three mile course, which will necessitate planes flying at no greater height than 40 feet. These events include a 110 horse power women's race; 110 horse power men's race; 200 horse power race for men pilots; a 350 horse power race for men pilots; a motion picture stunt pilots race; and a model R race for specially built and licensed racing ships.

The races are fully sanctioned by the National Aeronautic Association. Grandstand seats to accommodate thousands are being erected.

PRIZE CONTEST ENTERS SECOND HALF OF MONTH

Typical of the carriers on The Register, the great American newsboy has been elevated to a new dignity by the recent action of the Art Directors Club at its annual exhibit of advertising art, in awarding its honor medal to the lively photograph of a typical newsboy.

In competition with all the professional beauties, male and female, who have decorated the advertising pages for the past year, this wholesome looking youngster was singled out by the jury of awards. It symbolizes the enthusiasm and zest with which Register carriers are securing points in the big prize contest during the month of May.

The spirit of The Register newsboys was well exemplified Monday night when the kidnaping extra was issued. Scores of the newsboys, many of whom are working in the free prize contest, answered the request for volunteers to sell the papers throughout the city and county, and left their studies and pleasures to carry the news of the latest kidnaping development to an interested public.

John Freitas, Orange 5, is leading the suburban division with 30,000 points, with R. M. Caples, Orange 8, next with 28,000, Everett Brace, Costa Mesa 2, third with 26,000 and Carl Davis, Orange 6, fourth with 24,000. Other leaders are Laverne Rees, Orange 2, 22,000; Alex Grierson, Orange 3, 18,000; James Jones, La Habra, 18,000; and Virgil Frazier, Garden Grove 1, 16,000.

Dale Heinly, Santa Ana carrier 22, leads the city contest with 17,000 points, with Carl Mustol, 55, and James Watters, 7, tied for second with 14,500. Duane Teel, 43, and Horace Hopkins, 56, have 12,000 each and Lemoyne Strickland, 38, has 9000.

The winnig 10 carriers in each division will receive valuable prizes, starting with a $35 bicycle and concluding with a round trip ticket to Catalina Island, in addition to regular commissions for subscriptions.

NOTED ORGANIST TO PRESENT RECITAL

CLAREMONT, May 16. — On Thursday evening, May 17, Porter Heaps, organist of the University of Chicago, will present an organ recital in Bridges auditorium here. Heaps is in Southern California on a year's appointment at the University of Redlands.

A graduate of Northwestern university, where he took special work in music, Heaps continued his musical studies in France under Marcel Dupre, and is today considered one of the finest younger organists in the country. Besides his appointment at the University of Chicago, where he plays regularly on the fine Skinner organ in the chapel, Heaps is organist of the First Congregational church of Chicago.

His Claremont program is as follows: Piece Heroique (Franck); Andante and Scherzo, Symphony IV (Widor); Prelude and Fugue in A Minor (Bach); Berceuse and Finale, "Firebird" (Stravinsky); Seven Casual Brevities (Leach); Jagged Peaks in the Starlight (Clokey); and Fast and Sinister, Symphony in G Major (Sowerby).

The public is cordially invited to this recital, which is presented without admission charge, although there will be opportunity for a voluntary silver offering to be applied toward the expense involved. The event is being presented under the auspices of Claremont colleges.

WATER DEPOSIT FOR LA HABRA IS GIVEN BOOST

LA HABRA, May 16.—Deposits for water service in the city of La Habra were raised by the city council at their meeting Tuesday evening from $2.50 for each service to $3. This action was taken by the passage of resolution No. 211.

A second resolution was passed in accordance with a request from the League of municipalities, requesting the federal government to put into effect at once a comprehensive unemployment relief plan, carrying out a works program and providing for the furnishing of certain material for worth while projects.

L. M. Hopper appeared before the council for the La Habra Business Men's Association, asking the board to make it a misdemeanor for pedlers and solicitors to call at the doors of homes in La Habra. He also asked the use of the city truck for transporting waste material to market. The waste material would be collected and taken to the markets and sold in an effort to raise money for the signs which the association is planning to erect at the entrances to the city. No action was taken.

Mrs. Margaret Bowles appeared before the council with a petition signed by eight property owners on East First avenue, asking some action by the council to have A. L. Colley remove a cow which he has been keeping there. Mrs. Bowles was supported in this stand by H. M. Jones, also of that area, and both declared the cow a nuisance. Mr. Jones also complained of a one cylinder gasoline engine which he said keeps running much of the time and which is located near the Jones home. The city attorney was instructed to write a letter to Colley. The council is making plans to revise the ordinance concerning the keeping of livestock in the city.

Mrs. Nordstrom Is Named Club Head

LAGUNA BEACH, May 16.—Word was received yesterday by Laguna Beach artists that Mrs. Alma Nordstrom, well known here as a summer resident, has been elected president of the Woman's City club in Los Angeles. She is the wife of Algot Nordstrom, well known Southern California artist, who is head of the art department of a Los Angeles high school.

PLACENTIA P.-T. A. ELECTS OFFICERS FOR NEXT TERM; FASHION SHOW IS PRESENTED

PLACENTIA, May 16.—New officers were elected at the Placentia Parent-Teacher association meeting yesterday. A fashion show was presented by the domestic science classes of the schools in the auditorium of the Bradford school. Homer Chaillaux, state commander of the American Legion, spoke on "Americanism."

Mrs. V. L. Adams was elected president, Mrs. Harry Griffen, vice president; Mrs. Lawrence Lemke, recording secretary; Miss Lois Schroeder, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. L. G. Elvy, treasurer.

Mrs. Purl Odom presided. She introduced Mrs. Lewis Edwardson who introduced Miss Mabel Anderson, head of the domestic science department, who presented the style show, with girls of the upper grade wearing their dresses they had made.

Jeanne Jacobsen and Patricia Adams opened the program, describing, through a little skit, the work the girls have done.

Betty Proud presented the sixth grade of the Bradford street school. Nellie Loitz presented the seventh grade girls of the Bradford school.

Sarah Aquirre presented the sixth and seventh grade of the Baker street school, and Concha Carrillo the sixth, seventh and eighth grade girls in a costume dance. Louise Judd gave a detailed story of the work the girls are doing for graduation.

Miss Anderson presented Genevieve Dunham, who made the posters for the show, and the girls who won prizes in the dress contest, and thanked Mrs. Vera Crooke, Miss Margaret Dean, Mrs. Gladys Kiolstad and Mrs. Florence Arnold for their help in putting on the show. At the close of the program the eighth grade girls served punch and wafers at a little booth on the lawn.

Ralph Essert, superintendent of schools, talked briefly on "Know Your School." His son, Sanford, sang "The Builder" and "Wagon Wheels."

DOUBLE OYSTER OUTPUT IN BAY DURING SEASON

NEWPORT BEACH, May 16. — Plans for the development of the Newport Beach area were given an added impetus yesterday with the announcement by D. V. Boone, local oysterman, that he expects the local output of oysters to be doubled this year and quadrupled by next.

The oyster farm, located in the upper bay above the bridge, is the result of experiments started last year, when Boone and R. B. Hoffman of the Marine Salvage Company, planted a number of bivalves obtained from Mexico, in the belief that the waters of Newport Bay were suited to their development. Tests conducted recently indicate that they are spawning.

At the present time Boone and Hoffman plan to put in spat collectors, in the form of wire netting, and expand the beds to cover 150 acres. The oysters, native to the South Pacific coast, are of the olympia variety. At present the output is around 2000 sacks a year, each sack containing from two and a half to three gallons of oysters.

New capital is being interested in the project, and the successful tests indicate that by next year the industry will have grown to an $80,000 business. It will employ from 10 to 15 men this year.

PLAN FOR PENSION OUTLINED AT MESA

COSTA MESA, May 16.—The Townsend Old Age Revolving Pension plan was explained at a meeting held in the social hall of the Community church Monday night with 250 persons present. John T. Nichols, manager of the Santa Ana headquarters of the organization was the chief speaker of the evening. Other speakers were C. J. MacDonald of Long Beach, and E. O. Colbeck, of Santa Ana.

Dr. J. W. Wherry acted as chairman to the meeting and introduced the speakers. Arrangements for the meeting were made by the local Lions club as a service to the community.

Announcement was made that a meeting of like nature will be held in the Brea-Olinda Union High school tonight, another at the Fullerton Union High school tomorrow night and another at the K. of P. hall in Anaheim on Thursday evening.

INSTALLATION CONDUCTED BY B. & P. W. CLUB

SAN CLEMENTE, May 16. — Formal installation of officers and a program of current events and musical numbers featured the San Clemente-San Juan Capistrano Business and Professional Women's club dinner at Travaglini's cafe Monday evening.

The new officers, Miss Betty Joyce, president; Miss Margaret Nelson, vice president; Miss Helen Moyer, corresponding secretary; Miss Margery Cooper, recording secretary and Miss Pauline Neddermeyer, treasurer, were installed by Mrs. Eleanor Clark, former president of the local group and past district president.

Mrs. Genevieve Boettger, retiring president, after thanking the members for their support during the year, presented each of the retiring officers and the program chairman with a federation key ring.

Mrs. Boettger was presented with a federation pin, the gift of the club. The presentation was made by Miss Hazel Guilbert, program chairman. The new president, Miss Joyce, will attend the state federation meeting in Los Angeles May 19 and 20.

The final meeting will be held in the home of Miss Margaret Nelson at Dana Point May 28. The president's report of the convention will be given at this meeting and committee appointments will be announced.

Four seniors from San Juan Capistrano high school were introduced by Miss Hazel Guilbert and entertained with a group of songs. "Loch Loman" was sung by Edward Lomo; Fred Stoffel sang "The Desert Song." "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep" was sung by Adolph Nieblas and "Trees" by Myron Guilbert.

SAN CLEMENTE SCHOOL PUPILS GIVE PROGRAM

SAN CLEMENTE, May 16.—All school children of San Clemente were presented in the diversified program sponsored by the Parent-Teacher association at the grammar schol auditorium recently. The flag salute, led by Boy Scouts, and the P.-T. A. song were opening numbers.

Children from the kindergarten of Mrs. David Kinney and the primary grades appeared in two groups of song and recitations. The remainder of the program follows: one-act plays, "Helping the Government" and "Opinion of Perfect Boys" by children of fourth and fifth grades; "Little Mothers," and action song, by nine little girls; "Arrah Go on," a character song and dance, by Eileen Barry, Donnie Divel and Charles Sites; songs, by Duane Peterson, Katherine Stowell and a duet by Ollidean Jeanes and Norman Adair represented the intermediate grades. Donnie Divel, a 'cello number, "The Cuckoo." Barbara Hogeland made her first appearance in a violin number, "Spring Time."

"Ramona," a solo, by Mary Grant; dance, "Wooden Soldiers," by Esther Creighton; "Tannhauser March," violin solo, by Stanley Gajeski; "Key of Heaven," a duet, by Helen Abell and Eileen Barry, and a Spanish dance, "Jarabe Tapito," by Gloria Rettke and Jackie Robertson were numbers presenting the seventh and eighth grades.

At the afternoon meeting of the organization Mrs. Fred Oathout was installed as present; Mrs. H. A. Johnson, vice president; Mrs. H. C. Milner, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Leo Smith, historian. Mrs. O. R. Robertson was the installing officer. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Alex Gajeski and Mrs. Oathout.

Rousselle Opens Office At Balboa

NEWPORT BEACH, May 16. — Stating that "there is no reason why Newport Beach should not be the white spot of the Pacific coast," A. B. Rousselle, president of the Newport Harbor Chamber of commerce, has moved his real estate office from Santa Ana and has taken quarters with the firm of Jordan and Twist on Central avenue in Balboa.

Rousselle, an enthusiastic backer of development of Newport harbor, stated yesterday that the forthcoming harbor work and consequent investment in the area, makes Newport Beach the most promising field in the entire Southern California area. He has made his home here for some time.

334-Pound Bass Hooked Off H. B.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, May 16. —The early season fishing from the pier here and from the barge off shore is exceeding expectations according to fishermen. Halibut, barracuda, bass, sea trout and other game fish are plentiful.

The fishing season is enlivened almost daily with catches of huge black sea bass. One of the largest of the season was caught yesterday by P. A. Debb, veteran fisherman of Seal Beach. Debb landed one that weighed 334 pounds.

$75,000 LAGUNA HIGH SCHOOL BOND PLAN RECEIVES SUPPORT

LAGUNA BEACH, May 16. — Twenty-five representatives of Laguna Beach organizations, meeting last night in the kindergarten of the grammar school at the invitation of the board of education, voted unanimously to support the $75,000 bond issue at the special election called for June 5, in order that a high school may be established in Laguna Beach in September.

Members of the board made it plain, however, that if the bond issue fails to carry that they will use their powers for taxation for the construction of temporary buildings and that the plan to establish the high school will not be altered.

President John C. Gibson of the school board presided. The plan proposed is to use the present grammar school building for the high school and to purchase six acres, adjoining the school property on the south, to be used for added facilities for the sports program. Also it is proposed to purchase two and one-half acres of ground on Park avenue, across from the present grammar school site, on which a new grammar school will be erected at a cost not to exceed $50,000. This building would be of frame and stucco, one story high, that will come within the state law and be of class "E" construction.

President Gibson said a survey shows that within three years the high school enrollment in Laguna Beach will be at least 250 pupils. The cost to the taxpayers will be practically the same as it now is costing to educate the high school pupils at Tustin, but the city will benefit from the fact that the payroll of between $15,000 and $20,000 for teachers will be spent in Laguna Beach, it was stated. Money now being used to transport pupils to Tustin, estimated at more than $15,000 per year, can be used for education instead of gasoline, it was pointed out. It also was claimed that the pupils will get more individual attention.

President Gibson pointed out that under a ruling of the attorney general the Tustin union high school district will be allowed to release the Laguna Beach district from paying its share of the school bonds, estimated at $70,000. A contract exists between the two districts to that effect. If there is any question about the matter is probably will be decided by a friendly suit between the two districts, it was said.

Under the plan proposed, the auditorium of the grammar school would be used for both high school and grammar school assemblies. Students of the freshman, sophomore and junior classes will be obliged to attend school in Laguna Beach in the fall, but the seniors will be given a choice of attending in this city or Tustin.

No plans have been prepared for the proposed new grammar school building but the board has written to a number of architects and would welcome plans from any architect.

PLAY, MUSICAL NUMBERS GIVEN IN PLACENTIA

PLACENTIA, May 16.—More than 100 attended the meeting of Placentia Round Table Monday night, when husbands of members were special guests. A dinner preceded the meeting and was served by girls of the domestic science department of the grammar school.

The program opened with an address of welcome by Mrs. Leon T. Gillilan and a response by Frank Rospaw. Mrs. Melvin Salvesen introduced the program, which included a group of numbers by the Musical Arts octet of Santa Ana, the members including Holly Lash Visel, Irma May, Sallie Lee Scales, Edith Cornell, Marie Bishop, Bess Nalle, Cecile Willits, June Burns, Ruth Armstrong, director. In addition to musical numbers the group gave a short playlet.

Soprano solos included "Iris" and "Will You Remember Me." Contralto solos included "The Old Ark's Moving" and "Chloe."

The ensemble numbers included "The Star," "Believe Me if All Those Endeaving Young Charms", "Songs My Mother Taught Me," "Now Is the Time of May," "So Goodbye," "Dinah," "The Bitterness of Love," "Smiling Through" and "Take Joy Home."

C. OF C. NOT TO TAKE PART IN TOWNSHIP PLAN

YORBA LINDA, May 16.—Because the discussion of members of Yorba Linda Chamber of Commerce tended to show that the efforts of the day are to consolidate rather than to divide political divisions, members agreed Monday night to take no particularly active part in forming a proposed township to be composed of Placentia, Yorba Linda and Olinda district, following the outline of the school districts, to be withdrawn from Fullerton township.

H. A. Casparie presided at the dinner meeting where the subject was discussed. The committee A. R. Marshburn, A. B. McDavid and C. E. Simmons, was continued to watch developments of any withdrawal plan to be ready to act for the protection of the Yorba Linda district.

Bill Queal announced the Valencia Orange festival at Fullerton and P. J. Ton announced Yorba Linda Farm center meeting for May 21, at the Woman's clubhouse.

COUNTY COWBOYS AID L. B. PLAYERS

LAGUNA BEACH, May 16.—Orange county cowboys have contributed freely of their "wild west" trappings for the production of "The Stampede," a melodrama of the Texas cattle country, to be produced at the Community club tonight and Saturday night of this week and Saturday night of next.

Director John B. Hughes had his play all set when he suddenly realized that to give the proper atmosphere he needed "chaps" and saddles and boots and bridles of an ancient vintage. Hughes appealed to Wayman K. Johnson of the Los Amigos Riding club. In 24 hours he had enough stuff to outfit seven cowboys and one cowgirl. What he didn't have in his own stables Johnson had succeeded in borrowing from well known riders in the county.

WATER DEPOSIT FOR LA HABRA IS GIVEN BOOST

LA HABRA, May 16.—Deposits for water service in the city of La Habra were raised by the city council at their meeting Tuesday evening from $2.50 for each service to $3. This action was taken by the passage of resolution No. 211.

A second resolution was passed in accordance with a request from the League of municipalities, requesting the federal government to put into effect at once a comprehensive unemployment relief plan, carrying out a works program and providing for the furnishing of certain material for worth while projects.

L. M. Hopper appeared before the council for the La Habra Business Men's Association, asking the board to make it a misdemeanor for pediers and solicitors to call at the doors of homes in La Habra. He also asked the use of the city truck for transporting waste material to market. The waste material would be collected and taken to the markets and sold in an effort to raise money for the signs which the association is planning to erect at the entrances to the city. No action was taken.

Mrs. Margaret Bowles appeared before the council with a petition signed by eight property owners on East First avenue, asking some action by the council to have A. L. Colley remove a cow which he has been keeping there. Mrs. Bowles was supported in this stand by H. M. Jones, also of that area, and both declared the cow a nuisance. Mr. Jones also complained of a one cylinder gasoline engine which he said keeps running much of the time and which is located near the Jones home. The city attorney was instructed to write a letter to Colley. The council is making plans to revise the ordinance concerning the keeping of livestock in the city.

Mrs. Nordstrom Is Named Club Head

LAGUNA BEACH, May 16.—Word was received yesterday by Laguna Beach artists that Mrs. Alma Nordstrom, well known here as a summer resident, has been elected president of the Woman's City club in Los Angeles. She is the wife of Algot Nordstrom, well known Southern California artist, who is head of the art department of a Los Angeles high school.

PLACENTIA P.-T. A. ELECTS OFFICERS FOR NEXT TERM; FASHION SHOW IS PRESENTED

PLACENTIA, May 16.—New officers were elected at the Placentia Parent-Teacher association meeting yesterday. A fashion show was presented by the domestic science classes of the schools in the auditorium of the Bradford school. Homer Chaillaux, state commander of the American Legion, spoke on "Americanism."

Mrs. V. L. Adams was elected president, Mrs. Harry Griffen, vice president; Mrs. Lawrence Lemke, recording secretary; Miss Lois Schroeder, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. L. G. Elvy, treasurer.

Mrs. Purl Odom presided. She introduced Mrs. Lewis Edwardson who introduced Miss Mabel Anderson, head of the domestic science department, who presented the style show, with girls of the upper grade wearing their dresses they had made.

Jeanne Jacobsen and Patricia Adams opened the program, describing, through a little skit, the work the girls have done.

Betty Proud presented the sixth grade of the Bradford street school. Nellie Loitz presented the seventh grade girls of the Bradford school.

Sarah Aquirre presented the sixth and seventh grade of the Baker street school, and Concha Carrillo the sixth, seventh and eighth grade girls in a costume dance. Louise Judd gave a detailed story of the work the girls are doing for graduation.

Miss Anderson presented Genevieve Dunham, who made the posters for the show, and the girls who won prizes in the dress contest, and thanked Mrs. Vera Crooke, Miss Margaret Dean, Mrs. Gladys Kiolstad and Mrs. Florence Arnold for their help in putting on the show. At the close of the program the eighth grade girls served punch and wafers at a little booth on the lawn.

Ralph Essert, superintendent of schools, talked briefly on "Know Your School." His son, Sanford, sang "The Builder" and "Wagon Wheels."

DOUBLE OYSTER OUTPUT IN BAY DURING SEASON

NEWPORT BEACH, May 16. — Plans for the development of the Newport Beach area were given an added impetus yesterday with the announcement by D. V. Boone, local oysterman, that he expects the local output of oysters to be doubled this year and quadrupled by next.

The oyster farm, located in the upper bay above the bridge, is the result of experiments started last year, when Boone and R. B. Hoffman of the Marine Salvage Company, planted a number of bivalves obtained from Mexico, in the belief that the waters of Newport Bay were suited to their development. Tests conducted recently indicate that they are spawning.

At the present time Boone and Hoffman plan to put in spat collectors, in the form of wire netting, and expand the beds to cover 150 acres. The oysters, native to the South Pacific coast, are of the olympia variety. At present the output is around 2000 sacks a year, each sack containing from two and a half to three gallons of oysters.

New capital is being interested in the project, and the successful tests indicate that by next year the industry will have grown to an $80,000 business. It will employ from 10 to 15 men this year.

PLAN FOR PENSION OUTLINED AT MESA

COSTA MESA, May 16.—The Townsend Old Age Revolving Pension plan was explained at a meeting held in the social hall of the Community church Monday night with 250 persons present. John T. Nichols, manager of the Santa Ana headquarters of the organization was the chief speaker of the evening. Other speakers were C. J. MacDonald of Long Beach, and E. O. Colbeck, of Santa Ana.

Dr. J. W. Wherry acted as chairman to the meeting and introduced the speakers. Arrangements for the meeting were made by the local Lions club as a service to the community.

INSTALLATION CONDUCTED BY B. & P. W. CLUB

SAN CLEMENTE, May 16. — Formal installation of officers and a program of current events and musical numbers featured the San Clemente-San Juan Capistrano Business and Professional Women's club dinner at Travaglini's cafe Monday evening.

The new officers, Miss Betty Joyce, president; Miss Margaret Nelson, vice president; Miss Helen Moyer, corresponding secretary; Miss Margery Cooper, recording secretary and Miss Pauline Neddermeyer, treasurer, were installed by Mrs. Eleanor Clark, former president of the local group and past district president.

Mrs. Genevieve Boettger, retiring president, after thanking the members for their support during the year, presented each of the retiring officers and the program chairman with a federation key ring.

Mrs. Boettger was presented with a federation pin, the gift of the club. The presentation was made by Miss Hazel Guilbert, program chairman. The new president, Miss Joyce, will attend the state federation meeting in Los Angeles May 19 and 20.

The final meeting will be held in the home of Miss Margaret Nelson at Dana Point May 28. The president's report of the convention will be given at this meeting and committee appointments will be announced.

Four seniors from San Juan Capistrano high school were introduced by Miss Hazel Guilbert and entertained with a group of songs. "Loch Loman" was sung by Edward Lomo; Fred Stoffel sang "The Desert Song." "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep" was sung by Adolph Nieblas and "Trees" by Myron Guilbert.

SAN CLEMENTE SCHOOL PUPILS GIVE PROGRAM

SAN CLEMENTE, May 16.—All school children of San Clemente were presented in the diversified program sponsored by the Parent-Teacher association at the grammar schol auditorium recently. The flag salute, led by Boy Scouts, and the P.-T. A. song were opening numbers.

Children from the kindergarten of Mrs. David Kinney and the premary grades appeared in two groups of song and recitations. The remainder of the program follows: one-act plays, "Helping the Government" and "Opinion of Perfect Boys" by children of fourth and fifth grades; "Little Mothers," and action song, by nine little girls; "Arrah Go on," a character song and dance, by Eileen Barry, Donnie Divel and Charles Sites; songs, by Duane Peterson, Katherine Stowell and a duet by Olildean Jeanes and Norman Adair represented the intermediate grades. Donnie Divel, a 'cello number, "The Cuckoo." Barbara Hogeland made her first appearance in a violin number, "Spring Time."

"Ramona," a solo, by Mary Grant; dance, "Wooden Soldiers," by Esther Creighton; "Tannhauser March," violin solo, by Stanley Gajeski; "Key of Heaven," a duet, by Helen Abell and Eileen Barry, and a Spanish dance, "Jarabe Tapito," by Gloria Rettke and Jackie Robertson were numbers presenting the seventh and eighth grades.

At the afternoon meeting of the organization Mrs. Fred Oathout was installed as present; Mrs. H. A. Johnson, vice president; Mrs. H. C. Milner, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Leo Smith, historian. Mrs. O. R. Robertson was the installing officer. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Alex Gajeski and Mrs. Oathout.

Rousselle Opens Office At Balboa

NEWPORT BEACH, May 16. — Stating that "there is no reason why Newport Beach should not be the white spot of the Pacific coast," A. B. Rousselle, president of the Newport Harbor Chamber of commerce, has moved his real estate office from Santa Ana and has taken quarters with the firm of Jordan and Twist on Central avenue in Balboa.

Rousselle, an enthusiastic backer of development of Newport harbor, stated yesterday that the forthcoming harbor work and consequent investment in the area, makes Newport Beach the most promising field in the entire Southern California area. He has made his home here for some time.

334-Pound Bass Hooked Off H. B.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, May 16. —The early season fishing from the pier here and from the barge off shore is exceeding expectations according to fishermen. Halibut, barracuda, bass, sea trout and other game fish are plentiful.

The fishing season is enlivened almost daily with catches of huge black sea bass. One of the largest of the season was caught yesterday by P. A. Debb, veteran fisherman of Seal Beach. Debb landed one that weighed 334 pounds.

$75,000 LAGUNA HIGH SCHOOL BOND PLAN RECEIVES SUPPORT

LAGUNA BEACH, May 16. — Twenty-five representatives of Laguna Beach organizations, meeting last night in the kindergarten of the grammar school at the invitation of the board of education, voted unanimously to support the $75,000 bond issue at the special election called for June 5, in order that a high school may be established in Laguna Beach in September.

Members of the board made it plain, however, that if the bond issue fails to carry that they will use their powers for taxation for the construction of temporary buildings and that the plan to establish the high school will not be altered.

President John C. Gibson of the school board presided. The plan proposed is to use the present grammar school building for the high school and to purchase six acres, adjoining the school property on the south, to be used for added facilities for the sports program. Also it is proposed to purchase two and one-half acres of ground on Park avenue, across from the present grammar school site, on which a new grammar school will be erected at a cost not to exceed $50,000. This building would be of frame and stucco, one story high, that will come within the state law and be of class "E" construction.

President Gibson said a survey shows that within three years the high school enrollment in Laguna Beach will be at least 250 pupils. The cost to the taxpayers will be practically the same as it now is costing to educate the high school pupils at Tustin, but the city will benefit from the fact that the payroll of between $15,000 and $20,000 for teachers will be spent in Laguna Beach, it was stated. Money now being used to transport pupils to Tustin, estimated at more than $15,000 per year, can be used for education instead of gasoline, it was pointed out. It also was claimed that the pupils will get more individual attention.

President Gibson pointed out that under a ruling of the attorney general the Tustin union high school district will be allowed to release the Laguna Beach district from paying its share of the school bonds, estimated at $70,000. A contract exists between the two districts to that effect. If there is any question about the matter is probably will be decided by a friendly suit between the two districts, it was said.

Under the plan proposed, the auditorium of the grammar school would be used for both high school and grammar school assemblies. Students of the freshman, sophomore and junior classes will be obliged to attend school in Laguna Beach in the fall, but the seniors will be given a choice of attending in this city or Tustin.

No plans have been prepared for the proposed new grammar school building but the board has written to a number of architects and would welcome plans from any architect.

PLAY, MUSICAL NUMBERS GIVEN IN PLACENTIA

PLACENTIA, May 16.—More than 100 attended the meeting of Placentia Round Table Monday night, when husbands of members were special guests. A dinner preceded the meeting and was served by girls of the domestic science department of the grammar school.

The program opened with an address of welcome by Mrs. Leon T. Gillilan and a response by Frank Rospaw. Mrs. Melvin Salveson introduced the program, which included a group of numbers by the Musical Arts octet of Santa Ana, the members including Holly Lash Visel, Irma May, Sallie Lee Scales, Edith Cornell, Marie Bishop, Bess Nalle, Cecile Willits, June Burns, Ruth Armstrong, director. In addition to musical numbers the group gave a short playlet.

Soprano solos included "Iris" and "Will You Remember Me." Contralto solos included "The Old Ark's Moving" and "Chloe."

The ensemble numbers included "The Star," "Believe Me If All Those Endeaving Young Charms", "Songs My Mother Taught Me," "Now Is the Time of May," "So Goodbye," "Dinah," "The Bitterness of Love," "Smiling Through" and "Take Joy Home."

C. OF C. NOT TO TAKE PART IN TOWNSHIP PLAN

YORBA LINDA, May 16.—Because the discussion of members of Yorba Linda Chamber of Commerce tended to show that the efforts of the day are to consolidate rather than to divide political divisions, members agreed Monday night to take no particularly active part in forming a proposed township to be composed of Placentia, Yorba Linda and Olinda district, following the outline of the school districts, to be withdrawn from Fullerton township.

H. A. Casparie presided at the dinner meeting where the subject was discussed. The committee A. R. Marshburn, A. B. McDavid and C. E. Simmons, was continued to watch developments of any withdrawal plan to be ready to act for the protection of the Yorba Linda district.

Bill Queal announced the Valencia Orange festival at Fullerton and P. J. Ton announced Yorba Linda Farm center meeting for May 21, at the Woman's clubhouse.

SILVER

The urchin who has been putting these silver tacks in the chairs of Messrs Roosevelt and Morgenthau is the old Republican bad boy, Borah, of Idaho.

There never was a better tack man in politics. He has devoted a long career to trying to make statesmen cry out in the particular tone he wants them to. Right now he wants to make silver-voiced tenors out of them, and his tack method is having an effect inside.

It is probably not the primary reason for the silver remonetization compromise now being worked out, but it is an important phase.

TACK NO. 1

Borah went to the recent White House silver conference with his tongue in his cheek. He had been steering away from the White House because he doubted whether the administration was warmly favorable to silver. His silver associates persuaded him to come along just this one time.

As soon as he was inside the door, and before dropping his hat, he piped up to ask the President:

"Are you ready to declare remonetization of silver to be a fixed policy?"

It was a question designed to put President Roosevelt on the spot. The President hesitated a moment, looked around, then beamed the Roosevelt smile on the silverites, saying:

"Yes, I am."

That is what started all the trouble.

TRICKERY?

The President said plainly at that conference that he was willing to let Congress fix the policy by law but wanted full leeway to carry it out when and as he desired.

The silver boys rushed back to their offices and started drafting bills starting off: "It is the hereby declared to be the fixed policy of Congress that silver," etc., etc.

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau brought up the administration bill later. It started off: "It is the sense of Congress" that such-and-such should be done for silver.

The silverites blew up. They thought Morgenthau was trying to trick them. They knew very well that nobody cares about the sense of Congress. Mr. Roosevelt would not have to abide by it. But he would have to abide by its declarations of law, such as they proposed to make. At least they think so.

Apparently Morgenthau told the Senators he did not recall the President had made such a promise. That made everyone angry.

Borah threw the administration bill down on the table and said:

"That is all I wanted to know. I do not think we ought to have any silver legislation at all. I would much rather go out and discuss the issue for six months and then, when we come back here next January, I believe we will have no difficulty in getting a silver bill through."

That was tack No. 2. The point did not escape Mr. Morgenthau.

It meant that Senator Borah was threatening to start a silver campaign against the administration.

BACKFIRE

Every time thereafter that the inside negotiations struck a hitch, Borah would start for the door, insisting he would rather talk on the stump.

Each time, he was called back, patted on the back, and told: "there is no use in doing that. Let's get together."

There was really no reason why the administration should let Borah and the others build silver backfires all over the west this summer. The three words "When And As" in the President's original promise afforded him as big a loophole to escape the silver policy as he could possibly wish for.

Apparently, some of the Treasury people felt, however, that the pledge might be embarrassing later on.

BLAME

The result of the whole business is that the silverites in Congress place all the blame for the trouble on Mr. Morgenthau. They believe the President wanted to go ahead, but that Morgenthau is strongly anti-silver and wanted to block the agreement.

It is all right for them to think that, if it makes them feel any better, but those on the inside know Mr. Morgenthau does nothing except what Mr. Roosevelt wants.

It is the duty of a good Treasury Secretary to take the blame.

BRYAN?

At one of the White House silver conferences, Mr. Roosevelt interposed and asked the boys to step into the next room, saying:

"I do not want to break up the conference, but I must have my hair cut. I haven't had it cut in four weeks; and, what with hanging around with you silver boys, people will think I'm William Jennings Bryan."

NEW GAME

A new and slightly insane game is sweeping through Congress like the crossword and jig-saw puzzles did. It is a navy game called salvo, or battleship. The idea is to rule off 100 squares on paper. Number them across and from top to bottom (A-1, A-2, etc.), then place a fleet of four vessels somewhere in the squares. A battleship takes up four squares, a cruiser three, a destroyer two and a submarine one. Then the trick is to sink the ships by calling the number of the squares they occupy. Each contestant has five shots with no peeping. A ship is sunk by calling all the squares it occupies.

It only goes to show what otherwise intelligent people will do for amusement near the end of the Congressional session.

PRICES

The Gandhi resistance to higher prices by Mr. and Mrs. Consumer is beginning to have an effect.

The textile trade is the first to weaken. Goods simply can't be moved at prices the industry tried to establish. Retailers haven't given much ground yet—although there are an unusual number of clothing "sales" here for this time of year. But jobbers and wholesalers are quietly slashing — not shading — their prices. They're tired of watching their inventories gather dust.

The textile situation is complicated by overproduction. Manufacturers were too optimistic about

SINCLAIR CLUB IS ORGANIZED: VOORHIS TALKS

FULLERTON, May 16. — The Fullerton Upton Sinclair for Governor club was organized last night, following an inspiring talk by Jerry Voorhis, of San Dimas, on conditions in America.

Harold L. Youde was elected president, J. W. Wagner, vice president; Miss Suzanne Dean, secretary; Bert Schott, treasurer; J. W. Wickersheim, I. A. McGavran, M. A. Quigley, E. A. Mayberry and B. Berkeley were elected to the executive council.

The meeting was at the Sinclair headquarters, on East Commonwealth, where Darrel McGavran executive secretary of 75th assembly district, was in charge.

Voorhis declared that "the Democratic institutions must solve the problems of America, must secure the constitutional rights of her people to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and must be brought about through the people, if the institutions of free America are to continue."

Warning that the dangers of fascism are imminent, he said that if American institutions fail, no liberties for people will be kept, but despotic dictatorship will evolve. The Upton Sinclair type of program is economically necessary, morally right, the only decent thing to do for the unemployed, and the only means whereby those who are employed, and taxpayers, can be relieved of the burden of supporting the unemployed.

"It is security and hope for future generations, and it is up to people, as individuals, to put the program over."

He outlined the three points of the Sinclair program. They are to put the unemployed at profitable work in producing for themselves the things they need; the establishment of an equitable tax system, and the insuring, by old age pensions, of a solution of the problem of old age.

"After all the effort put into the national administration we still have tonight between 12 and 15 million unemployed people in the United States," he said. These people want work; we must help them solve the problem." he declared that President Roosevelt has gone as far as he can in solving the problem unless the people back him in demanding their constitutional rights.

The next meeting will be on May 28 and will be for the whole assembly district.

'WORLD PEACE' IS TOPIC FOR SOCIETY

FULLERTON, May 16.—Mrs. Grace Ford gave an interesting talk on "World Peace" when members of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist church met at the church at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday in regular monthly session.

The program included a talk by Mrs. Clarence Vanderburg on "Motion Pictures in Foreign Countries, and the Opinion of the Influence of Those Pictures," she revealed people of foreign countries think American pictures demoralizing.

Mrs. S. W. Smith led the devotional meeting and Mrs. Louella Turner presided at the business meeting, a nominating committee of Mrs. S. W. Windle, Mrs. S. W. Smith and Mrs. S. W. McColloch was elected.

CARD PARTY HELD BY WALTON GROUP

FULLERTON, May 16.—Eighteen tables were in play Tuesday night at the regular card party sponsored by the Izaak Walton league. The proceeds, after expenses were paid, were placed in the fund for Boy Scouts, the troop sponsored by the Izaak Walton chapter.

Junior C. of C. To Hold Park Dinner On Friday Night

FULLERTON, May 16.—The Fullerton Junior Chamber of Commerce is holding a barbecue at Commonwealth park, Friday, according to announcement made today. Archie Raitt will cook the dinner.

PROGRAM GIVEN AT MEETING OF WOMAN'S CLUB

FULLERTON, May 16.—Miss Dorothy Smeltzer, a Fullerton musician, last night presented the program for the Woman's club of Fullerton, at the regular meeting held at the home of Mrs. S. W. McColloch on Placentia avenue.

The prelude to the musical included two readings by Mrs. C. W. O'Flyng, "Music," by Walter De La Mare, and "Music," by Walter Savage. After the introduction Miss Smeltzer introduced Carl Gantvoort, one of the leading American baritones, who has appeared with many of the symphony orchestras of the country. Miss Mildred Marsh accompanied the solo artist. She also is a well known musician of Los Angeles.

Gantvoort first sang "Nature's Adoration," by Beethoven; "The Last Song," by James Rogers, and "Pilgrim's Song" by Tschaikowsky, and as an encore, "Thy Beaming Eyes," by MacDowell. Miss Smeltzer played, as piano solos, "Bouree," by Bach, and "Prelude in D Flat Major," by Chopin, and "Tarantell," by Heller.

Of especial interest was Gantvoort's second group, which included "Love Light" by the accompanist, and "Golden Crown," a Negro spiritual by the soloist's brother, Herman Gantvoort, and "Do Not Go, My Love," by Hagenan, and "Rolling Down to Rio" by German. As an encore he sang "Gypsy John," by Clay.

Mrs. O'Flyng read "The Eagle" by Tennyson, and Miss Smeltzer played "The Eagle," by MacDowell, a composition inspired by the poem. She also played "Clair de Lune," by Debussy, and as a special number, "Polonaise in A Major" by Chopin.

Mrs. Jennie Daniles presided at the meeting, and Mrs. O'Flyng, incoming president, made partial announcement of her committees.

Mrs. Grace Ford assisted Mrs. McColloch in hostess duties and Miss Phyllis Redfern announced a Y. W. C. A. tea on the Junior college campus for May 17.

DINNER IS HELD BY Y.M.C.A. GROUP

FULLERTON, May 16.—More than 60 persons attended the Hi-Y dinner held Tuesday night at the Fullerton Christian church, where the Mother's club of the Y. M. C. A. presented Mr. and Mrs. Archie Raitt with an electric toaster.

Raitt, head of Y. M. C. A. work in Northern Orange county, has organized the mothers' group to assist in the work here and the gift of appreciation for his work among boys was presented by Mrs. George Coltrin.

Don Willard presided. Paul Butler made an address of welcome and Mrs. A. L. Launer responded. Dr. William Wickett, chairman of the Y. M. C. A. board, talked briefly, and John Raitt sang "Mother Machree." The Rev. George Tinsley, pastor of the Christian church, talked briefly on mother-son relationship.

The TERRAPLANE 6 ... the Only Low-price Car with a Baggage Compartment Like This ...

Enthusiastic Terraplane owners call the Baggage Compartment greatest advance in convenience they've ever seen in any car.

Even cars costing hundreds of dollars more—even the very highest price cars—do not match all the advantages you'll find in the Terraplane Baggage Compartment and Luggage Vestibule!

Freedom from wind catching rear projections adds the touch of modern style that identifies the smooth sweeping rear body lines of Terraplanes. Complete freedom from disturbance to passengers in getting at your luggage is a convenience your family and your guests will like.

But the Baggage Compartment is only one of scores of features that are making Terraplane sales increase faster than those of any other low price car in one territory after another.

See these features for yourself—ride and drive the Terraplane—and you'll know what people really mean when they say—"that's Terraplaning!"

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG
-- News Behind The News --

WASHINGTON
By Paul Mallon

SILVER

The urchin who has been putting these silver tacks in the chairs of Messrs Roosevelt and Morgenthau is the old Republican bad boy, Borah, of Idaho.

There never was a better tack man in politics. He has devoted a long career to trying to make statesmen cry out in the particular tone he wants them to. Right now he wants to make silver-voiced tenors out of them, and his tack method is having an effect inside.

It is probably not the primary reason for the silver remonetization compromise now being worked out, but it is an important phase.

TACK NO. 1

Borah went to the recent White House silver conference with his tongue in his cheek. He had been steering away from the White House because he doubted whether the administration was warmly favorable to silver. His silver associates persuaded him to come along just this one time.

As soon as he was inside the door, and before dropping his hat, he piped up to ask the President:

"Are you ready to declare remonetization of silver to be a fixed policy?"

It was a question designed to put President Roosevelt on the spot. The President hesitated a moment, looked around, then beamed the Roosevelt smile on the silverites, saying:

"Yes, I am."

That is what started all the trouble.

TRICKERY?

The President said plainly at that conference that he was willing to let Congress fix the policy by law but wanted full leeway to carry it out when and as he desired.

The silver boys rushed back to their offices and started drafting bills starting off: "It is the hereby declared to be the fixed policy of Congress that silver," etc., etc.

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau brought up the administration bill later. It started off: "It is the sense of Congress" that such-and-such should be done for silver.

The silverites blew up. They thought Morgenthau was trying to trick them. They knew very well that nobody cares about the sense of Congress. Mr. Roosevelt would not have to abide by it. But he would have to abide by its declarations of law, such as they proposed to make. At least they think so.

Apparently Morgenthau told the Senators he did not recall the President had made such a promise. That made everyone angry.

Borah threw the administration bill down on the table and said:

"That is all I wanted to know. I do not think we ought to have any silver legislation at all. I would much rather go out and discuss the issue for six months and then, when we come back here next January, I believe we will have no difficulty in getting a silver bill through."

That was tack No. 2. The point did not escape Mr. Morgenthau.

It meant that Senator Borah was threatening to start a silver campaign against the administration.

BACKFIRE

Every time thereafter that the inside negotiations struck a hitch, Borah would start for the door, insisting he would rather talk on the stump.

Each time, he was called back, patted on the back, and told: "there is no use in doing that. Let's get together."

There was really no reason why the administration should let Borah and the others build silver backfires all over the west this summer. The three words "When And As" in the President's original promise afforded him as big a loophole to escape the silver policy as he could possibly wish for.

Apparently, some of the Treasury people felt, however, that the pledge might be embarrassing later on.

BLAME

The result of the whole business is that the silverites in Congress place all the blame for the trouble on Mr. Morgenthau. They believe the President wanted to go ahead, but that Morgenthau is strongly anti-silver and wanted to block the agreement.

It is all right for them to think that, if it makes them feel any better, but those on the inside know Mr. Morgenthau does nothing except what Mr. Roosevelt wants.

It is the duty of a good Treasury Secretary to take the blame.

BRYAN?

At one of the White House silver conferences, Mr. Roosevelt interposed and asked the boys to step into the next room, saying:

"I do not want to break up the conference, but I must have my hair cut. I haven't had it cut in four weeks; and, what with hanging around with you silver boys, people will think I'm William Jennings Bryan."

NEW GAME

A new and slightly insane game is sweeping through Congress like the crossword and jig-saw puzzles did. It is a navy game called salvo, or battleship. The idea is to rule off 100 squares on paper. Number them across and from top to bottom (A-1, A-2, etc.), then place a fleet of four vessels somewhere in the squares. A battleship takes up four squares, a cruiser three, a destroyer two and a submarine one. Then the trick is to sink the ships by calling the number of the squares they occupy. Each contestant has five shots with no peeping. A ship is sunk by calling all the squares it occupies.

It only goes to show what otherwise intelligent people will do for amusement near the end of the Congressional session.

PRICES

The Gandhi resistance to higher prices by Mr. and Mrs. Consumer is beginning to have an effect.

The textile trade is the first to weaken. Goods simply can't be moved at prices the industry tried to establish. Retailers haven't given much ground yet—although there are an unusual number of clothing "sales" here for this time of year. But jobbers and wholesalers are quietly slashing — not shading — their prices. They're tired of watching their inventories gather dust.

The textile situation is complicated by overproduction. Manufacturers were too optimistic about

SINCLAIR CLUB IS ORGANIZED: VOORHIS TALKS

FULLERTON, May 16. — The Fullerton Upton Sinclair for Governor club was organized last night, following an inspiring talk by Jerry Voorhis, of San Dimas, on conditions in America.

Harold L. Youde was elected president, J. W. Wagner, vice president; Miss Suzanne Dean, secretary; Bert Schott, treasurer; J. W. Wickersheim, I. A. McGavran, M. A. Quigley, E. A. Mayberry and B. Berkeley were elected to the executive council.

The meeting was at the Sinclair headquarters, on East Commonwealth, where Darrel McGavran executive secretary of 75th assembly district, was in charge.

Voorhis declared that "the Democratic institutions must solve the problems of America, must secure the constitutional rights of her people to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and must be brought about through the people, if the institutions of free America are to continue."

Warning that the dangers of fascism are imminent, he said that if American institutions fail, no liberties for people will be kept, but despotic dictatorship will evolve. The Upton Sinclair type of program is economically necessary, morally right, the only decent thing to do for the unemployed, and the only means whereby those who are employed, and taxpayers, can be relieved of the burden of supporting the unemployed.

"It is security and hope for future generations, and it is up to people, as individuals, to put the program over."

He outlined the three points of the Sinclair program. They are to put the unemployed at profitable work in producing for themselves the things they need; the establishment of an equitable tax system, and the insuring, by old age pensions, of a solution of the problem of old age.

"After all the effort put into the national administration we still have tonight between 12 and 15 million unemployed people in the United States," he said. These people want work; we must help them solve the problem," he declared that President Roosevelt has gone as far as he can in solving the problem unless the people back him in demanding their constitutional rights.

The next meeting will be on May 28 and will be for the whole assembly district.

GRIFFITH'S HOMER BEATS S. A.

By HARRY GRAYSON

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Ballyhoo boys already are shouting that 80,000 persons will view the N. C. A. A. track and field meet in Los Angeles on June 22 and 23. . . . The meet was fortunate to draw half that number in all the years it was held in Chicago. . . . Sonja Henie, women's world figure skating champion, plays tennis, too....she'll perform at Wimbledon this summer. . . . Rogers Hornsby has nicknamed Harland Clift, his young third baseman, "Baby Face" . . . Perhaps it's a good thing the Rajah is boss. . . . To settle any possible arguments, Ossie Bluege's name is pronounced "Blooggy," the "g" being hard as in "gold." . . . Potsy Clark, who guided the destinies of Portsmouth in the National Professional Football league last year, will coach at Detroit entry next season. . . . Whitey Abel is racing's triple threat man. . . . He owns, trains and rides his horses. . . .

Jack Johnson is now a fight promoter in New Jersey . . . and hopes to be as big a success in the promotional field as he was in the ring. . . . Big league ball clubs are keeping an eye on the bat collections of players. . . . Bludgeons cost from two to four bucks each . . . and the average player thinks nothing of having four or five for his private use. . . . Colleges will stage a polo tournament in the east in June . . . with Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Penn Military and Army as certain entrants. . . . Present speed records of the Indianapolis 500-mile auto race is 104.162 miles an hour . . . set by Lou Meyer last year. . . . And the boys are confident they'll beat that on Decoration Day. . . . Carnegie Tech has a pint-sized halfback named Steve Terebus who's going to be a lad worth watching this year . . . judging from his performance as a sophomore in 1933. . . .

Jack Dempsey still is well paid. . . . He collected $1100 for refereeing a fight at Memphis the other night. . . . Whitney Straight, young American millionaire, recently won a 250-mile international trophy automobile race in England. . . . Frank Shellenback, barred from the majors because he throws a spitball, has copped 263 games in 14 years of pitching in the Pacific Coast league. . . .

"Dazzy" Vance has bagged 193 contests on the big time and has been paid $198,000 for doing so. . . . Jim Londos considers football the most dangerous sport.... Bill Bradley, the famous old third baseman who scouts for the Cleveland club, is watching Shortstop Irwin, of the University of North Carolina. . . .

J. Gilbert Hall, the tennis player, reveals that Jack Crawford had to drink brandy to keep going in losing his national match with Fred Perry last September . . . Asthma had prevented the Australian from sleeping for a week. . . . Joe Brayer, who had been playing the infield in the Slovak sandlot league at Youngstown, O., went into the box the other day and hurled a no-hit, no-run contest. . . . Sam Byrd, of the Yanks, is judged the premier golfer of the American league, and Lefty O'Doul, of the Giants, the best in the National. . . . O'Doul holds a record 65 over a par 68 course in San Francisco. . . . Speaking of Lefty, how long does one of the greatest sluggers in baseball have to remain on the bench? . . . Pacific Coast tennis followers are predicting that within two years Don Budge, of Oakland, Calif., state champion, will be a member of the U. S. Davis Cup squad. . . . Bill Fold plays for Albany, in the International league. . . . Wonder how fat he is? . . .

Wilmer Allison was gaining favor for action in Davis Cup singles matches, until he hurt his ankle, making it appear that Les Stoefen's recent slump may have done him harm. . . . Enterprise, million-dollar defender of the American Cup in 1930, is for sale . . . for a trifling $50,000. . . . Bill O'Brien, who is leading Bill Tilden's professional tennis troupe, reports that Ellsworth Vines is playing better than ever. . . . And that Perry or Crawford now would have a tough job taking a set from the tall boy. . . . Babe Herman may boast of that California climate he lives in when he isn't playing ball for the Cubs, but he was born and raised in Buffalo. . . . Pat Malone, pitcher and teammate of Herman, started his athletic career as a fighter, participating in 41 bouts as a lightweight under the name of Kid Williams. . . . Bud Taylor, a great bantam not long ago, now is selling beer.

5-ROUND BOUTS FOR AMATEURS DUE TOMORROW

Inaugurating five and four-round boxing among California amateurs, the Orange County Athletic club today announced a series of bouts for tomorrow night in which an all-colored team will oppose an all-club lineup.

Ten matches are offered on the card and should they all go the distance the fans will be treated to 42 rounds instead of the customary 30.

Heretofore, the amateurs have been limited to three-round engagements but the state athletic commission has waived this regulation for the experiment here. If the card proves successful, Matchmaker "Bud" Rutledge believes four and five-round contests will be allowed indefinitely.

Jackie Fields, former welterweight champion of the world, will referee the novel program, Rutledge said.

Incidentally, the appearance at the "101" highway Bowl of George Tolson's stable marks the first time an all-colored team has made up one side of an amateur fistic show. Tolson's fighters parade under the colors of the Ebony club.

The card:

Main event—Harry Glover, Ebony club, vs. Paul Garcia, Compton junior college, 150 pounds;

Semi-windup—Art Breaux, Ebony club, vs. "Dusty" Davidson, CCC camp, 200 pounds;

Special event—Eddie Jackson, Ebony club, vs. Tom Sawyer, Santa Ana, 148 pounds;

Preliminaries—James Williams, Ebony club, vs. "Bud" Parker, CCC camp, 148 pounds;

..George Crouch, Ebony club, vs. "Babe" Ranzales, Placentia, 118 pounds;

Louis Marshall, Ebony club, vs. Chet Davidson, Long Beach, 160 pounds;

Carmen Tullio, Ebony club, vs. Leo Lopez, El Modena, 112 rounds;

Paul Walkins, Ebony club, vs. Frank Barago, Garden Grove, 160 pounds;

Johnny Griego, Ebony club, vs. Danny Moreno, El Modena, 112 pounds;

Clair Thomas, Ebony club, vs. Rudy Romera, Santa Ana, 120 pounds.

Canada To Quit Davis Cup Play Next Year

MONTREAL, May 16.—(UP)—Canada may withdraw from Davis Cup competition after this year's matches against the United States team at Wilmington, Del., it is understood here.

Dissatisfaction over the dates of play is given as the reason for the proposed withdrawal.

Since the United States lost the cup in 1927, Canada has been forced to present a team with scarcely over two weeks' preliminary practice because of the early dates set by the cup-holding countries.

LYN LARY SOLD TO BOSTON FOR CASH, MULLER

NEW YORK, May 16.—(UP)—The following player shifts occurred while major league managers were paring their squads down to the 23-player limit which went into effect at midnight.

National League:

Cincinnati sent Pitcher Sylvester Johnson and Outfielder Johnny Moore to the Phillies in exchange for Outfielders Wesley Schulmerich and Art Ruble and Pitcher Theodore Kleinhans. Reds will send Ruble to a minor club.

Lyn Lary

St. Louis gave old Burleigh Grimes, last major league spitball pitcher, unconditional release.

Boston sent Pitcher Lewis Krausse to Harrisburg of New York-Pennsylvania league and Pitcher Dick Barrett to Albany of International.

Brooklyn sold Pitcher Phil Page to Kansas City of American association and released Outfielder Glenn Chapman to Albany.

The Chicago Cubs sent Pitcher Lynn Nelson to Atlanta of Southern association and released on option Pitcher Dick Ward to Los Angeles. The Cubs also purchased Pitcher Jim Weaver from Newark club to which St. Louis Browns returned him yesterday.

American League:

New York sent Infielder Lyn Lary to Red Sox in exchange for Infielder Fred Muller and cash and released on option Muller, Catcher Norman Kies and Pitcher Charlie Devens to their Newark farm.

Yanks signed John Schulte, former catcher with Cubs, as bull pen coach.

Cleveland decided to send Catcher Roy Spencer to minor club, name not announced.

St. Louis returned Pitcher Jim Weaver to Newark so as not to pay $15,000 for him.

Philadelphia gave unconditional releases to Catcher Eddie Madjeski and Infielder John Wingfield, then signed Catcher Charley Moss, who played in Mississippi last year, and Infielder George Yarter, with Atlanta club last season.

Detroit sent Pitcher Steve Larkin to Toledo of American association.

CLARK STAR OF JUNIORS' 25-0 FOOTBALL WIN

Ray Clark

The undefeated juniors, interclass champions with respective 12-6 and 7-0 victories over the seniors and sophomores, scored in every quarter against the combination foe, and discovered that playing their two rivals at the same time was even easier than opposing them on separate days.

Clark accounted for two touchdowns on off-tackle jaunts, and one of his left-handed passes was brought down by Captain Dick DeSmet, left end, for a third score. The other six points were earned on a 16-yard run around right end by Henry Gonzales, halfback.

Lamb Snares Long Pass

Alvin Lamb, substituted at quarter for Ray Hamilton, who is out with an injured arm, and caught a long pass that planted the ball on the soph-senior 20-yard line in the first period. From this point Halfback Clark wiggled through the left side of the line, and raced to the 4-yard mark. Line plunges by Fullback Bob Dunning and Clark advanced the ball to within a yard of the goal, and Clark lugged it over on his second attempt. Gonzales threw an incomplete pass in trying for the extra point.

Quarterback Lamb snagged another far-reaching pass in the second quarter, and rambled 35 yards to the soph-senior 16-yard line, from where Gonzales carried the pigskin on a right end sweep for a touchdown. The Mexican back failed to convert on a line plunge.

Clark tossed a 14-yard pass over center to Captain DeSmet for another score in the middle of the third period. DeSmet was surrounded by opponents, but held on to the ball. Gongales attempted a kick, but the conversion failed.

Ripping through left tackle for 20 yards, Clark packed the ball for another six points late in the final quarter. Once past the line of scrimmage, he cut sharply to the center, and crossed the goal standing up. He caught a short pass from Gonzales for the extra point, the only conversion of the game.

The sophomores and seniors, hopelessly outclassed on offense, threatened to score only once, when they recovered Lamb's fumble on a punt to the junior 12-yard line. The losers advanced to the 2-yard ribbon, and on fourth down Captain Bain Alexander, playing fullback, barely missed going over on a line smash. From the stands it looked as if he scored, but Referee Reese Greene ruled Alexander rolled over the goal after being tackled on the other side.

Clark and Lamb of the juniors and Halfback Deck of the combination team were the backfield luminaries. Deck showed surprising speed at left half. The entire junior forward wall played well, DeSmet at end being the standout. Gordon Almas, end, stood out among the soph-senior forwards.

Friday's Games

Santa Ana at Fullerton; Long Beach at Anaheim; Huntington Beach at Torrance; Westminster at Olive (Thursday.)

Torrance, the National Night league's champion, had a 13-game winning streak on its way to the first-half pennant in 1933, but the Bluebirds were defeated by Westminster, 4-3, in a 12-inning game that opened their new season at Westminster last night.

Held to five scattered hits and one earned run, that a homer by the irrepressible Louie Neva, Torrance saw its hopes dashed when Neva suddenly lost control in the last half of the twelfth. With two out, "Fuzzy" Errington, Westminster pitcher, dropped a Texas leaguer back of second, and scored on Neva's two wild pitches and a passed ball. It was a colorless ending to a colorful contest that attracted 500 to the Aviator's new park.

Westminster scored twice in the first and once in the third. Torrance got one in the third and two in the sixth when Neva blasted one of Errington's slow balls for the circuit. Vonderahe was aboard as a result of an error. From the sixth to the twelfth neither side could score. The summary:

Running true to form, Huntington Beach, pre-season favorite for titular honors in the National league, took a 3-1 decision from Anaheim at Huntington Beach. The attendance was estimated at 1000.

Joe Rodgers' Oilers put over the winning runs in the eighth on a series of infield hits by "Hen" Thiery, Orv Schuchardt, Rodgers and Bob Smith, with a wild pitch mixed in between.

Anaheim got its singleton off "Chico" Sabella when Bill Norton golfed a homer to center in the first. Huntington Beach tied it in the third on Osborn's double over third and Thiery's single to center.

Earl Morrill shaded Bobby Dalton in a brilliant duel between a pair of pitching veterans as Fullerton won from Long Beach, 2-0, at Long Beach before 500 fans on the Pike field.

The Bellhops made both their runs in the fifth. Widener went clear to third when Outfielder Turley dropped his high fly. Morrill grounded to Edmundson who had Widener tossed out at the plate but Catcher Sackett dropped the ball. A passed ball put Morrill on second from where he scored on Manager Bell's double. PIPING 'EM OFF

Ora Sands, Olive's league-leading batsman who hit safely in every game of the 1933 season, had his long string snapped in the first start of the new campaign. He failed to get on base on Santa Ana's Coates, who fanned him once and retired him on infield plays three other times. Coots, who finished as runner-up to Sands, also went hitless.

Last night's contest was the first opening game played here since 1929 when Garden Grove invaded the city. The Stars started at Olive in '30, at Whittier in '31, at Torrance in '32 and at Whittier in '33.

Yelding and Grier, jewelers at 311½ West Fourth street, will present a silver trophy to the leading hitter of the Santa Ana club. The award is approximately six inches high, and represents a ball player swinging a bat. It stands on a pedestal. Batting 1000, Ed Daley got a good start toward the medal.

Are the Stars up to old tricks? Last year they lost 12 league games by the margin of one run. They began last night where they left off in '33 by dumping a 1-0 decision to Olive. Incidentally, Santa Ana dropped four spring exhibition tussles by one run, too.

Santa Ana will be on the road Friday, playing at Fullerton, but returns to familiar haunts next Tuesday, Anaheim, an old and respected rival, will be the opposition that eve.

Francis Conrad, the home guard's new shortstop, didn't get any hits but came up with two dandy defensive plays in the first and fourth, both at the expense of Elmer Coots.

Given the kind of pitching Rudy Heman was dishing up last night, Olive is a cinch to be right in the pennant race. Rudy's baffling change o' pace had the free-swinging Santa Anans completely off balance. Daley was the lone hitter Heman couldn't fox.

Councilman E. G. Warner, a south paw, tossed over the first ball. City Marshal Floyd Howard caught it.

Jim Coates hurled eight innings of no-hit ball against Pomona last Friday and stopped Olive for six without a blow so he had 14 consecutive innings wherein the opposition failed to break into the "h" column. Griffith's homer broke the spell.

HEMAN SHADES YOUNG COATES IN 1-0 THRILLER

Terry Griffith's home run, a towering drive over Rod Ballard's head to deep center field, gave Olive a 1-0 victory over Santa Ana as the National Night Ball league went into its ninth year at the Municipal Bowl last night.

Griffith's mighty contribution came in the seventh inning, and though his was the first hit of the conflict off Jim Coates, the Stars' fine young hurler, a crowd of 1100 sensed that it meant the ball game so stout was the pitching and so alert the fielding.

The home run came without warning, as those things usually do. Not an Olive batsman had reached base. Sands, first to face Coates in the seventh, went out like the 18 who preceded him. Then Griffith just up and smote one. The ball was over Ballard almost before the flychaser could get going and, though he gave desperate pursuit and came fairly close to it, Griffith was around the paths before the ball could be retrieved.

Even so, Rudy Heman, who opposed Coates in this brilliant pitching extravaganza, almost had a well deserved victory blown out from under him in the last of the ninth when Santa Ana bunched three hits and had the tying run thrown out at the plate. Ed Daley started the rally with his third infield hit of the evening and George Preble put him on second with a single off Hatfield's glove. Ballard went out swinging but Sears hunted safely, crossing up the defense which expected the young slugger to swing for extra bases.

With the cushions loaded and only one away, a clean single would have transformed defeat

into sudden success, but Heman was the master of the solemn situation. Francis Conrad bounced a high one to First Baseman Bill Sweet who made a nice play to force the sliding Daley at the plate. That put two out, but left the bases still full. So Heman "bore down" and struck out "Bomo" Koral.

Although the box score gives Coates an edge, Olive garnering only three hits, Heman held the Stars equally as helpless. In fact, Santa Ana's uprising in the ninth represented its lone threat, Daley being the first man to get past second base. Ralph Jertberg, Olive's new third baseman, saved the Packers possible embarrassment in the eighth, however. Daley had walked and Preble had sacrificed. Ballard hit sharply down the third base line, Jertberg deflecting the ball along the ground to Griffith, who held Daley on second. Otherwise, Daley would have scored on the hit.

This was the first league tussle but there may never be a tighter mound duel all season. Pitching dominated the exhibition throughout but Griffith lost one, and that tells the whole story.

PORTLAND ASKS WAIVERS ON EVERY PLAYER, TRADES OANA

OAKLAND, May 16.—(UP)—Tom Turner, president of the Portland club, turned his thumbs down on his entire baseball club today by asking for waivers on each and every man on the team, now occupying last place in the Pacific Coast league race, and by trading the player supposed to be his best.

Angered by the miserable showing of the Beavers in this year's race, Turner went into action vigorously on his arrival here from Portland.

His first move was to announce the transfer of Henry Oana, Hawaiian-born outfielder, to Atlanta of the Southern association. Oana only recently returned to the Beavers from the Philadelphia Nationals, but Turner sent him back east again in exchange for a player named John Claybaugh.

Perusal of Claybaugh's record showed him to be a left-handed hitting outfielder who in 1932 led the Southern association in batting and hit 32 home runs to boot.

Then Turner sent wires post-haste to Portland ordering Monroe Dean, an infielder, and Bob Loane, an outfielder, to report here. They had been left behind when the Beavers went on the road.

His next move was to announce that waivers had been sought on the remaining players and wholesale changes in the lineup could be expected.

Through it all Turner did not disturb for the time being the managerial post, held by Walter McCredie. But many observers expect the Portland president to sidetrack McCredie, whom he called from retirement to replace Spencer Abbott, McCredie, hero of some of Portland's greatest baseball triumphs, has been handicapped by rheumatism this year.

Turner is on a hunt for players—"good ones." He isn't certain where he is going to get them, but he is certain he doesn't like the ones he has now. He wants more left-handed hitters and a stronger infield.

Twenty games behind the league-leading Los Angeles club, Portland hit the skids fast last week when it dropped seven straight to the Mission Reds. Turner was present yesterday when the Beavers bowed before Oakland. He went into action after the game.

TILDEN PROPHESIES U. S. TENNIS TEAM EARLY DEFEAT FOR N DAVIS CUP SERIES

BY STUART CAMERON
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, May 16.—(UP)—William T. Tilden has struck a mournful note in discussing "our" chances in this year's Davis Cup play.

Tilden, who was the U. S. mainstay from 1920 to 1927, cornered by a reporter, led with the remark that he wouldn't give two cents for our chances to win back the cup. He wouldn't put out much more than that by way of wager that we would win the inter-zone finals.

Now Tilden knows a great deal more about tennis than any person whose name readily comes to mind, but, even to those who know nearly nothing, his remarks stand as among the most amazing sports prophecies of the year.

Reduced to essentials Tilden's prediction is that while the United States may have at least an outside chance of beating Canada and thus gain the interzone final, "our boys" cannot prevail against the winner of the European zone eliminations.

Unless there is a distinctly screwy development overseas the European zone finalist will be either Japan or Australia. If Jiro Satoh had not leaped into the sea, Japan would stand out as the most likely. With Satoh dead, Japan certainly does not rank above France. Those two, along with Australia, form just about all there is overseas (excepting, of course, Great Britain, which will defend the cup in the challenge round) and from this distance, without resorting to any waving of spangled flags, it would seem that the U. S. would have an at least 50-50 chance to go into the final test with England.

For although Lester Stoefen, who for months has been America's great hope, has suffered a relapse, the combined power of a squad which could include Stoefen, Lott, Shields, Wood, Allison and Grant is just a bit too much to dismiss with a two-cent bet.

The trick of the American forces, led by Dick Williams, the non-playing captain, will be to find its best front from an assortment of players, each of whom has a definite fault. If Stoefen comes back to the form he displayed during the fag end of the 1933 season and during the past winter, and if the right selections are made farther along the line, America will have a squad which should be a betting favorite to beat any of the European contenders.

DONS WIND UP BALL SEASON TOMORROW

Curtains will be lowered on Eastern conference baseball for Santa Ana and San Bernardino jaysees tomorrow, when the Dons and Braves meet at San Bernardino. Respective champions of 1932 and '33, Santa Ana and San Bernardino were not dangerous contenders for the title which Pomona annexed this year.

Four members of the team are hitting above .300, and another is hovering about that mark, as the result of Santa Ana's 21-5 victory over Chaffey last week, when the Dons made 19 hits. Ben Slavin, husky outfielder, is leading his teammates with a .381 percentage, followed by Coach Bill McDaniel, .350; Clyde Birdsong, .333; Leo Morse, .313; and Reg Lake, .286.

San Bernardino holds an 8-4 victory over the Citrus nine that upset Santa Ana 13-6, and lost a 9-8 game to the Riverside club that humbled the Dons 7-3. Fullerton defeated both teams, San Bernardino 12-4, Santa Ana 9-2. The Don-Brave tilt looms as a toss-up, with San Bernardino enjoying a slight edge over its Orange county rival.

Ray Furuta, who was impressive against Chaffey, will pitch for the Dons, McDaniels catching. Morse at first, Wendall Kanawyer at second, Lake on short, Art Wilde at third, Slavin in left field, Dick Clark in center, Chris Demetriou or Birdsong in right comprise the starting lineup.

The Dons were to oppose Brea-Olinda on Poly field at 4 o'clock today.

MITCHELL, JOHNSON TO 'GANG' ON L. A.

LOS ANGELES, May 16.—(UP)—A dark and deeply-laid plot was to begin its unfolding here today in where the second-place Mission Reds and the league-leading Los Angeles Angels renew their competition for first place, now held by the Angels.

Charles ("Gabby") Street, manager of the Reds and one-time pilot of a world's championship team, was back of the plot, aimed at the Angels' stranglehold on first place. Street has figured out that southpaw pitchers can and do stop the leaders. So he persuaded the Pittsburgh Pirates to return left-handed Roy Johnson post-haste. Then he maneuvered his other left-hander, Clarence Mitchell, so that the spitball ace, still unbeaten, will be available for at least two games in the series. The Missions manager also plans to use Johnson twice.

SANTA ANANS WIN BADMINTON MATCH

Winning three out of five singles matches, and breaking even in the doubles, Santa Ana defeated the Los Angeles Athletic club, 6 to 5, in badminton at the Y.M.C.A. here last night.

Miss Twila Heath and Jim Smalley shared honors for Santa Ana, both annexing their singles matches, and playing in two winning combinations of doubles.

The results:

Men's singles—Smalley (SA) def. Downhill (L), 13-15, 15-6, 18-17; Vigars (SA) d. Moore (L), 7-15, 15-10, 15-13; Jackson (L) d. Miller (SA), 15-7, 15-2.

Women's singles—Mrs. Hall (LA) def. Miss Bell (SA), 11-9, 11-9; Miss Heath (SA) d. Mrs. Wahlberg (LA), 11-0, 13-10.

Men's doubles—Downhill and Wahlberg (LA) def. Viggars and Miller (SA), 10-15, 15-11, 15-11; Moore and Farrar (LA) d. Dr. Helmkin and F. West (SA), 15-5, 15-6.

Women's doubles—Miss Heath and Miss Woods (SA) def. Mrs. Wahlberg and Mrs. Bower (LA), 15-8, 15-12; Miss Bell and Miss Patton (SA) d. Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Hall (LA), 15-10, 15-11.

Mixed doubles— Miss Heath and Smalley (SA) def. Mrs. Allen and Jackson (LA), 15-13, 15-5; Mrs. Bower and Farrar (LA) def. Miss Patton and Miller (SA), 15-2, 15-8.

Score— Santa Ana 6, Los Angeles Athletic club 5.

COACH STAGG CALLS OFF SPRING DRILLS

STOCKTON, May 16.—Injuries to members of his none too plentiful squad of football players led Amos Alonzo Stagg, veteran coach, to cancel spring football practice today at College of the Pacific.

Stagg believes that the 1934 team will not be as powerful as last year's varsity which St. Mary's had difficulty in defeating by a single touchdown.

VAN RYN ADDED TO DAVIS CUP LINEUP

NEW YORK, May 16.—(UP)—John Van Ryn of East Orange, N. J., has been named to the 1934 United States Davis Cup team, according to the lineup announced today by U. S. Lawn Tennis association's cup committee.

Van Ryn, George Lott, jr., of Chicago, Francis X. Shields of New York, and Lester Stoefen of Los Angeles comprise the team which will open the campaign against Canada at Wilmington, Del., May 24-26.

Van Ryn, Lott and Shields are veterans of cup competition, but long, lanky Stoefen is making his debut. Van Ryn, No. 12 in the national rankings, was not listed as one of the five members of the preliminary cup squad announced a few weeks ago.

Apparently the cup committee drafted him after Wilmer Allison of Austin, Texas, suffered an ankle injury two weeks ago.

Lott and Van Ryn are expected to handle the doubles assignment, while Shields and Stoefen probably will represent in the singles.

5-ROUND BOUTS FOR AMATEURS DUE TOMORROW

Inaugurating five and four-round boxing among California amateurs, the Orange County Athletic club today announced a series of bouts for tomorrow night in which an all-colored team will oppose an all-club lineup.

Ten matches are offered on the card and should they all go the distance the fans will be treated to 42 rounds instead of the customary 30.

Heretofore, the amateurs have been limited to three-round engagements but the state athletic commission has waived this regulation for the experiment here. If the card proves successful, Matchmaker "Bud" Rutledge believes four and five-round contests will be allowed indefinitely.

Jackie Fields, former welterweight champion of the world, will referee the novel program, Rutledge said.

Incidentally, the appearance at the "101" highway Bowl of George Tolson's stable marks the first time an all-colored team has made up one side of an amateur fistic show. Tolson's fighters parade under the colors of the Ebony club.

The card:

Main event—Harry Glover, Ebony club, vs. Paul Garcia, Compton junior college, 150 pounds;

Semi-windup—Art Breaux, Ebony club, vs. "Dusty" Davidson, CCC camp, 200 pounds;

Special event—Eddie Jackson, Ebony club, vs. Tom Sawyer, Santa Ana, 148 pounds;

Preliminaries — James Williams, Ebony club, vs. "Bud" Parker, CCC camp, 143 pounds;

George Crouch, Ebony club, vs. "Babe" Ranzales, Placentia, 118 pounds;

Louis Marshall, Ebony club, vs. Chet Davidson, Long Beach, 160 pounds;

Carmen Tullio, Ebony club, vs. Leo Lopez, El Modena, 112 rounds;

Paul Walkins, Ebony club, vs. Frank Barago, Garden Grove, 160 pounds;

Johnny Griego, Ebony club, vs. Danny Moreno, El Modena, 112 pounds;

Clair Thomas, Ebony club, vs. Rudy Romera, Santa Ana, 120 pounds.

Canada To Quit Davis Cup Play Next Year

MONTREAL, May 16. — (UP)—Canada may withdraw from Davis Cup competition after this year's matches against the United States team at Wilmington, Del., it is understood here.

Dissatisfaction over the dates of play is given as the reason for the proposed withdrawal.

Since the United States lost the cup in 1927, Canada has been forced to present a team with scarcely over two weeks' preliminary practice because of the early dates set by the cup-holding countries.

LYN LARY SOLD TO BOSTON FOR CASH, MULLER

NEW YORK, May 16.—(UP)—The following player shifts occurred while major league managers were paring their squads down to the 23-player limit which went into effect at midnight.

National League:

Cincinnati sent Pitcher Sylvester Johnson and Outfielder Johnny Moore to the Phillies in exchange for Outfielders Wesley Schulmerich and Art Ruble and Pitcher Theodore Kleinhans. Reds will send Ruble to a minor club.

Lyn Lary

St. Louis gave old Hurleigh Grimes, last major league spitball pitcher, unconditional release.

Brooklyn sold Pitcher Phil Page to Kansas City of American association and released Outfielder Glenn Chapman to Albany.

The Chicago Cubs sent Pitcher Lynn Nelson to Atlanta of Southern association and released on option Pitcher Dick Ward to Los Angeles. The Cubs also purchased Pitcher Jim Weaver from Newark club to which St. Louis Browns returned him yesterday.

American League:

New York sent Infielder Lyn Lary to Red Sox in exchange for Infielder Fred Muller and cash and released on option Muller, Catcher Norman Kies and Pitcher Charlie Devens to their Newark farm.

Yanks signed John Schulte, former catcher with Cubs, as bull pen coach.

Cleveland decided to send Catcher Roy Spencer to minor club, name not announced.

St. Louis returned Pitcher Jim Weaver to Newark so as not to pay $15,000 for him.

Philadelphia gave unconditional releases to Catcher Eddie Madjeski and Infielder John Wingfield, then signed Catcher Charley Moss, who played in Mississippi last year, and Infielder George Yarter, with Atlanta club last season.

Detroit sent Pitcher Steve Larkin to Toledo of American association.

CLARK STAR OF JUNIORS' 25-0 FOOTBALL WIN

Ray Clark

The undefeated juniors, interclass champions with respective 12-6 and 7-0 victories over the seniors and sophomores, scored in every quarter against the combination foe, and discovered that playing their two rivals at the same time was even easier than opposing them on separate days.

Clark accounted for two touchdowns on off-tackle jaunts, and one of his left-handed passes was brought down by Captain Dick DeSmet, left end, for a third score. The other six points were earned on a 16-yard run around right end by Henry Gonzales, halfback.

Lamb Snares Long Pass

Alvin Lamb, substituted at quarter for Ray Hamilton, who is out with an injured arm, and caught a long pass that planted the ball on the soph-senior 20-yard line in the first period. From this point Halfback Clark wiggled through the left side of the line, and raced to the 4-yard mark. Line plunges by Fullback Bob Dunning and Clark advanced the ball to within a yard of the goal, and Clark lugged it over on his second attempt. Gonzales threw an incomplete pass in trying for the extra point.

Quarterback Lamb snagged another far-reaching pass in the second quarter, and rambled 35 yards to the soph-senior 16-yard line, from where Gonzales carried the pigskin on a right end sweep for a touchdown. The Mexican back failed to convert on a line plunge.

Clark tossed a 14-yard pass over center to Captain DeSmet for another score in the middle of the third period. DeSmet was surrounded by opponents, but held on to the ball. Gongales attempted a kick, but the conversion failed.

Ripping through left tackle for 20 yards, Clark packed the ball for another six points late in the final quarter. Once past the line of scrimmage, he cut sharply to the center, and crossed the goal standing up. He caught a short pass from Gonzales for the extra point, the only conversion of the game.

The sophomores and seniors, hopelessly outclassed on offense, threatened to score only once, when they recovered Lamb's fumble on a punt to the junior 12-yard line. The losers advanced to the 2-yard ribbon, and on fourth down Captain Bain Alexander, playing fullback, barely missed going over on a line smash. From the stands it looked as if he scored, but Referee Reese Greene ruled Alexander rolled over the goal after being tackled on the other side.

Clark and Lamb of the juniors and Halfback Deck of the combination team were the backfield luminaries. Deck showed surprising speed at left half. The entire junior forward wall played well, DeSmet at end being the standout. Gordon Almas, end, stood out among the soph-senior forwards.

Friday's Games

Torrance, the National Night league's champion, had a 13-game winning streak on its way to the first-half pennant in 1933, but the Bluebirds were defeated by Westminster, 4-3, in a 12-inning game that opened their new season at Westminster last night.

Held to five scattered hits and one earned run, that a homer by the irrepressible Louie Neva, Torrance saw its hopes dashed when Neva suddenly lost control in the last half of the twelfth. With two out, "Fuzzy" Errington, Westminster pitcher, dropped a Texas leaguer back of second, and scored on Neva's two wild pitches and a passed ball. It was a colorless ending to a colorful contest that attracted 500 to the Aviator's new park.

Westminster scored twice in the first and once in the third. Torrance got one in the third and two in the sixth when Neva blasted one of Errington's slow balls for the circuit. Vonderahe was aboard as a result of an error. From the sixth to the twelfth neither side could score. The summary:

Running true to form, Huntington Beach, pre-season favorite for titular honors in the National league, took a 3-1 decision from Anaheim at Huntington Beach. The attendance was estimated at 1000.

Joe Rodgers' Oilers put over the winning runs in the eighth on a series of infield hits by "Hen" Thiery, Orv Schuchardt, Rodgers and Bob Smith, with a wild pitch mixed in between.

Anaheim got its singleton off "Chico" Sabella when Bill Norton golfed a homer to center in the first. Huntington Beach tied it in the third on Osborn's double over third and Thiery's single to center.

Earl Morrill shaded Bobby Dalton in a brilliant duel between a pair of pitching veterans as Fullerton won from Long Beach, 2-0, at Long Beach before 500 fans on the Pike field.

The Bellhops made both their runs in the fifth. Widener went clear to third when Outfielder Turley dropped his high fly. Morrill grounded to Edmundson who had Widener tossed out at the plate but Catcher Sackett dropped the ball. A passed ball put Morrill on second from where he scored on Manager Bell's double. PIPING 'EM OFF

Ora Sands, Olive's league-leading batsman who hit safely in every game of the 1933 season, had his long string snapped in the first start of the new campaign. He failed to get on base on Santa Ana's Coates, who fanned him once and retired him on infield plays three other times. Coots, who finished as runner-up to Sands, also went hitless.

Last night's contest was the first opening game played here since 1929 when Garden Grove invaded the city. The Stars started at Olive in '30, at Whittier in '31, at Torrance in '32 and at Whittier in '33.

Yelding and Grier, jewelers at 311½ West Fourth street, will present a silver trophy to the leading hitter of the Santa Ana club. The award is approximately six inches high, and represents a ball player swinging a bat. It stands on a pedestal. Batting 1000, Ed Daley got a good start toward the medal.

Are the Stars up to old tricks? Last year they lost 12 league games by the margin of one run. They began last night where they left off in '33 by dumping a 1-0 decision to Olive. Incidentally, Santa Ana dropped four spring exhibition tussles by one run, too.

Santa Ana will be on the road Friday, playing at Fullerton, but returns to familiar haunts next Tuesday, Anaheim, an old and respected rival, will be the opposition that eve.

Francis Conrad, the home guard's new shortstop, didn't get any hits but came up with two dandy defensive plays in the first and fourth, both at the expense of Elmer Coots.

Given the kind of pitching Rudy Heman was dishing up last night, Olive is a cinch to be right in the pennant race. Rudy's baffling change o' pace had the free-swinging Santa Anans completely off balance. Daley was the lone hitter Heman couldn't fox.

Councilman E. G. Warner, a southpaw, tossed over the first ball. City Marshal Floyd Howard caught it.

Jim Coates hurled eight innings of no-hit ball against Pomona last Friday and stopped Olive for six without a blow so he had 14 consecutive innings wherein the opposition failed to break into the "H" column. Griffith's homer broke the spell.

HEMAN SHADES YOUNG COATES IN 1-0 THRILLER

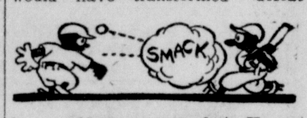
Terry Griffith's home run, a towering drive over Rod Ballard's head to deep center field, gave Olive a 1-0 victory over Santa Ana as the National Night Ball league went into its ninth year at the Municipal Bowl last night.

Griffith's mighty contribution came in the seventh inning, and though his was the first hit of the conflict off Jim Coates, the Stars' fine young hurler, a crowd of 1100 sensed that it meant the ball game so stout was the pitching and so alert the fielding.

The home run came without warning, as those things usually do. Not an Olive batsman had reached base, Sands, first, to face Coates in the seventh, went out like the 18 who preceded him. Then Griffith just up and smote one. The ball was over Ballard almost before the flychaser could get going and, though he gave desperate pursuit and came fairly close to it, Griffith was around the paths before the ball could be retrieved.

Even so, Rudy Heman, who opposed Coates in this brilliant pitching extravaganza, almost had a well deserved victory blown out from under him in the last of the ninth when Santa Ana bunched three hits and had the tying run thrown out at the plate. Ed Daley started the rally with his third infield hit of the evening and George Preble put him on second with a single off Hatfield's glove. Ballard went out swinging but Sears hunted safely, crossing up the defense which expected the young slugger to swing for extra bases.

With the cushions loaded and only one away, a clean single would have transformed defeat



into sudden success, but Heman was the master of the solemn situation. Francis Conrad bounced a high one to First Baseman Bill Sweet who made a nice play to force the sliding Daley at the plate. That put two out, but left the bases still full. So Heman "bore down" and struck out "Bomo" Koral.

Although the box score gives Coates an edge, Olive garnering only three hits, Heman held the Stars equally as helpless. In fact, Santa Ana's uprising in the ninth represented its lone threat, Daley being the first man to get past second base. Ralph Jertberg, Olive's new third baseman, saved the Packers possible embarrassment in the eighth, however. Daley had walked and Preble had sacrificed. Ballard hit sharply down the third base line, Jertberg deflecting the ball along the ground to Griffith, who held Daley on second. Otherwise, Daley would have scored on the hit.

This was the first league tussle but there may never be a tighter mound duel all season. Pitching dominated the exhibition throughout but Griffith lost one, and that tells the whole story.

RELAY RACE IS ADDED FEATURE ON RACE CARD

A relay derby in which each contestant drives three cars will be the added feature of the midget car racing program at the Municipal Bowl tonight. The contest is for nine laps, with drivers changing cars each three laps. The qualifying heats and eight other races, which are the normal schedule of the "Race With the Legion" event, complete the evening's program.

No. 55, the new entry which had the misfortune to crash the east barrier in a qualifying heat last week, has been repaired and will be on the track with "Speedy" Lockwood at the wheel. Cars No. 53 and 5, which figured in a recent collision on the north turn, may not compete, however. Officials have been informed that No. 53 is again o.k. but No. 5 suffered some chassis damage and may not be repaired in time.

Two newer cars which have appeared here before, Nos. 14 and 42, are being freed of "bugs" and are expected to be turned up so that they will figure among the winners this week.

Leo Faulkner, Bill Betteridge, "Hap" Woodman and Hank Roberts, drivers of four of the fastest cars in the midget racing game, are entered with the avowed purpose of dimming the spotlight for "Curly" Mills and his speedy No. 36. The Collins Special now has accumulated eight records on the municipal oval.

The local track is gradually gaining the reputation of being one of the fastest. The time of 8 min, 9 sec., made in the 30-lap main event last week by Mills, is a standout on the short tracks

Five Ex-Champs Fail To Qualify For Open Tourney

NEW YORK, May 16.—(UP)—Five former open champions failed to qualify for a crack at the 1934 title when more than 930 aspirants tried out in 21 cities from coast to coast for the 109 vacant places in the National Open Golf championship at Ardmore, Pa., June 7-9.

PORTLAND ASKS WAIVERS ON EVERY PLAYER, TRADES OANA

OAKLAND, May 16.—(UP)—Tom Turner, president of the Portland club, turned his thumbs down on his entire baseball club today by asking for waivers on each and every man on the team, now occupying last place in the Pacific Coast league race, and by trading the player supposed to be his best.

Angered by the miserable showing of the Beavers in this year's race, Turner went into action vigorously on his arrival here from Portland.

His first move was to announce the transfer of Henry Oana, Hawaiian-born outfielder, to Atlanta of the Southern association. Oana only recently returned to the Beavers from the Philadelphia Nationals, but Turner sent him back east again in exchange for a player named John Claybaugh.

Perusal of Claybaugh's record showed him to be a left-handed hitting outfielder who in 1932 led the Southern association in batting and hit 32 home runs to boot.

Then Turner sent wires post-haste to Portland ordering Monroe Dean, an infielder, and Bob Loane, an outfielder, to report here. They had been left behind when the Beavers went on the road.

His next move was to announce that waivers had been sought on the remaining players and wholesale changes in the lineup could be expected.

Through it all Turner did not disturb for the time being the managerial post, held by Walter McCredie. But many observers expect the Portland president to sidetrack McCredie, whom he called from retirement to replace Spencer Abbott, McCredie, hero of some of Portland's greatest baseball triumphs, has been handicapped by rheumatism this year.

Turner is on a hunt for players —"good ones." He isn't certain where he is going to get them, but he is certain he doesn't like the ones he has now. He wants more left-handed hitters and a stronger infield.

Twenty games behind the league-leading Los Angeles club, Portland hit the skids fast last week when it dropped seven straight to the Mission Reds. Turner was present yesterday when the Beavers bowed before Oakland. He went into action after the game.

TILDEN PROPHESIES U. S. TENNIS TEAM EARLY DEFEAT FOR N DAVIS CUP SERIES

BY STUART CAMERON
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, May 16.—(UP)—William T. Tilden has struck a mournful note in discussing "our" chances in this year's Davis Cup play.

Tilden, who was the U. S. mainstay from 1920 to 1927, cornered by a reporter, led with the remark that he wouldn't give two cents for our chances to win back the cup. He wouldn't put out much more than that by way of wager that we would win the inter-zone finals.

Now Tilden knows a great deal more about tennis than any person whose name readily comes to mind, but, even to those who know nearly nothing, his remarks stand as among the most amazing sports prophecies of the year.

Reduced to essentials Tilden's prediction is that while the United States may have at least an outside chance of beating Canada and thus gain the interzone final, "our boys" cannot prevail against the winner of the European zone eliminations.

Unless there is a distinctly screwy development overseas the European zone finalist will be either Japan or Australia. If Jiro Satoh had not leaped into the sea, Japan would stand out as the most likely. With Satoh dead Japan certainly does not rank above France. Those two, along with Australia, form just about all there is overseas (excepting, of course, Great Britain, which will defend the cup in the challenge round) and from this distance, without resorting to any waving of spangled flags, it would seem that the U. S. would have an at least 50-50 chance to go into the final test with England.

For although Lester Stoefen, who for months has been America's great hope, has suffered a relapse, the combined power of a squad which could include Stoefen, Lott, Shields, Wood, Allison and Grant is just a bit too much to dismiss with a two-cent bet.

The trick of the American forces, led by Dick Williams, the non-playing captain, will be to find its best front from an assortment of players, each of whom has a definite fault. If Stoefen comes back to the form he displayed during the fag end of the 1933 season and during the past winter, and if the right selections are made farther along the line, America will have a squad which should be a betting favorite to beat any of the European contenders.

DONS WIND UP BALL SEASON TOMORROW

Curtains will be lowered on Eastern conference baseball for Santa Ana and San Bernardino jaysees tomorrow, when the Dons and Braves meet at San Bernardino. Respective champions of 1932 and '33, Santa Ana and San Bernardino were not dangerous contenders for the title which Pomona annexed this year.

Four members of the team are hitting above .300, and another is hovering about that mark, as the result of Santa Ana's 21-5 victory over Chaffey last week, when the Dons made 19 hits. Ben Slavin, husky outfielder, is leading his teammates with a .381 percentage, followed by Coach Bill McDaniel, .350; Clyde Birdsong, .333; Leo Morse, .318; and Reg Lake, .286.

San Bernardino holds an 8-4 victory over the Citrus nine that upset Santa Ana 13-6, and lost a 8-5 game to the Riverside club that humbled the Dons 7-3. Fullerton defeated both teams, San Bernardino 12-4, Santa Ana 9-2. The Don-Brave tilt looms as a toss-up, with San Bernardino enjoying a slight edge over its Orange county rival.

Ray Furuta, who was impressive against Chaffey, will pitch for the Dons, McDaniels catching. Morse at first, Wendall Kanawyer at second, Lake on short, Art Wilde at third, Slavin in left field, Dick Clark in center, Chris Demetriou or Birdsong in right comprise the starting lineup.

The Dons were to oppose Brea-Olinda on Poly field at 4 o'clock today.

MITCHELL, JOHNSON TO 'GANG' ON L. A.

LOS ANGELES, May 16.—(UP)—A dark and deeply-laid plot was to begin its unfolding here today in where the second-place Mission Reds and the league-leading Los Angeles Angels renew their competition for first place, now held by the Angels.

Charles ("Gabby") Street, manager of the Reds and one-time pilot of a world's championship team, was back of the plot, aimed at the Angels' stranglehold on first place. Street has figured out that southpaw pitchers can and do stop the leaders. So he persuaded the Pittsburgh Pirates to return left-handed Roy Johnson post-haste. Then he maneuvered his other left-hander, Clarence Mitchell, so that the spitball ace, still unbeaten, will be available for at least two games in the series. The Missions manager also plans to use Johnson twice.

SANTA ANANS WIN BADMINTON MATCH

Winning three out of five singles matches, and breaking even in the doubles, Santa Ana defeated the Los Angeles Athletic club, 6 to 5, in badminton at the Y.M.C.A. here last night.

Miss Twila Heath and Jim Smalley shared honors for Santa Ana, both annexing their singles matches, and playing in two winning combinations of doubles.

The results:

Men's singles—Smalley (SA) def. Downhill (L), 13-15, 15-6, 18-17; Viggars (SA) d. Moore (L), 7-15, 15-10, 15-13; Jackson (L) d. Miller (SA), 15-7, 15-2.

COACH STAGG CALLS OFF SPRING DRILLS

STOCKTON, May 16.—Injuries to members of his none too plentiful squad of football players led Amos Alonzo Stagg, veteran coach, to cancel spring football practice today at College of the Pacific.

Stagg believes that the 1934 team will not be as powerful as last year's varsity which St. Mary's had difficulty in defeating by a single touchdown.

VAN RYN ADDED TO DAVIS CUP LINEUP

NEW YORK, May 16.—(UP)—John Van Ryn of East Orange, N. J., has been named to the 1934 United States Davis Cup team, according to the lineup announced today by U. S. Lawn Tennis association's cup committee.

Van Ryn, George Lott, jr., of Chicago, Francis X. Shields of New York, and Lester Stoefen of Los Angeles comprise the team which will open the campaign against Canada at Wilmington, Del., May 24-26.

Van Ryn, Lott and Shields are veterans of cup competition, but long, lanky Stoefen is making his debut. Van Ryn, No. 12 in the national rankings, was not listed as one of the five members of the preliminary cup squad announced a few weeks ago.

Apparently the cup committee drafted him after Wilmer Allison of Austin, Texas, suffered an ankle injury two weeks ago.

Lott and Van Ryn are expected to handle the doubles assignment, while Shields and Stoefen probably will represent in the singles.

BIG Double Bill

Get your SPARK PLUGS CLEANED
WIN A NEW AUTOMOBILE FREE

Only 5c EACH

by the NEW AC METHOD

Dirty or worn plugs WASTE 1 gallon of gas in 10

Remove OXIDE COATING
Improve your car's performance

Oxide coating forms on all spark plugs. . . . Oxide, when hot, is a conductor of electricity, causing spark plugs to miss fire at high speeds and on hard pulls. This wastes as much as 1 gallon of gas in 10. Have oxide coating removed by the new AC method, only 5c a plug, save gas and restore new car performance.

Recognizing and endorsing the value of clean spark plugs, we dealers unite in offering to our customers, a new, scientific spark plug cleaning service. We have installed an AC Spark Plug Cleaner. We have registered ourselves as Authorized Spark Plug Cleaning Stations.

FREE YOUR CHOICE OF CHEVROLET, PLYMOUTH OR FORD—EACH WEEK IN BIG RADIO CONTEST!

263 Teachers Reelected; 13 Resign; 86 Dismissed

BOARD MAKES NO DECISION ON SALARIES

Action of the Santa Ana board of education in electing 263 teachers for service in the Santa Ana school system next term, accepting 13 resignations of teachers; and ordering dismissal of 86 probationary, substitute, and evening high school teachers, most of whom will be re-employed, was announced by Superintendent of School Frank A. Henderson yesterday.

Determination of individual salaries has been deferred by the board until the school budget is compiled and the amount of available funds is known. Action on the election or dismissal of teachers was required on May 14, the deadline for discretionary action by the board. After that date all teachers employed during the current year would automatically be elected for another year, under the tenure law.

The board's policy of refusing to increase the number of teachers holding tenure in the local schools, caused the dismissal of four elementary teachers who would acquire tenure if retained next year. They were Mrs. Lucy Cherry, of Lowell school; Mrs. Vilma French, Jefferson school; Florence Lazare, Lincoln school, and Gladys Wilson, of Edison school.

F. L. Carrier, of the high school faculty, who has been teaching part time, was dismissed. Mrs. Vivian Meeks, of Willard Junior High, one of those "dismissed" will be merely transferred to office duty in the principal's office. It is planned to transfer Miss Lucy C. Maas from the office to a high school teaching post. Florence Moreland, home teacher from the high school, will shortly be married and the service she had been rendering will be discontinued, the board was informed.

In the junior college, it was decided to discontinue the part-time service of Arthur Terrill, and to re-elect S. J. Mustol only to the high school district, instead of both high school and junior college. It was pointed out that he has been giving no junior college instruction during the current year. His annual salary of $2402 will be reduced to the high school maximum of $2242.

Four home teachers dismissed, but probably all to be re-employed, were Ruth Bartlett, instructor in lip reading; Mrs. Florence McKee, Mrs. Louise B. Stearns and Mrs. Elizabeth Watson.

The dismassal and re-employment, it was explained, is a move to safeguard against the establishment of uninterrupted em-

Kelly, Bailey, Bates and Burke Get Life Behind Stone Walls; Underhill and Brady Die With Boots on; Violent End for Klutas

This is the third of six absorbing stories on notorious outlaws of the nation, how their crimson careers were halted by bullet, rope, or prison cell, and of present-day "most wanted" criminals, their records and detailed descriptions.

TEMPORARY success of the Dillingers, Floyds, and Barrows of banditry in defying the law can not obscure the fact that an unheard-of number of big-time bandits came face to face with the last roundup during the last year. At least five "big-shot" bandits went down under police gunfire, two were killed by their own kind, and at least four more went behind the bars to stay.

There were 13 bullets in the dying body of Wilbur Underhill when armed guards carried him through the gates of Oklahoma State prison. Underhill had cut a desperate trail through three states—Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma. He was one of four brothers who were all criminals. He killed one man during a Christmas night drug store holdup at Okmulgee, Okla.; murdered a deputy sheriff and a policeman who sought to capture him.

He was one of 11 convicts who broke from the Kansas State penitentiary, kidnaping the warden.

Target of Relentless Hunt

Half a dozen bank robberies were blamed on Underhill shortly after the Kansas escape, and he is believed also to have taken part in the machine-gun attack on a prison convoy at Kansas City's Union Station Plaza, in which five men were massacred.

So the law clung to his trail relentlessly. Ill and half-clad, he barely escaped a raid on a farmhouse near Shawnee, Okla. One of his confederates, Gene Johnston, was shot to death by police at Springtown, Ark.

The law closed in on a house in the heart of Shawnee. Visited at midnight, it showed no signs of occupancy. But the law returned at 2:30, and found lights. Through a lighted window the law challenged: "Stick 'em up!"

Underhill whirled, grabbed a gun from a table, and fired through the window. A fusillade of lead tore through the house, killing a woman who was with Underhill. Underhill ran from the house in a spray of bullets, fell, rose, and ran on.

The End of "Big Boy"

Sixteen blocks he carried those bullets, and was found hiding in a bed in the rear of a furniture store. He died shortly afterward.

Similar was the end of Bob "Big Boy" Brady, outlaw and prison breaker, who had been a companion of Underhill in the Kansas break, Brady's third prison escape.

Only a few weeks after Underhill's death, Brady was run to earth by a sheriff's posse near Paola, Kan., with three other escapers who had been making their way across country on foot, walking by night, hiding by da[illegible]. A farmer spotted them, turned in a report, and quickly a posse gathered.

Brady tried to fight. He leveled a sawed-off shotgun, but the sheriff's men were quicker, and he went down full of the charges of two shotguns. The other three were easily captured.

Collegian Turns Kidnaper

"Handsome Jack" Klutas could think of nothing better to do with a college education than to start a kidnaping ring. The former University of Illinois student pulled off a half dozen kidnapings said to have netted him nearly a half million dollars.

Klutas got away with it for several years, making elaborate efforts to evade the law by operations to alter his facial appearance and his fingerprints.

He lived in apparent respectability. His accomplice, Russell Hughes, did the same, sporting a false mustache, and changing the style of his hair and clothes.

But that did not prevent a sharp-eyed policeman from recognizing Hughes as he stood loafing at the door of a Peoria, Ill., barber shop. The police cruiser stopped, and Hughes backed into the store, firing with two guns.

Two policemen, though wounded (one died later), went in after him, firing as they went.

Both Abductors Slain

Hughes, crouched behind a barber chair, died with seven bullets in his body.

It was an ill omen for Klutas. He was living in apparent respectability in a neat brick house at Belwood, Ill. And when police arrived for the last roundup, Klutas' chose to shoot it out.

His body was neatly clothed in striped suit, pearl-gray spats, and a derby hat as it lay before his doorstep when the police guns stopped spitting.

Kenneth Conn was just beginning to build himself quite a reputation as a bank robber when he tried it on the wrong bank. At Altamont, Kan., the cashier of the Labette County State Bank resisted when Conn and a companion stuck up the bank.

Isaac McCarty, the cashier, shot the accomplice with a shotgun. Conn grabbed McCarty's wife and held her in front of him as a shield.

But McCarty dropped the shotgun and picked up a rifle, with which he neatly killed Conn with two well-placed shots which never touched Mrs. McCarty.

Sheriff Snuffs Out Pair

Other budding crime careers which were cut short by a resolute sheriff were those of Sam Scola and Fasone. They had just shot down a gang enemy from an auto in Kansas City, Mo., when Sheriff Thomas B. Bash happened by in his own car.

Bash swung his machine in front of the bandit car, and with a rot gun snuffed out Scola and Fasone before they could raise their weapons.

Two of the slimiest of such criminals were removed without danger or trouble to the law when Verne Miller and Gus Winkler were blotted out by their own kind.

Miller, an expert machine gunner with a long string of crimes on his record, was found dead in a ditch near Detroit. He had been the machine gunner in the Kansas City massacre, but he was not even allowed to die by the gun—he had been beaten to death. Winkler, who had acted as go-between for several kidnaping rings, was found shot to death on a Chicago sidewalk.

"Big Shots" Go to Prison

But these men who died with the violence with which they lived were not the only ones whose scores were settled by the law. Four especially fine birds now roost in prisons. Fred Burke, "Machine Gun" Kelly, Albert Bates and Harvey Bailey will do no more murdering or kidnaping.

The last three named were neatly caught and convicted of complicity in the kidnaping of Charles Urschel, Oklahoma City oil man.

Bailey and Bates were the first to get life sentences under the new "Lindbergh kidnaping law." All three are in isolated cells in Fort Leavenworth prison, and are not likely ever to step outside its high walls.

When Fred Burke heard the judge sentence him to hard labor

"Killer" Burke, above, in chains, goes to a lucky life sentence; while Wilbur Underhill, below, awaits the bullet-ridden death he meted out to others.

TOWNSEND TO BE SPEAKER AT PENSION PICNIC

Sponsored by the Old Age Revolving Pensions, Ltd., a big picnic will be staged next Saturday from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m. at Bixby Park in Long Beach, it was announced today. Those who attended were asked to bring their own lunch, or the lunch may be purchased on the grounds.

The program will include the Gillmore Boy's band of more than 75 pieces, the Long Beach Fireman's band of more than 65 pieces, Pattie's Accordion band, and talented Lillian Newman kiddies in a program of specialty dance numbers.

Speakers will be Dr. F. E. Townsend, originator of the old age pension plan which has achieved national prominence; Louis Mertins, renowned lecturer and poet, Dr. Forsythe, Long Beach, and Harry E. Hayes, leader of the young people's division.

More than 250,000 persons have signed petitions to congress asking that they pass the old age pension bill, it was stated, and branch organizations have sprung up in 13 different states.

MISS WHITNEY TO SEEK RE-ELECTION

County Recorder Justine Whitney today made known that she will be a candidate for re-election at the August primary.

In a brief statement, Miss Whitney said that she desired to announce her candidacy so that her friends will know that she expects to seek re-election. Her reason for making the announcement at this time, she said, was because of the fact that rumors are being circulated to the effect that she does not intend to seek the office again.

FARM GROUP ASKS PLAN FOR RELIEF WORK

Advocating the development in Orange county of a long-time program of constructive project work, utilizing relief work in the best and most constructive way possible and at the same time to make possible flood control, water conservation and other important county projects, Garden Grove Farm Center committee comprised of H. Clay Kellogg, A. L. Schneider, Ralph Chaffee, A. D. Sandoval and Sam Teel appeared before the board of supervisors yesterday, asking the board to appoint a commission representative of the various interests of the county to develop the program.

A resolution which had been adopted by the Farm Bureau directors and which was presented to the board of supervisors concluded as follows:

"Now, therefore, be it resolved, that we, the directors of the Orange County Farm Bureau respectfully request the Orange county board of supervisors, in the interests of economy, efficiency, constructive maintenance and development of our resources to immediately appoint a commission, representative of the varied interests of Orange county; this commission to be charged with the responsibility of developing a long-time program of constructive project work, so that expenditures for relief work may be utilized for the economic well-being of Orange county, and needed constructive projects may be started at this time."

BLOW-OUT PROTECTION!
Golden Ply in Safety Silvertown Resists Heat—Tires Last Months Longer

You never know when your turn for a blow-out may come. BANG! The wheel is jerked out of your control before you know what has happened. Don't take this terrible risk with your life and the lives of your family and friends. The Life-Saver Golden Ply in every new Silvertown prevents blow-outs by eliminating their great, unseen cause. In the junior college, it was decided to discontinue the part-time service of Arthur Terrill, and to re-elect S. J. Mustol only to the high school district, instead of both high school and junior college. It was pointed out that he has been giving no junior college instruction during the current year. His annual salary of $2402 will be reduced to the high school maximum of $2242.

Four home teachers dismissed, but probably all to be re-employed, were Ruth Bartlett, instructor in lip reading; Mrs. Florence McKee, Mrs. Louise B. Stearns and Mrs. Elizabeth Watson.

The dismassal and re-employment, it was explained, is a move to safeguard against the establishment of uninterrupted em-

Kelly, Bailey, Bates and Burke Get Life Behind Stone Walls; Underhill and Brady Die With Boots on; Violent End for Klutas

This is the third of six absorbing stories on notorious outlaws of the nation, how their crimson careers were halted by bullet, rope, or prison cell, and of present-day "most wanted" criminals, their records and detailed descriptions.

TEMPORARY success of the Dillingers, Floyds, and Barrows of banditry in defying the law can not obscure the fact that an unheard-of number of big-time bandits came face to face with the last roundup during the last year. At least five "big-shot" bandits went down under police gunfire, two were killed by their own kind, and at least four more went behind the bars to stay.

There were 13 bullets in the dying body of Wilbur Underhill when armed guards carried him through the gates of Oklahoma State prison.

Underhill had cut a desperate trail through three states—Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma. He was one of four brothers who were all criminals. He killed one man during a Christmas night drug store holdup at Okmulgee, Okla.; murdered a deputy sheriff and a policeman who sought to capture him.

He was one of 11 convicts who broke from the Kansas State penitentiary, kidnaping the warden.

Target of Relentless Hunt

Half a dozen bank robberies were blamed on Underhill shortly after the Kansas escape, and he is believed also to have taken part in the machine-gun attack on a prison convoy at Kansas City's Union Station Plaza, in which five men were massacred.

So the law clung to his trail relentlessly. Ill and half-clad, he barely escaped a raid on a farmhouse near Shawnee, Okla. One of his confederates, Gene Johnston, was shot to death by police at Springtown, Ark.

The law closed in on a house in the heart of Shawnee. Visited at midnight, it showed no signs of occupancy. But the law returned at 2:30, and found lights. Through a lighted window the law challenged: "Stick 'em up!"

Underhill whirled, grabbed a gun from a table, and fired through the window. A fusillade of lead tore through the house, killing a woman who was with Underhill. Underhill ran from the house in a spray of bullets, fell, rose, and ran on.

The End of "Big Boy"

Sixteen blocks he carried those bullets, and was found hiding in a bed in the rear of a furniture store. He died shortly afterward.

Similar was the end of Bob "Big Boy" Brady, outlaw and prison breaker, who had been a companion of Underhill in the Kansas break, Brady's third prison escape.

Only a few weeks after Underhill's death, Brady was run to earth by a sheriff's posse near Paola, Kan., with three other escapers who had been making their way across country on foot, walking by night, hiding by da A farmer spotted them, turned in a report, and quickly a posse gathered.

Brady tried to fight. He leveled a sawed-off shotgun, but the sheriff's men were quicker, and he went down full of the charges of two shotguns. The other three were easily captured.

Collegian Turns Kidnaper

"Handsome Jack" Klutas could think of nothing better to do with a college education than to start a kidnaping ring. The former University of Illinois student pulled off a half dozen kidnapings said to have netted him nearly a half million dollars.

Klutas got away with it for several years, making elaborate efforts to evade the law by operations to alter his facial appearance and his fingerprints.

He lived in apparent respectability. His accomplice, Russell Hughes, did the same, sporting a false mustache, and changing the style of his hair and clothes.

But that did not prevent a sharp-eyed policeman from recognizing Hughes as he stood loafing at the door of a Peoria, Ill., barber shop. The police cruiser stopped, and Hughes backed into the store, firing with two guns.

Two policemen, though wounded (one died later), went in after him, firing as they went.

Both Abductors Slain

Hughes, crouched behind a barber chair, died with seven bullets in his body.

It was an ill omen for Klutas. He was living in apparent respectability in a neat brick house at Belwood, Ill. And when police arrived for the last roundup, Klutas' chose to shoot it out.

His body was neatly clothed in striped suit, pearl-gray spats, and a derby hat as it lay before his doorstep when the police guns stopped spitting.

Kenneth Conn was just beginning to build himself quite a reputation as a bank robber when he tried it on the wrong bank. At Altamont, Kan., the cashier of the Labette County State Bank resisted when Conn and a companion stuck up the bank.

Isaac McCarty, the cashier, shot the accomplice with a shotgun. Conn grabbed McCarty's wife and held her in front of him as a shield.

But McCarty dropped the shotgun and picked up a rifle, with which he neatly killed Conn with two well-placed shots which never touched Mrs. McCarty.

Sheriff Snuffs Out Pair

Other budding crime careers which were cut short by a resolute sheriff were those of Sam Scola and Fasone. They had just shot down a gang enemy from an auto in Kansas City, Mo., when Sheriff Thomas B. Bash happened by in his own car.

Bash swung his machine in front of the bandit car, and with a rot gun snuffed out Scola and Fasone before they could raise their weapons.

Two of the slimiest of such criminals were removed without danger or trouble to the law when Verne Miller and Gus Winkler were blotted out by their own kind.

Miller, an expert machine gunner with a long string of crimes on his record, was found dead in a ditch near Detroit. He had been the machine gunner in the Kansas City massacre, but he was not even allowed to die by the gun—he had been beaten to death. Winkler, who had acted as go-between for several kidnaping rings, was found shot to death on a Chicago sidewalk.

"Big Shots" Go to Prison

But these men who died with the volence with which they lived were not the only ones whose scores were settled by the law. Four especially fine birds now roost in prisons. Fred Burke, "Machine Gun" Kelly, Albert Bates and Harvey Bailey will do no more murdering or kidnaping.

The last three named were neatly caught and convicted of complicity in the kidnaping of Charles Urschel, Oklahoma City oil man.

Bailey and Bates were the first to get life sentences under the new "Lindbergh kidnaping law." All three are in isolated cells in Fort Leavenworth prison, and are not likely ever to step outside its high walls.

When Fred Burke heard the judge sentence him to hard labor

"Killer" Burke, above, in chains, goes to a lucky life sentence; while Wilbur Underhill, below, awaits the bullet-ridden death he meted out to others.

TOWNSEND TO BE SPEAKER AT PENSION PICNIC

Sponsored by the Old Age Revolving Pensions, Ltd., a big picnic will be staged next Saturday from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m. at Bixby Park in Long Beach, it was announced today. Those who attended were asked to bring their own lunch, or the lunch may be purchased on the grounds.

The program will include the Gillmore Boy's band of more than 75 pieces, the Long Beach Fireman's band of more than 65 pieces, Pattie's Accordion band, and talented Lillian Newman kiddies in a program of specialty dance numbers.

Speakers will be Dr. F. E. Townsend, originator of the old age pension plan which has achieved national prominence; Louis Mertins, renowned lecturer and poet, Dr. Forsythe, Long Beach, and Harry E. Hayes, leader of the young people's division.

More than 250,000 persons have signed petitions to congress asking that they pass the old age pension bill, it was stated, and branch organizations have sprung up in 13 different states.

MISS WHITNEY TO SEEK RE-ELECTION

County Recorder Justine Whitney today made known that she will be a candidate for re-election at the August primary.

In a brief statement, Miss Whitney said that she desired to announce her candidacy so that her friends will know that she expects to seek re-election. Her reason for making the announcement at this time, she said, was because of the fact that rumors are being circulated to the effect that she does not intend to seek the office again.

FARM GROUP ASKS PLAN FOR RELIEF WORK

Advocating the development in Orange county of a long-time program of constructive project work, utilizing relief work in the best and most constructive way possible and at the same time to make possible flood control, water conservation and other important county projects, Garden Grove Farm Center committee comprised of H. Clay Kellogg, A. L. Schneider, Ralph Chaffee, A. D. Sandoval and Sam Teel appeared before the board of supervisors yesterday, asking the board to appoint a commission representative of the various interests of the county to develop the program.

A resolution which had been adopted by the Farm Bureau directors and which was presented to the board of supervisors concluded as follows:

"Now, therefore, be it resolved, that we, the directors of the Orange County Farm Bureau respectfully request the Orange county board of supervisors, in the interests of economy, efficiency, constructive maintenance and development of our resources to immediately appoint a commission, representative of the varied interests of Orange county; this commission to be charged with the responsibility of developing a long-time program of constructive project work, so that expenditures for relief work may be utilized for the economic well-being of Orange county, and needed constructive projects may be started at this time."

Luncheon Bridge Club Entertain Husbands At Evening Affair

Members of the Friday luncheon bridge club and their husbands were entertained Saturday evening in the banquet room of Weber's bakery, 2656 North Main street. Hostesses were Mesdames Leonard Gorzeman, Richard Lewis and Henry Schleuter.

Bridge was the chosen diversion with prizes going to Mrs. Orville Fowler and Lory Roehm, high; and Mrs. Leonard Gorzeman and Kenneth Kinnison, second. A green, yellow and pink theme was stressed in the flowers appointing the room, and again in the rainty crepe paper table covers for the refreshment course. Strawberry shortcake topped with whipped cream was served with coffee.

Present were Messrs and Mesdames Ed Stover, Cecil DeSpain, George Randall, L. C. Luz, Paul Banks, Clarence Fowler, Orville Fowler, Raymond Nelson, Lory Roehm, Earl Patterson, Harold Grimes, Leonard Gorzeman, Richard Lewis, Henry Schleuter, Ernest Jacobson of Orange; Kenneth Kinnison of Torrance.

Ebell Section Enjoys Talk on French Literature

Giving a delightfully informative talk on "Modern French Literature," Mrs. Thomas Glenn was speaker yesterday afternoon at a meeting of Ebell Book Review section held in the home of Mrs. J. F. Burke, Panorama Heights. Mrs. E. W. Spruance, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Glenn.

Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. J. F. Burke, Mrs. Loyal King, Mrs. Maxwell Burke and Mrs. C. M. Rowland. They presided over a pleasant social hour at the program's close, serving refreshments on individual trays. Baskets of gladioluses brightened rooms of the home.

Mrs. King, section leader, conducted the business meeting. The June meeting will close the section's activities for the club year.

World Events, Books Are Discussed by Mrs. Vallely

Asserting that in her 10 years of public reviews of books and of political events of world wide scope, the year which she is now bringing to a close had proven the most interesting, Mrs. Jack Vallely Monday gave her final summary of books and events for the current year, before Santa Ana Ebell society.

She pointed out that in world events, news from Japan was sometimes startling; from Austria was alarming, and from the United States, discouraging, but at least it was all most exciting. All present indications she declared to be an answer, sometimes varied in nature, to the question. Is it possible to bring forth great social and economic changes under the parliamentary form of government."

In discussing the use of the term revolution, she cited the many manners in which it may be applied but declared that only five types were recognized in using it in a political sense, national, religious, middle class, proletarian and palace revolutions, and quoted brief examples of each in illustration.

Discussing the child labor amendment, she told of the various opinions both favorable and adverse. Before launching the review of books announced for the afternoon, she called attention to two important ones dealing with war munitions, "Merchants of Death" and Seldes' "Iron, Blood and Profits."

Books on her programmed list included "The New Dealers" (anonymous); Franklin D. Roosevelt's "On Our Way" which she summed up as one of the most interesting of the current volumes but whose points she had dwelt upon from time to time in her presentation of events of national interest, and Rober Babson's informative "Washington and Revolutionists."

Lewis Browne's "How Odd of God" presenting a complete history of Jewry but written with a delightfully light touch; "Nijinsky" by Romola Nijinsky, wife of the famous dance of the Russian Imperial ballet, declared to be one of the few fine biographies of the year; "Old Waybills" by Alvin Harlow, giving in fascinating manner the history of the large express companies, and "The Gorgeous Hussy" by Samuel Hopkins Adams were other books analyzed skillfully and entertainingly. The Adams book is based on the history of Peggy O'Neill, "the only American woman who ever influenced history."

"Journey to the End of Night" by Celine, she declared to be "not an autobiography but an explosion," and quoted various critics who see in the book, one as important in its influence on current literary productions as "Ulysses" by James Joyce. She declared it to be a remarkable story of the under dog who looked no direction but down.

MacKinlay Kantor's "Long Remember" based on the Battle of Gettysburg, an unusually significant piece of historical fiction, and F. Scott Fitzgerald's "Tender is the Night," a psychoanalytical novel, completed Mrs. Vallely's afternoon and her year's programs locally.

Surprise Linen Shower Honors Bride-elect Of June

A linen shower honoring Miss Betty Perdew, who on June 17 will become the bride of Alan Howell, was given recently by Miss Kathryn Sexton who entertained in her home, 1407 Spurgeon street.

Bridge was played with prizes going to Miss Pauline Wells, high, and Miss Erline Farmer, low. Refreshments of a salad course and coffee were served at the card tables. The hostess was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Myrtle Sexton and her sister, Miss Louise Sexton. A variety of stocks, sweet peas and snapdragons lent floral charm to the home.

The honoree was very much surprised when a handsome cedar-lined walnut chest was brought in and placed before her. The chest was a gift of her fiance, and upon opening it she found it contained an assortment of dainty linens, gifts of the assembled guests.

Present in addition to the honoree, Miss Perdew, were the Misses Pauline Wells, Irene Boyer, Maxine Decker, Lucille Howell, Martha Tuthill, Medora Smith, Erline Farmer, Louise Sexton, Norma Wilson, Betty Vorce, and Mesdames John Taylor, Cotton Bennett, Claude Williams, George Berry, Myrtle Sexton, and the hostess, Miss Kathryn Sexton.

Engagement Revealed To Job's Daughters Officers

The J. F. McDonald home, 115 South Van Ness avenue was a veritable bower of spring flowers Saturday afternoon, when Miss Frankie McDonald entertained fellow officers of Job's Daughters.

Bridge was the chosen diversion and pribes were won by Miss Harriet Chapin, high; and Miss Lenore McFarren, second. The surprise of the afternoon came during the refreshment hour, when tables were decorated with miniature maypoles, for at the end of each dainty streamer was a tiny scroll bearing the names "Frankie and Bill." This was to announce the engagement of Miss McDonald to William E. Sylvester, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Sylvester. Their marriage will be an event of December.

Refreshments of molded ice cream centered with wedding bells and individual cakes decorated with pink flowers were served with iced tea.

Present in addition to the hostess, Miss McDonald, who was assisted by her mother, Mrs. J. F. McDonald, were her grandmother, Mrs. Minnie Hall, and Mesdames V. J. Anderson, W. J. Dean, P. A. Martin, W. R. Sylvester, and E. A. Getchell, the latter three who are sister, mother and grandmother respectively of Miss McDonald's fiance. Job's Daughters present were the Misses Audrey McDonald, Eloise Schrier, Lorraine Wheeler, Ruth Dohmer, Dora Perkins, Sylvian Combs, Dorothy Carlson, Letitia Morgan, Fern Anderson, Dolores Larsen, Betty Hartman, Marian Doty, Virginia Motley, Harriet Chapin, Charlotte McCausland, Lenore McFarren, Mary Crowe, Mary Alice Russey, Fern Farmer.

YOU and Your Friends

Miss Armine Crawford has completed her junior year at University of California, Berkeley, and has arrived to spend the summer with her mother, Mrs. Aimee C. Crawford, 110 Roe drive.

Spurgeon P.-T. A. executive board met yesterday with Mrs. Harold Wahlberg, 619 South Broadway for a covered dish luncheon and a business meeting. Present with Mrs. Wahlberg were Mesdames C. L. Aubrey, Twyla De Moritz, Dean Wallace, R. E. Steinberger, J. P. Wallace, James Givens, Frank Corey, R. D. Flaherty, Virgil Clem, Wollard McCain and Rufus G. Bond.

Mrs. Martha Dunlap of Glendora and her daughter, Mrs. Delta Porter of New York, are visiting for a few days at the home of their son and brother, W. C. Dunlap, 2143 North Main street.

Miss Mabel Pruitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Pruitt, 1010 West Sixth street, was one of four University of Southern California students to be pledged to National Collegiate Players, honorary dramatic fraternity, at a recent meeting. Pledging was held in conjunction with a Drama shop luncheon held in the Women's residence of the university. Miss Pruitt, now in her fourth year at the university, is vice president of the Drama shop.

Parent-Teachers

Huge baskets of the season's choicest blooms decorated K. of C. hall for the benefit card party given Friday evening by members of St. Joseph's P.-T. A.

Prizes in bridge were awarded Mrs. Ed Daley, high; Mrs. Irvin Engleman, second; and Miss Louise Comito, low. Men's prizes went to Ethelbert Johnson, high; Dr. V. C. Croal, second; and Frank Glaub, low. In 500, ladies prizes went to Mrs. Jack Oakie, high; Miss Margaret Knipe, second; Mrs. Mary Bauer, low. Men's prizes were awarded Henry Cochems, high; Michael Kane, second; Zachary Halman, low. The hope chest to be given away on the evening of May 26, was on display, and much admired.

ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL

EAT AND GROW SLIM

Dinner

1 cup vegetable broth
1 medium slice rare roast beef
12 stalks fresh asparagus with
2 tbsps. mineral oil mayonnaise
1 small pan-roasted potato
1 dish strawberries with
1 tsp. sugar
Clear tea or black coffee, no sugar.

Calory total, 450.

Vegetable broth to be good, should be made and used right away. Certainly it is the housewife's prayer for some way to ustilize the outer leaves of various vegetables formerly thrown away.

Put into a kettle, the finely shredded outer leaves of one or two heads of cabbage, a small can of tomatoes, or several soft ripe ones, which can often be found for five cents per pound. Outer stalks of celery and leafy tops go in. Finely diced carrot and turnip—not much of either—minced parsley and a suspicion of onion. Add 2½ quarts of water to the shredded vegetables, bring to a boil, skim of fthe scum, cover and simmer for an hour. Add a small chunk of butter, salt and pepper, and the broth is ready—full of vitamins and comfort for demanding stomachs.

This funny season is going to bring red currants into the market before you can catch your breath. I ran across this clever way of making jelly from uncooked currants, and consider it worth while offering to women who read this column.

Wash currants, on the stem, mash them thoroughly, put into a jelly bag and drip the juice. Cover and set away for 24 hours in a cool spot. At that time froth will have formed, skim it off, and strain again through the jelly bag, weigh the juice and add pound for pound of sugar. Stir until dissolved, place the liquid in small jars, securely covered and set away.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Mint Sherbet

1 cup fresh mint leaves
Juice of 2 lemons
2 cups sugar boiled with
2 cups water, 5 minutes
Juice of 2 oranges
Green vegetable coloring
1 egg white whipped stiff.

Put mint leaves in a bowl, add lemon juice and bruise the leaves to release the flavor. Cover and let stand 30 minutes.

Make the sugar syrup while waiting for the mint. When ready add mint leaves to hot syrup, along with orange juice, and let stand until cold. Strain, add vegetable coloring, and a little creme-de-menthe if you have it. Freeze to a mush, then add the whipped egg white and beat until the sherbet is creamy looking. Finish freezing. Serve with lamb, or with broiled steak.

Meringue Shells "Kisses"

3 egg whites beaten stiff
2 cups fine sugar, beaten in gradually
1 tbsp, vinegar, added drop by drop
1 tsp. vanilla

Whip egg whites until they stand up in peaks, then gradually work in the 2 cups of fine sugar, beating until the meringue takes on a glossy look. Continue beating while the vinegar is worked in drop by drop, then fold in the vanilla.

Have a biscuit sheet well oiled, put on it a white paper to fit, oiled also. Drop spoonfuls of the meringue mixture on the paper and bake in a very slow, oven for one hour. The shells must absolutely dry out before taken from the oven. Shape them before baking, making a depression for later filling with fruit, etc.

THE SMART MATRON MUST NEVER LOOK MATRONLY

PATTERN 1779

BY ANNE ADAMS

Now-a-days, women of all ages simply have to be looking slim and young, and the way they do it is to keep a slightly watchful eye on the calories—and wear frocks like this! The frock is the biggest part of the secret. A good one, as you see, simply covers up curves with a cape and misleads the eye with such tricks as those slenderizing points at the hips. But don't suppose that it neglects that essential matter of smartness. It is really charming in foulard, sheer cotton or the ever popular georgette or chiffon.

Pattern 1779 is available in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 takes 3 3-4 yards 39 inch fabric and 3-4 yard 2 1-2 inch lace. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

THE LATEST EDITION OF THE ANNE ADAMS PATTERN BOOK features all the best seasonal styles for adults and children. Send for your copy of this interesting, helpful book and be chic. PRICE OF BOOK FIFTEEN CENTS. BOOK AND PATTERN TOGETHER, TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

Address orders to The Register Pattern Department.

Luncheon Bridge Club Entertain Husbands At Evening Affair

Members of the Friday luncheon bridge club and their husbands were entertained Saturday evening in the banquet room of Weber's bakery, 2656 North Main street. Hostesses were Mesdames Leonard Gorzeman, Richard Lewis and Henry Schleuter.

Bridge was the chosen diversion with prizes going to Mrs. Orville Fowler and Lory Roehm, high; and Mrs. Leonard Gorzeman and Kenneth Kinnison, second. A green, yellow and pink theme was stressed in the flowers appointing the room, and again in the rainty crepe paper table covers for the refreshment course. Strawberry shortcake topped with whipped cream was served with coffee.

Present were Messrs and Mesdames Ed Stover, Cecil DeSpain, George Randall, L. C. Lux, Paul Banks, Clarence Fowler, Orville Fowler, Raymond Nelson, Lory Roehm, Earl Patterson, Harold Grimes, Leonard Gorzeman, Richard Lewis, Henry Schleuter, Ernest Jacobson of Orange; Kenneth Kinnison of Torrance.

Ebell Section Enjoys Talk on French Literature

Giving a delightfully informative talk on "Modern French Literature," Mrs. Thomas Glenn was speaker yesterday afternoon at a meeting of Ebell Book Review section held in the home of Mrs. J. F. Burke, Panorama Heights. Mrs. E. W. Spruance, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Glenn.

Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. J. F. Burke, Mrs. Loyal King, Mrs. Maxwell Burke and Mrs. C. M. Rowland. They presided over a pleasant social hour at the program's close, serving refreshments on individual trays. Baskets of gladioluses brightened rooms of the home.

Mrs. King, section leader, conducted the business meeting. The June meeting will close the section's activities for the club year.

World Events, Books Are Discussed by Mrs. Vallely

Asserting that in her 10 years of public reviews of books and of political events of world wide scope, the year which she is now bringing to a close had proven the most interesting, Mrs. Jack Vallely Monday gave her final summary of books and events for the current year, before Santa Ana Ebell society.

She pointed out that in world events, news from Japan was sometimes startling; from Austria was alarming, and from the United States, discouraging, but at least it was all most exciting. All present indications she declared to be an answer, sometimes varied in nature, to the question. Is it possible to bring forth great social and economic changes under the parliamentary form of government."

In discussing the use of the term revolution, she cited the many manners in which it may be applied but declared that only five types were recognized in using it in a political sense, national, religious, middle class, proletarian and palace revolutions, and quoted brief examples of each in illustration.

Discussing the child labor amendment, she told of the various opinions both favorable and adverse. Before launching the review of books announced for the afternoon, she called attention to two important ones dealing with war munitions, "Merchants of Death" and Seldes' "Iron, Blood and Profits."

Books on her programmed list included "The New Dealers" (anotymous); Franklin D. Roosevelt's "On Our Way" which she summed up as one of the most interesting of the current volumes, but whose points she had dwelt upon from time to time in her presentation of events of national interest, and Rober Babson's informative "Washington and Revolutionists."

Lewis Browne's "How Odd of God" presenting a complete history of Jewry but written with a delightfully light touch; "Nijinsky" by Romola Nijinsky, wife of the famous dance of the Russian Imperial ballet, declared to be one of the few fine biographies of the year; "Old Waybills" by Alvin Harlow, giving in fascinating manner the history of the large express companies and "The Gorgeous Hussy" by Samuel Hopkins Adams were other books analyzed skillfully and entertainingly. The Adams book is based on the history of Peggy O'Neill, "the only American woman who ever influenced history."

"Journey to the End of Night" by Celine, she declared to be "not an autobiography but an explosion," and quoted various critics who see in the book, one as important in its influence on current literary productions as "Ulysses" by James Joyce. She declared it to be a remarkable story of the under dog who looked no direction but down.

MacKinlay Kantor's "Long Remember" based on the Battle of Gettysburg, an unusually significant piece of historical fiction, and F. Scott Fitzgerald's "Tender is the Night," a psychoanalytical novel, completed Mrs. Vallely's afternoon and her year's programs locally.

Surprise Linen Shower Honors Bride-elect Of June

A linen shower honoring Miss Betty Perdew, who on June 17 will become the bride of Alan Howell, was given recently by Miss Kathryn Sexton who entertained in her home, 1407 Spurgeon street.

Bridge was played with prizes going to Miss Pauline Wells, high, and Miss Erline Farmer, low. Refreshments of a salad course and coffee were served at the card tables. The hostess was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Myrtle Sexton and her sister, Miss Louise Sexton. A variety of stocks, sweet peas and snapdragons lent floral charm to the home.

The honoree was very much surprised when a handsome cedar-lined walnut chest was brought in and placed before her. The chest was a gift of her fiance, and upon opening it she found it contained an assortment of dainty linens, gifts of the assembled guests.

Present in addition to the honoree, Miss Perdew, were the Misses Pauline Wells, Irene Boyer, Maxine Decker, Lucille Howell, Martha Tuthill, Medora Smith, Erline Farmer, Louise Sexton, Norma Wilson, Betty Vorce, and Mesdames John Taylor, Cotton Bennett, Claude Williams, George Berry, Myrtle Sexton, and the hostess, Miss Kathryn Sexton.

Engagement Revealed To Job's Daughters Officers

The J. F. McDonald home, 115 South Van Ness avenue was a veritable bower of spring flowers Saturday afternoon, when Miss Frankie McDonald entertained fellow officers of Job's Daughters.

Bridge was the chosen diversion and pribes were won by Miss Harriet Chapin, high; and Miss Lenore McFarren, second. The surprise of the afternoon came during the refreshment hour, when tables were decorated with miniature maypoles, for at the end of each dainty streamer was a tiny scroll bearing the names "Frankie and Bill." This was to announce the engagement of Miss McDonald to William E. Sylvester, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Sylvester. Their marriage will be an event of December.

Refreshments of molded ice cream centered with wedding bells and individual cakes decorated with pink flowers were served with iced tea.

Present in addition to the hostess, Miss McDonald, who was assisted by her mother, Mrs. J. F. McDonald, were her grandmother, Mrs. Minnie Hall, and Mesdames V. J. Anderson, W. J. Dean, P. A. Martin, W. R. Sylvester, and E. A. Getchell, the latter three who are sister, mother and grandmother respectively of Miss McDonald's fiance. Job's Daughters present were the Misses Audrey McDonald, Eloise Schrier, Lorraine Wheeler, Ruth Dohmer, Dora Perkins, Sylvian Combs, Dorothy Carlson, Letitia Morgan, Fern Anderson, Dolores Larsen, Betty Hartman, Marian Doty, Virginia Motley, Harriet Chapin, Charlotte McCausland, Lenore McFarren, Mary Crowe, Mary Alice Russey, Fern Farmer.

YOU and Your Friends

Miss Armine Crawford has completed her junior year at University of California, Berkeley, and has arrived to spend the summer with her mother, Mrs. Aimee C. Crawford, 110 Roe drive.

Spurgeon P.-T. A. executive board met yesterday with Mrs. Harold Wahlberg, 619 South Broadway for a covered dish luncheon and a business meeting. Present with Mrs. Wahlberg were Mesdames C. L. Aubrey, Twyla De Moritz, Dean Wallace, R. E. Steinberger, J. P. Wallace, James Givens, Frank Corey, R. D. Flaherty, Virgil Clem, Wollard McCain and Rufus G. Bond.

Mrs. Martha Dunlap of Glendora and her daughter, Mrs. Delta Porter of New York, are visiting for a few days at the home of their son and brother, W. C. Dunlap, 2143 North Main street.

Miss Mabel Pruitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Pruitt, 1010 West Sixth street, was one of four University of Southern California students to be pledged to National Collegiate Players, honorary dramatic fraternity, at a recent meeting. Pledging was held in conjunction with a Drama shop luncheon held in the Women's residence of the university. Miss Pruitt, now in her fourth year at the university, is vice president of the Drama shop.

Parent-Teachers

Huge baskets of the season's choicest blooms decorated K. of C. hall for the benefit card party given Friday evening by members of St. Joseph's P.-T. A.

Prizes in bridge were awarded Mrs. Ed Daley, high; Mrs. Irvin Engleman, second; and Miss Louise Comito, low. Men's prizes went to Ethelbert Johnson, high; Dr. V. C. Croal, second; and Frank Glaub, low. In 500, ladies prizes went to Mrs. Jack Oakie, high; Miss Margaret Knipe, second; Mrs. Mary Bauer, low. Men's prizes were awarded Henry Cochems, high; Michael Kane, second; Zachary Halman, low. The hope chest to be given away on the evening of May 26, was on display, and much admired.

Refreshments of ribbon sandwiches, home-made cake, and coffee were served at the twenty tables that had been in play. The general committee included Father Francis O'Brien, pastor of St. Joseph's parish, Mrs. William Maag, and Mrs. Robert Landon. The refreshment committee included Mesdames Mary Bowden, Helen Sackerson, William Connors, Philip Tellf, E. Johnson, Claude Norton and William Briggs.

Election Takes Place At Meeting of Auxiliary

Women's Auxiliary to Santa Ana Typographical union elected officers Monday night at its meeting in the home of Mrs. W. H. Fields, 2408 Valencia street. Mrs. J. A. Smith was co-hostess.

Mrs. J. E. Swanger, retiring president, conducted the meeting, during which Mrs. F. E. Stilwell was named her successor. Others chosen were Mrs. Fields, vice president; Mrs. Carl Fisher, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. George Duke, chaplain; Mrs. William Lawrence, guide.

Plans were made to assist with decoration of deceased union members' graves on Decoration day. Flowers are to be taken to Warren Brakeman Sunday, May 27, by 9 a. m.

It was decided to have the next social meeting of the auxiliary Monday, May 28, at 1 p. m., with Mrs. C. A. Rousseau, 1221 South Main street. The next business meeting will be held Monday, June 11, at 7:30 p. m. with Mrs. J. W. Jones on the highway between Orange and Anaheim.

At the close of the evening Mrs. Fields and Mrs. Smith served a frozen dessert with individual cakes frosted in pink and green.

Those present, with the hostesses, Mrs. Fields and Mrs. Smith, were Mesdames C. C. Thrasher, C. M. Marvin, J. W. Jones, F. E. Stilwell, Mabel Sherwood, C. A. Rousseau, William Lawrence, Carl Fisher, J. E. Swanger, V. C. Shidler and J. W. Parkinson.

Dinner Precedes Card Session

Linen covered card tables with their centerpieces of pansies in rich shades were employed in the serving of a delectable chicken dinner Saturday evening, when Mr. and Mrs. Leland C. Ewbank entertained a group of guests in their home on Tustin avenue.

Following the dinner hour, tables were cleared for bridge. Prizes were awarded Ralph Mitchell and Mrs. Mitchell scoring high, and W. E. Stanford and Mrs. Leonard White, second. The fun prize went to Mrs. Charles Cramer.

Present were Messrs and Mesdames W. E. Stanford of Fullerton, Leonard White of Cypress, Earl Lepper, Virgil Shidler, Ralph Mitchell, Philip LaLonde, Wilbur Gill, Charles Cramer, John Cozad and daughter, Jacqueline, and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Ewbank.

ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL

EAT AND GROW SLIM
Dinner

1 cup vegetable broth
1 medium slice rare roast beef
12 stalks fresh asparagus with
2 tbsps. mineral oil mayonnaise
1 small pan-roasted potato
1 dish strawberries with
1 tsp. sugar
Clear tea or black coffee, no sugar.
Calory total, 450.

Vegetable broth to be good, should be made and used right away. Certainly it is the housewife's prayer for some way to ustilize the outer leaves of various vegetables formerly thrown away.

Put into a kettle, the finely shredded outer leaves of one or two heads of cabbage, a small can of tomatoes, or several soft ripe ones, which can often be found for five cents per pound. Outer stalks of celery and leafy tops go in. Finely diced carrot and turnip—not much of either—minced parsley and a suspicion of onion. Add 2½ quarts of water to the shredded vegetables, bring to a boil, skim of fthe scum, cover and simmer for an hour. Add a small chunk of butter, salt and pepper, and the broth is ready—full of vitamins and comfort for demanding stomachs.

This funny season is going to bring red currants into the market before you can catch your breath. I ran across this clever way of making jelly from uncooked currants, and consider it worth while offering to women who read this column.

Wash currants, on the stem, mash them thoroughly, put into a jelly bag and drip the juice. Cover and set away for 24 hours in a cool spot. At that time froth will have formed, skim it off, and strain again through the jelly bag, weigh the juice and add pound for pound of sugar. Stir until dissolved, place the liquid in small jars, securely covered and set away.

TODAY'S RECIPE
Mint Sherbet

1 cup fresh mint leaves
Juice of 2 lemons
2 cups sugar boiled with
2 cups water, 5 minutes
Juice of 2 oranges
Green vegetable coloring
1 egg white whipped stiff.

Put mint leaves in a bowl, add lemon juice and bruise the leaves to release the flavor. Cover and let stand 30 minutes.

Make the sugar syrup while waiting for the mint. When ready add mint leaves to hot syrup, along with orange juice, and let stand until cold. Strain, add vegetable coloring, and a little creme-de-menthe if you have it. Freeze to a mush, then add the whipped egg white and beat until the sherbet is creamy looking. Finish freezing. Serve with lamb, or with broiled steak.

Meringue Shells "Kisses"

3 egg whites beaten stiff
2 cups fine sugar, beaten in gradually
1 tbsp, vinegar, added drop by drop
1 tsp. vanilla

Whip egg whites until they stand up in peaks, then gradually work in the 2 cups of fine sugar, beating until the meringue takes on a glossy look. Continue beating while the vinegar is worked in drop by drop, then fold in the vanilla.

Have a biscuit sheet well oiled, put on it a white paper to fit, oiled also. Drop spoonfuls of the meringue mixture on the paper and bake in a very slow, oven for one hour. The shells must absolutely dry out before taken from the oven. Shape them before baking, making a depression for later filling with fruit, etc.

Calories: for the sherbet 50 calories per tablespoonful. For the kisses 1700 calories. Divide by the yield to get the value of single shells.

THE SMART MATRON MUST NEVER LOOK MATRONLY

PATTERN 1779

BY ANNE ADAMS

Now-a-days, women of all ages simply have to be looking slim and young, and the way they do it is to keep a slightly watchful eye on the calories—and wear frocks like this! The frock is the biggest part of the secret. A good one, as you see, simply covers up curves with a cape and misleads the eye with such tricks as those slenderizing points at the hips. But don't suppose that it neglects that essential matter of smartness. It is really charming in foulard, sheer cotton or the ever popular georgette or chiffon.

Pattern 1779 is available in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 takes 3 3-4 yards 39 inch fabric and 3-4 yard 2 1-2 inch lace. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

THE LATEST EDITION OF THE ANNE ADAMS PATTERN BOOK features all the best seasonal styles for adults and children. Send for your copy of this interesting, helpful book and be chic. PRICE OF BOOK FIFTEEN CENTS. BOOK AND PATTERN TOGETHER, TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

$85,000 ADDED TO RENOVIZE DRIVE TOTAL

Ninety-two pledges, aggregating $85,000 were added to the Renovize improvement program by the crew of survey men yesterday, according to reports turned in today to W. J. Tway, executive secretary.

This brings the total to date, from five days canvass, to approximately four hundred pledges, for a total volume of work of $230,000, nearly half of the $500,000 goal set for the Renovize Santa Ana campaign.

The largest pledge received yesterday was a $60,000 improvement pledge signed on behalf of the Holly Sugar Company by Manager Baker, covering rebuilding and replacement of machinery in the big Dyer plant in preparation for opening the sugar season.

The bulk of the expenditure will be for labor, and will include machine, metal, concrete work, and installation of new equipment to replace older models.

The survey men were complimented today by J. P. Baumgartner, general chairman of the Renovize campaign, upon the splendid showing made to date, and he expressed himself as well pleased with the public response to the committee's efforts to stimulate a program of permanent improvements in the home and business places of Santa Ana as a means of putting men and women to work.

TWO FACE COURT ON SUPPORT CHARGES

Two non-support cases were heard in justice court today with one defendant being found not guilty and the other receiving probation and ordered to make monthly payments of $20.

Harry F. Rudd, charged with non-support of his minor child by his wife, Margaret Rudd, was found not guilty by Judge Kenneth Morrison. Those testifying were Mr. and Mrs. Rudd and E. C. Hoover. Attorney Z. B. West, jr., defended Rudd while Deputy District Attorney James Davis represented the state.

Burdette Maxwell was granted two years probation by Judge Morrison on a charge of non-support of his minor child, but was ordered to pay $20 monthly for that period, starting June 15. Those testifying were Freda Maxwell, Carrie Allen, William Tway, Burdette Maxwell, Howard S. Vaughn and Grace Maxwell.

BISBY RETURNS TO MANAGE S. A. HOTEL

R. L. Bisby, well known Santa Ana hotel man, and formerly manager of St. Anne's Inn has assumed the managership of the Santa Ana Hotel, Sixth and Main streets, it was learned today.

Bisby replaces J. F. Williams, who has been managing the Santa Ana Hotel. Bisby is in Los Angeles today and is not expected to return here until tomorrow night.

Daughters of Veterans

Past Presidents' club of Sarah A. Rounds tent Daughters of Union Veterans met last week for a picnic luncheon at Jack Fisher park, with Mesdames Elizabeth Adams and Nellie Parker as hostesses.

Members present were Mesdames Elizabeth Adams, Louane Leech, Nellie Parker, Rowena Grout, Maude Sutton, Carrie Smith, Lena Hewitt and the Misses Minnie Cowan and Bertha Belt.

The next meeting will be held Thursday, June 14 at 12:30 p. m. in the home of Mrs. Leech, 426 East Chapman avenue, Orange. Mrs. May Thomas will be cohostess. A supervised luncheon will be served.

HELD FOR TRIAL ON DRUNK CHARGE

Frank Hairres, charged with drunken driving, was bound over to the superior court today when he appeared in justice court.

Hairres was arrested on May 7 at Bishop and South Main streets after Officer B. A. Hershey alleged that he speeded through the business district about 50 miles per hour while weaving from side to side of the street. Hershey and Dr. H. G. Huffman testified in court against Hairres.

Judge Kenneth Morrison fixed bail at $500, which Hairres did not post.

HASENJAEGER TO TAKE TRIP TO ST. LOUIS

Councilman A. C. Hasenjaeger, newly appointed executive vice president of the Commercial National bank, will leave tomorrow morning on a vacation trip to St. Louis, Mo., and will be gone until he assumes his new bank duties shortly after June 1.

Hasenjaeger spent his life in St. Louis before coming to Santa Ana in 1924 and has relatives and business interests there. He is making the trip by motor and will be accompanied by his daughter, Miss May Hasenjaeger, and his sister, Miss Minnie Hasenjaeger.

The trip east will be through Flagstaff, Oklahoma City, Springfield and Arkansas. He will return by way of Kansas City, Sioux City, Denver and Salt Lake City.

Mrs. Nell Woods, secretary of the Southwest Building and Loan association, of which Hasenjaeger is retiring secretary-manager, will be in charge of the office until June 1, when R. C. Raddant will assume his duties.

A peculiar feature of the eastern trip is the fact that Hasenjaeger has not cashed a single city council paycheck since February, 1933, and is using his back pay to finance the vacation tour. He took the monthly $25 checks to the bank today and cashed them.

SABELLI AND POND TO RESUME FLIGHT

LAHINCH, Irish Free State — May 16.—(UP) — Cesare Sabelli and George R. Pond, rested and eager to continue their adventure, surveyed their monoplane Leonardo Da Vinci in a field two miles from here today and prepared to resume, perhaps late today, their New-York-Rome flight.

The flyers, listed among the fortunate ones who barely made the transatlantic flight that has cost so many lives, believed they could easily repair the slight damage to the plane's undercarriage and fix the balky gasoline and oil feed lines.

Both men, the Italian, Sabelli and the American Pond, agreed their flight was the worst of experiences that extend back before the World war in which they served.

PRESENT AMERICAN WOMEN TO COURT

LONDON, May 16.—(UP)—Eight more American women went through final preparation today for presentation at tonight's royal court at Buckingham palace.

Thirteen were presented last night, and made their curtseys before King George, in the uniform of colonel-in-chief of the Royal Horse guards, and Queen Mary, in a powder blue gown and jewelry that included the Kohinoor diamond.

Those to be presented tonight include Miss Nancy Penoyer, San Francisco and Mrs. Pyrns Hopkins, Santa Barbara, Calif.

CONTROVERSY ON TEACHER'S POST SETTLED

Miss Bertha Briney, teacher in the commercial department at Willard Junior High school, yesterday accepted the compromise offer of the board of education that she present her resignation, effective June 15, 1935, for immediate consideration as an alternative to notice of dismissal, with charges of incompetence.

Miss Briney had presented a previous resignation to the board Monday evening, effective a year hence "at the option of the board" at that time. The term of the present board would expire before that time.

Dismissed by the board last year, Miss Briney won her appeal to superior court on the ground that she is a permanent teacher under the state tenure law, which prohibits dismissal except for grounds specified by the law itself. This year, the board was prepared to accompany its notice of dismissal by the filing of charges, a move precluded by the teacher's resignation last night included the request that she be employed on half-time service during her remaining year of service.

COAST GROUP PLANS SECOND ATTEMPT TO RAISE $7000 FUND

Orange county coast leaders who raised a $7000 newspaper advertising fund 23 years ago that resulted in great benefits to the district, volunteered at the meeting of the Orange County Coast association at the Woman's club in Costa Mesa last night to attempt to raise a new fund in the face of seeming failure by the advertising committee of the organization.

They will meet Friday afternoon at the office of State Highway Commissioner Phil A. Stanton and make plans for visiting every city council and chamber of commerce along the 40 miles of coast. The committee, named by vote of the association, consists of Stanton, Lew H. Wallace of Newport Beach, J. P. Greeley of Balboa, Councilman Howard G. Heisler of Laguna Beach, Jesse A. Armitage of Sunset Beach and A. B. Rousselle of Newport Beach, all of whom were members of the committee named by the South Coast Improvement association more than a generation ago.

This action came following the reading of a report by Secretary Harry A. Welch that had been prepared by Sam A. Meyer of Newport Beach, chairman of the advertising committee and which told of unsuccessful efforts to gather funds and suggested that it was inadvisable to continue.

OUT OF JAIL 11 HOURS; IN AGAIN

Arrested again 11 hours after being released from jail, Albert Garcia and Chris Gillardo were arraigned in justice court yesterday on liquor law violation charges.

Gillardo and Garcia concluded 30 day terms for disturbing the peace Monday morning. Gillardo, charged with drunken driving yesterday, had his preliminary hearing set for May 22 at 9 a. m. and is being held in jail under $1000 bail.

Garcia, riding with Gillardo at the time of the arrest, pleaded guilty to a drunkenness charge, was sentenced to serve 30 days in jail or pay a $50 fine. He did not pay the fine and was committed.

KENTUCKY GOVERNOR GETS DEATH THREAT

FRANKFORT, Ky., May 16.—(UP)—Gov. Ruby Lafoon of Kentucky, today had received a second death threat. National guardsmen were posted at the executive mansion.

Governor Lafoon recently received a threat, signed in red ink by "The Dillinger Squad." It demanded release of Neal Bowman, Ohio fugitive who awaits trial at Harrodsburg, Ky., charged with killing a member of his criminal band. Details of the second threat were withheld.

Decoration Class To Make L.A. Trip

The interior decorating class of the evening high school will study examples of the art in American and foreign quarters of Los Angeles, on an excursion planned Sunday under leadership of their instructors, Miss Edith Hynes, it was announced today. The group will travel by bus, leaving the northwest corner of Birch park at 12:30 p. m.. They will dine in a Chinese cafe, and visit shops and other points of interest to the interior decorator. About 30 have arranged to make the trip and others, who were not in attendance at the last meeting, may make reservations with Mrs. Golden Weston, telephone 1708, not later than Friday, she stated today.

PROGRAM GIVEN BY ENGINEERS PLEASES MANY

Stories of scientific crime prevention, showing of motion pictures, chemical experiments, radio demonstrations and activities of the club were features of the annual members and parents banquet of the Santa Ana High School Engineering club held last night in the high school cafeteria.

Captain Don Wilkie, retired United States secret service officer from Laguna Beach, was the main speaker of the evening and told of several famous criminals and how they were brought to justice. He scored the elective system of choosing judges and declared that judges could not mete out justice when they had to run for office.

President Norman Smith was in charge of the program, which opened with a short history of the club by Advisor Charles Tibbetts, woodshop instructor. Business Manager Louis Holmes gave a financial statement of the club's campus lunch stand and Tom Croddy gave a short talk on pledgeship.

Francis Davis of the radio division told of the many receiving and transmitting sets constructed by the club since 1922 and then with Charles Kaufman and Rodney Engle, gave a demonstration of the club broadcasting station. A short chemistry demonstration was given by Jack Hubbard and Isaac Van Gorkum.

One of the highlights of the evening was a showing of motion pictures taken during the club's recent trip to Boulder Dam by Calvin Breeding and Brooks Wright.

To carry out the desert theme, living cacti displays were arranged in the banquet hall and small potted cacti were at each plate as favors. Placecards were photographs of the half-completed dam and miniature desert houses and cliff dwellings were on the tables. Handpainted programs were designed by Mary Louis Wallace and printed by the high school Fine Arts Press.

Nearly 150 members, parents, faculty members and guests attended the banquet. Among the guests who were introduced and spoke briefly were School Superintendent Frank Henderson, County School Superintendent Ray Adkinson, Dr. Marguerite Baker, George R. Wells, Rolla Hayes, M. B. Youel and W. M. Burke, school board members; Principal D. K. Hammond, Vice-Principal W. M. Clayton, Assistant Principal Lynn Crawford, and Herb Alleman, adviser of the club for one year after its organization in 1920.

Club officers who arranged the banquet were Smith, Vice President Howard McQuiggle, Secretary Calvin Breeding and Manager Louis Holmes. Mrs. Charles Tibbetts supervised the banquet, which was served by a group of high school girls.

FEDERAL OFFICERS BOOK 9 AT JAIL

Seven Mexicans were booked at the county jail yesterday for violation of the immigration laws and illegal entry into the United States, while two more men were booked by federal officers on charges of forgery and counterfeiting.

Officers Davis, Floyd, Alshouse and Palmer of the border patrol, made two visits to the jail. Guadelupe Castro, 35, and Leabrado Castenada, 22, both living on East Pine street, were jailed for illegal entry at 5:40 p. m. while Teodoro Castro, 28, 841 East Washington avenue, Francisco Ybarra, 28, Manuel Castro, 21, and Jesus Munoz, 21, all of Arlington, were booked on the same charge at 7:15 p. m.

United States Deputy Marshal Frank Besser booked Arturo Mesas, 21, Los Angeles, for violation of immigration laws at 4:55 p. m.

Abe Garlikor, 28, and Jack Austin, 42, both of Los Angeles, were jailed at 6 p. m. for counterfeiting and forgery by federal officers.

GRAYISH BLUE SUIT FIGURES IN MURDER

SAN FRANCISCO May 16—(UP) A grayish blue suit, allegedly marked with brown stains and torn at the knee, played an increasingly important role today in the investigation of the slaying of blue-eyed, red-haired Joise Jeppesen, 23.

The suit, police said, was found in the hotel apartment of Millard Hickman, suave shipping company offical, held on an indictment charging him with murder in the Utah girl's death.

The stains on the clothing assumed wide importance in view of police efforts to prove Hickman visited Golden Gate park last Sunday morning. In the gray hours just before dawn a workman found the Jeppesen girl's body, bruised, broken, and garroted in the park.

Faces Charge Of Drunken Driving

TOASTMASTERS AT 20-30 CLUB MEET

Santa Ana Twenty-Thirtians were entertained last night at their regular weekly meeting in James' cafe with short speeches presented by members of the two Santa Ana Toastmasters clubs.

Harry LeBard, member of Ralph Smedley chapter, discussed recent developments in the oil fields of Persia. Harold Yost, of the El Camino chapter, talked on what he considered to be the seven blunders of the world. The third speaker, Donald Wright, of the Smedley chapter, stressed the value of time in making business contacts and sales.

The three speakers on the program were criticised as to structure, method of delivery, interest and other technical points by members of the Toastmasters, including A. G. Green and Guy Penn.

RADIO ENGINEER TO BE CLUB SPEAKER

William Manakoom, technical engineer with the Philco radio laboratories, will demonstrate the advances made in radio since early days of the science, stressing control of voice quality in broadcasting as the featured speaker before members and guests of the Santa Ana Lions club tomorrow noon in James' cafe, it was announced today by E. M. "Sunny" Sundquist, secretary. Warren Ashleigh will introduce the speaker.

At the same time it was announced that the Orange County Lions Council will meet Monday night at Brea. Harold Yost, who was declared winner of the contest here last week, will compete with other representatives of Lions clubs in an oratorical contest.

DRESSES STOLEN

Seven dresses were stolen from the Zena May Dress shop, 300 South Main street, some time around 3 a. m. today, it was reported to police. The dresses, which were valued at $2.95 each were taken from racks in the front part of the shop. The total loss was set at $20.65.

KENTUCKY GOVERNOR GETS DEATH THREAT

FRANKFORT, Ky., May 16.—(UP)—Gov. Ruby Lafoon of Kentucky, today had received a second death threat. National guardsmen were posted at the executive mansion.

Governor Lafoon recently received a threat, signed in red ink by "The Dillinger Squad." It demanded release of Neal Bowman, Ohio fugitive who awaits trial at Harrodsburg, Ky., charged with killing a member of his criminal band. Details of the second threat were withheld.

Decoration Class To Make L.A. Trip

The interior decorating class of the evening high school will study examples of the art in American and foreign quarters of Los Angeles, on an excursion planned Sunday under leadership of their instructors, Miss Edith Hynes, it was announced today. The group will travel by bus, leaving the northwest corner of Birch park at 12:30 p. m.. They will dine in a Chinese cafe, and visit shops and other points of interest to the interior decorator. About 30 have arranged to make the trip and others, who were not in attendance at the last meeting, may make reservations with Mrs. Golden Weston, telephone 1708, not later than Friday, she stated today.

PROGRAM GIVEN BY ENGINEERS PLEASES MANY

Stories of scientific crime prevention, showing of motion pictures, chemical experiments, radio demonstrations and activities of the club were features of the annual members and parents banquet of the Santa Ana High School Engineering club held last night in the high school cafeteria.

Captain Don Wilkie, retired United States secret service officer from Laguna Beach, was the main speaker of the evening and told of several famous criminals and how they were brought to justice. He scored the elective system of choosing judges and declared that judges could not mete out justice when they had to run for office.

President Norman Smith was in charge of the program, which opened with a short history of the club by Advisor Charles Tibbetts, woodshop instructor. Business Manager Louis Holmes gave a financial statement of the club's campus lunch stand and Tom Croddy gave a short talk on pledgeship.

Francis Davis of the radio division told of the many receiving and transmitting sets constructed by the club since 1922 and then with Charles Kaufman and Rodney Engle, gave a demonstration of the club broadcasting station. A short chemistry demonstration was given by Jack Hubbard and Isaac Van Gorkum.

One of the highlights of the evening was a showing of motion pictures taken during the club's recent trip to Boulder Dam by Calvin Breeding and Brooks Wright.

To carry out the desert theme, living cacti displays were arranged in the banquet hall and small potted cacti were at each plate as favors. Placecards were photographs of the half-completed dam and miniature desert houses and cliff dwellings were on the tables. Handpainted programs were designed by Mary Louis Wallace and printed by the high school Fine Arts Press.

Nearly 150 members, parents, faculty members and guests attended the banquet. Among the guests who were introduced and spoke briefly were School Superintendent Frank Henderson, County School Superintendent Ray Adkinson, Dr. Marguerite Baker, George R. Wells, Rolla Hayes, M. B. Youel and W. M. Burke, school board members; Principal D. K. Hammond, Vice-Principal W. M. Clayton, Assistant Principal Lynn Crawford, and Herb Alleman, adviser of the club for one year after its organization in 1926.

Club officers who arranged the banquet were Smith, Vice President Howard McQuiggle, Secretary Calvin Breeding and Manager Louis Holmes. Mrs. Charles Tibbetts supervised the banquet, which was served by a group of high school girls.

FEDERAL OFFICERS BOOK 9 AT JAIL

Seven Mexicans were booked at the county jail yesterday for violation of the immigration laws and illegal entry into the United States, while two more men were booked by federal officers on charges of forgery and counterfeiting.

Officers Davis, Floyd, Alshouse and Palmer of the border patrol, made two visits to the jail. Guadelupe Castro, 35, and Leabrado Castenada, 22, both living on East Pine street, were jailed for illegal entry at 5:40 p. m. while Teodoro Castro, 28, 841 East Washington avenue, Francisco Ybarra, 28, Manuel Castro, 21, and Jesus Munoz, 21, all of Arlington, were booked on the same charge at 7:15 p. m.

United States Deputy Marshal Frank Besser booked Arturo Mesas, 21, Los Angeles, for violation of immigration laws at 4:55 p. m.

Abe Garlikor, 28, and Jack Austin, 42, both of Los Angeles, were jailed at 6 p. m. for counterfeiting and forgery by federal officers.

GRAYISH BLUE SUIT FIGURES IN MURDER

SAN FRANCISCO May 16—(UP) A grayish blue suit, allegedly marked with brown stains and torn at the knee, played an increasingly important role today in the investigation of the slaying of blue-eyed, red-haired Joise Jeppesen, 23.

The suit, police said, was found in the hotel apartment of Millard Hickman, suave shipping company offical, held on an indictment charging him with murder in the Utah girl's death.

The stains on the clothing assumed wide importance in view of police efforts to prove Hickman visited Golden Gate park last Sunday morning. In the gray hours just before dawn a workman found the Jeppesen girl's body, bruised, broken, and garroted in the park.

Faces Charge Of Drunken Driving

TOASTMASTERS AT 20-30 CLUB MEET

Santa Ana Twenty-Thirtians were entertained last night at their regular weekly meeting in James' cafe with short speeches presented by members of the two Santa Ana Toastmasters clubs.

Harry LeBard, member of Ralph Smedley chapter, discussed recent developments in the oil fields of Persia. Harold Yost, of the El Camino chapter, talked on what he considered to be the seven blunders of the world. The third speaker, Donald Wright, of the Smedley chapter, stressed the value of time in making business contacts and sales.

The three speakers on the program were criticised as to structure, method of delivery, interest and other technical points by members of the Toastmasters, including A. G. Green and Guy Penn.

RADIO ENGINEER TO BE CLUB SPEAKER

William Manakoom, technical engineer with the Philco radio laboratories, will demonstrate the advances made in radio since early days of the science, stressing control of voice quality in broadcasting as the featured speaker before members and guests of the Santa Ana Lions club tomorrow noon in James' cafe, it was announced today by E. M. "Sunny" Sundquist, secretary. Warren Ashleigh will introduce the speaker.

At the same time it was announced that the Orange County Lions Council will meet Monday night at Brea. Harold Yost, who was declared winner of the contest here last week, will compete with other representatives of Lions clubs in an oratorical contest.

DRESSES STOLEN

Seven dresses were stolen from the Zena May Dress shop, 300 South Main street, some time around 3 a. m. today, it was reported to police. The dresses which were valued at $2.95 each were taken from racks in the front part of the shop. The total loss was set at $20.65.

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

The Tinies, quiet as a mouse, watched Peter leave his pumpkin house. "My, he's a funny looking man," they soon heard Goldy say.

"He struts around for all he's worth. You'd really think he owned the earth. I don't know where he's going, but I hope he stays away.

"Just think! His poor wife's locked up tight, and I don't think that it is right. No wonder he's afraid he'll lose her, when he acts like that.

"If we walk up and let her out, her husband will come back, no doubt, and then, I am afraid, 'twill simply mean they'll have a spat."

"Oh, no they won't," said Windy. "We can be as careful as can be. I've just thought of a plan that I am sure will work all right.

"We'll let the poor wife out and then get her to go back in again. Of course we'll have some fun before she disappears from sight."

"That sounds all right," wee Scouty cried. "There's nothing gained if nothing's tried. A great big latch is on the door. We'll lift it ere we're through."

Two of the Tinies tugged away and shortly Duncy yelled, "Hurray! The pumpkin door is open. Gee, that wasn't hard to do!"

Soon Peter's wife appeared. Said she, "Well, who are you tots? Mercy me!" "We're Tinymites," said Dotty. "Won't you come outside and play?"

"Your mean old husband is not near, so there is not a thing to fear. We saw him start out walking, so we know that he's away."

The tiny wife then laughed out loud, and cried, "Of course I'll join this crowd. I'm tired of being locked up, when there's nice, fresh air outside."

And then she jumped out to the ground, as all the Tinies danced around. Said Coppy, "If your husband comes back, you must run and hide."

ployment that would be used as a basis for establishing tenure.

Action on Substitutes

Forty-four substitute elementary and high school substitute teachers were released under the same arrangement; about half of the 27 high school substitutes never having been called into service this year, so that employment or dismissal are empty terms to them. The list includes:

Elementary substitutes — Mrs. Maxine Adams, June Arnold, Mrs. Josephine Barr, Madge Borden, Mrs. Virginia Brand, Mrs. Sigrid Brown, Helen Drake, Mrs. Josephine Glines, Mrs. Agnes Kemper, Mrs. Sadie Matics, Mrs. June Mayhall, Mrs. Blanche McCoy, Mrs. Mildred Morrison, Mrs. Ora Schieber, Lorine Shipe, Lucy Toalson, and Mrs. Louise Webber.

High school substitutes— Margaret Cianfoni, Mrs. Jean Ebersole, Faris Edgar, Alvin Edwards, Katherine Frankforther, Mrs. Hallie Freeman, T. F. Humiston, Phyllis Jamison, Marion Nau, Mrs. Ruth Newman, Mrs. Mabel Owens, Howard Paul, J. A. Randall, Mildred Ranney, Helen Richards, C. E. Roberts, Robert Schostag, Mrs. Miriam Sitton, Mrs. Alice T. Smith, Dorothy Smith, Mildred Staples, Mrs. Mary Steffenson, Leonora Tompkins, Mrs. Katherine Walton, Margaret Webster, W. W. Wieman, Velma Witt.

Similar reasons governed dismissal of the entire evening high school faculty, virtually all of which will be re-employed. They are the following:

Birdina Anderson, June Arnold, W. G. Axworthy, Ruth Bartlett, J. Bascom, Geo. E. Clark, Homer Chaney, W. C. Dunham, Mrs. Eleanor Harnois, Mrs. Dodley Page Harper, Mrs. Margaret Householder, Elba Johnson, Lillian Kirkwood, Dr. Melbourne Mabee, Harold Moomaw;

Pauline Neddermeyer, Mrs. Mabel R. Owens, Byron Quivey, Dr. G. Emmett Raitt, Helen Richards, R. R. Russick, Mrs. Miriam Sitton, Robert Speed, Chas. Tibbetts, H. H. Tracy, Mrs. Helen Walden, Charles Webber, Mrs. Muriel White, W. W. Wieman, Mrs. Ruby Wright.

Seek New Teachers

Recommendations of Superintendent Frank A. Henderson were followed by the board in dismassals and re-elections, but action was deferred on proposed additions of two new teachers, one for high school arts and crafts, and one for instruction of social studies in the junior college, both requested by Principal D. K. Hammond.

Miss Hazel Nell Bemus, at present principal at Hoover school, will be appointed to the high school faculty, and Calvin G. Flint, who has studied in the University of Paris, Roberts College at Istanbul and other universities, will receive the junior college appointment, if the board decides to make them. W. M. Burke, however, at the board meeting voiced doubt as to whether this is a good time to increase the faculties, so the matter was taken under consideration for a week.

Salary and service will be established later, when the financial situation becomes known, meanwhile the board notified each teacher elected that a minimum of $1350 and a maximum of $2880 is fixed for junior college salaries; the high school salary will range between $1350 and $2520, and the elementary schedule runs from $1200 to $1800.

Elections to the elementary school administrative department were: Miss Huberteen Kueneman, general elementary supervision; Herman I. Ranney, attendance supervisor; Dr. Murray Bates, director of the health department, and Margaret A. Kuehl, Rhea Miller, Edith M. Pithie and Margaret Van Scoyoc, nurses; Burton H. Rowley, general supervisor of industrial arts, part time basis.

Secondary school administrative appointments include: W. M. Clayton, L. H. Crawford, D. K. Hammond, Mrs. Grace Lund, Lyle B. Mitchell, H. G. Nelson, Mrs. Iva Webber, Mrs. Golden Weston. Junior college administrative appointments were McKee Fisk and D. K. Hammond.

Principals Named

Elementary principals elected were: Mary A. Andrews, McKinley; Mrs. Fanny Bragg, Delhi; Mrs. Hazel Maxwell, Edison; Mrs. Mildred Mead, Lowell; Olive Wagner, Spurgeon; Verna Wells, Roosevelt.

Elementary teaching principals: Berthile Barclay, Wilson; Aubrey Glines, Jefferson; M. Alice Grimshaw, John Muir; Henrietta Horne, Logan; Linda Paul, Lincoln; Lottie Sweet, Franklin; Hazel Nell Bemus, Hoover.

Mrs. Anna Garlock, as permanent elementary teacher, and Otto Fischer, as permanent high school teacher, in the county juvenile home, were elected.

Dr. Margarete Baker voiced complaint that Santa Ana board had no control over policies or conduct at the juvenile home, although required by law to supply teachers there, because it is located in the Santa Ana district. The public, she said, criticizes the Santa Ana board, under the impression that it controls the situation.

Resignations were received from the following teachers: Mary Hope, Ethelyn Grainger, Margaret Lupton, Janet Pruett, Mrs. Marguerite Wilson, Lucinda Griffith, Lucille Harrison, Clara Speiman, Lois Sturgeon, Gertrude Winchester and Mrs. Helen Abbey.

News Behind the News

public demand and it looks as if the industry is in for an uncomfortable summer. But if the price reduction contagion spreads it means a major showdown with NRA. Many business men are planning a sharp and concerted attack on the higher costs arising from wage and hour code provisions. They will argue they cannot possibly continue to operate under code conditions so long as the public refuses to pay more.

W. Averell Harriman — quietly growing in stature at NRA headquarters—is understood to sympathize warmly with this viewpoint. Meanwhile Mr. Consumer himself has done more to swat old man H. C. L. than all the Boards appointed for his protection.

RATES

The New York Public Service Commission won't wait long to try out its new powers of rate reduction. Several Consolidated Gas subsidiaries have been ordered to submit new cost data which will be used as a basis for shaving down charges to the five per cent return limit authorized by the state legislature.

This will be followed up by a similar onslaught on other utilities. Even the telephone company —hitherto generally exempt from rate rulings—is to be ridden to a fall.

But don't think the utilities will swallow the dose without a protest. The best legal talent available will be mustered for a finish in the courts. Many other state commissions will take their cue from the outcome.

COMMUNICATIONS

The NRA move to impose a code on communications companies links the latter with the utilities as special objects of government attention during the summer. Informed sources state that the detailed attention given these two industries is partly for the purpose of diverting the public gaze from the freedom allowed other industries—probably temporarily—to work out their problems in their own way.

Postal Telegraph welcomes the code because of competitive conditions but Western Union, RCA and American Telephone think the idea is all wet. Wage provisions will increase costs enormously. Authorities estimate that the increase for Western Union will be around six million dollars a year —more than the company has been making. The figures for A. T. & T. haven't been fully worked out but they will make quite a dent in earnings.

McGOLDRICK

Joseph D. McGoldrick — New York City's new comptroller — takes the office for which he narrowly missed nomination last year.

People who arranged the Fusion ticket considered him seriously for the job. W. A. Cunningham was finally given the preference because of his war record and the fact that he was a business man rather than a professor. These factors were believed to make him a stronger candidate.

McGoldrick is a Democrat with a strong anti-Tammany background. He is a Catholic from Brooklyn—which qualifies him politically in the event his office is contested in the special election this fall. He knows his stuff on city finance and the city's bankers are generally gratified at the choice.

The Fusion forces are divided as to the wisdom of trying to block an election this November. Some believe it's a swell opportunity to confirm their victory over Tammany with Tammany in a disorganized condition. Others can see no point in taking chances. The courts will decide.

FUSION

The Fusion effort to strengthen its grip on the city will stir curious cross-currents in the regular state election and make the outcome more uncertain than ever.

There will be Fusion candidates for state senators and assemblymen from New York City but none for upstate constituencies or statewide offices such as governor. Kingsland Macy's attempt in the latter direction is doomed to failure because too many Fusion supporters are friendly to Governor Lehman. This makes it easier for the Democrats to re-elect Lehman but greatly improves Republican chances for control of the legislature.

Mayor LaGuardia comes in for plenty of private cussing from politically minded Fusionists. He still declines flatly to use patronage to build a permanent organization despite feverish entreaties by some of his colleagues.

SALARIES

The Federal Trade Commission will have fun trying to dig executive salary details out of the forty unwilling corporations. Most of them are prepared to put up a strenuous fight for their privacy. Comment runs that the $50,000 awarded the Commission for the purpose is so inadequate they might as well use it to buy guppies.

SIDELIGHTS

Some of the New York department stores are beginning to wonder if they were a trifle hasty in joining the anti-Nazi boycott. They're feeling pressure from the opposition. . . . Producers and retailers are cooperating better on prices under NRA than they ever have before.

GANGLAND PAYS HEAVY TOLL IN LAST YEAR

for life in Michigan's Marquette prison, he muttered a low "Thanks!" He had reason to be thankful for Michigan's lack of a death penalty.

The list of Burke's crimes was so long and so bloody that he would have richly earned the gallows in any state which had the death penalty.

Beginning in 1927, Burke went through a series of crimes that ranged from machine gunner in Chicago's disgraceful St. Valentine's Day massacre down through forgery and larceny to the cold-blooded murder of a youthful patrolman, Charles Skelley, who jumped on the running board of Burke's car to arrest him for a petty traffic offense at St Joseph, Mich.

Several states sought Burke when he was finally captured, but his luck held, and Michigan won the doubtful honor.

Boy's Tip Nabs Killer

The Burke capture is a typical example of the amateur succeeding when the professional is stymied.

Burke was living at a farmhouse near Milan, Mo., and was seen only on infrequent visits to town. There a young farm lad who aspired to detective work noted his suspicious manner and his resemblance to the wanted man. The lad watched closely for weeks the comings and goings of Burke, his mannerisms and speech. Then he wrote a letter to St. Joseph, Mo., police.

And they came out and nabbed Burke without firing a shot, catching him in bed with his heavy armament of guns just out of reach.

NEXT: The state is not yet clean—a number of desperate outlaws still remain to settle their scores with society. Two of the most-wanted are Pretty Boy Floyd and Clyde Barrow. Read their detailed descriptions and stories next.

CONDITION IMPROVED

GARDEN GROVE, May 16.— The condition of Walter Ziegler, president of the sophomore class of Garden Grove Union High school, who was injured when a rock struck him on the head recently, was reported improved today. Ziegler, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Bryam, was attending a schol picnic at Corona del Mar when a rock was accidentally dislodged by classmates. An operation may be necessary, it is reported.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Donna Gabriel, and Madeline Siddal who call themselves "The Gabriel Sisters" are trapeze performers with Renfroe's circus. Con David, the animal trainer is in love with Donna who regards him merely as a friend. Madeline, in love with Con, has been flirting with Ned Trafford, boss canvasman.

When Madeline's grandfather, Amos Siddal, asks her to spend the week-end on his farm she persuades Donna to take her place. Donna is much attracted by Bill Siddal, Madeline's cousin.

Two weeks later Donna falls from the trapeze and is taken to a hospital, badly injured. Madeline sends word to Bill that "Madeline" is ill. She leaves a note telling Donna to continue the impersonation until she is well. Then Madeline goes on with the circus.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER VIII

Bill Siddal was not conscious that he had been praying all that long, bitter night as he sat in the shabby, ill-ventilated day coach in a train that seemed to be drawn by slow-footed oxen instead of a steam engine.

Madeline's letter had been not only a shock but an eye-opener. Until he had learned of the accident he had not analyzed his feeling toward the girl he believed to be his cousin. Her visit had been a never-to-be-forgotten event in his colorless life. Her charm and beauty had made an indelible impression, but he had not realized that he loved her until he read the letter telling him of her danger. How much danger he dared not think about.

Wishing to spare his grand-uncle suspense and worry, he made an excuse to get away, intending to keep all knowledge of the accident from the old man, if possible, until Madeline was on the road to recovery.

Haggard-eyed, unshaven, and wearing his work clothes with stout cowhide boots, he did not present a very prosperous appearance when he strode into the hospital that bright morning at eight o'clock. Dr. Cotton, though by no means mercenary, wondered if he were going to have a charity patient on his hands and whether he had not been foolish to permit the other sister to leave without paying for at least one week in advance.

"Is she alive?" the young man demanded across the desk.

Assured that she was, Bill sank weakly into a chair and for several seconds seemed unable to speak.

"But she can not be moved at present," Dr. Cotton said. "Not for two weeks at least."

"I—I may see her?"

"Surely, Miss Wyatt—take Mr. Siddal to 39."

Donna was asleep when they stepped into the hushed chamber. The nurse in attendance sat by the window, reading a magazine. She arose and instantly became professional.

Bill crossed to the bedside and looked down at the white, pinched face. It required a tremendous effort not to bend down and kiss that face, not to murmur the love, that surged through him like a tumultuous torrent. He wanted to hold her close in his arms and beg her to live for his sake, to put aside forever the hazardous career she had begun and stay in his love and shelter.

"You must go now," the nurse said when he had stood motionless for several minutes.

"She—is going to live?"

"Of course. But she must not have any excitement."

Below Dr. Cotton was waiting for him. "Miss Gabriel—er—the other sister said that you—it's customary to pay hospital bills in advance, but the circumstances were such that—"

"I understand," Bill said gravely. "I will take care of Miss Siddal's expenses." He drew a check book from his pocket, asked the amount and filled in a blank.

In all his 26 years Bill had never known a sick day. Possibly it was his own virile health that had prompted him to take up the study of medicine. All that he had learned about it was forgotten now in the flood of relief that swept over him. Madeline would recover! He did not question Dr. Cotton's diagnosis, nor his statement that she could not be moved for two weeks. If she had to stay, then Bill would stay.

Not until hours later did the fact of their close relationship discolor his dreams of their future together. Then, like a specter, this fact arose to haunt him. Even if Madeline loved him could they face a community that would look upon their marriage as a sin? So long as Grandfather Siddal lived, Bill knew he was tied to the farm and the environs of Lebanon.

Almost, with this new anguish of spirit, he hoped she would be maimed, or crippled so that it would be his joyful duty to care for her all her life, even though marriage were out of the question. But immediately he pushed this thought from him. How could he even think of such a thing!

At noon Dona wakened and the nurse informed her that her "cousin" had come.

"Cousin? I — I haven't any cousin."

"Mr. Siddal, dear. You were asleep when he arrived. He said he would be back this afternoon."

Vaguely Donna understood the words. But she was still too befogged to understand the real meaning of the statement. The knowledge that Bill Siddal cared enough to come to see her caused a warm glow in her heart and brought tears to her eyes.

"My—my sister?" she managed.

"That's just too bad, but she had to go on with the circus."

"Yes, of course, she had to go on." Donna fought to smile bravely.

"She left a letter for you, but I don't think you are strong enough to read it yet. Shall I read it to you?"

It was no premonition of what the letter contained that prompted Donna to refuse the offer. She was merely too weary to listen to whatever excuse Madeline might have made. She shook her head and contrived to stretch out her unbandaged arm.

"Just give the letter to me," she said. "I know what she says."

Madeline's letter was clutched in Donna's damp fist when Bill came the second time. It slipped from her fingers to the floor as her eyes met his. His face, inexpressibly dear, seemed covered with a thick haze that cleared, then became more opaque. He came closer and she could see nothing except his eyes—kind, compassionate, loving. Again the warm glow enveloped her. Her pain-wracked body seemed to float through space, drawing nearer and nearer to him.

Neither spoke for a full minute. Bill dared not say what he wanted to and could find no words for anything else.

"I know, and I'm sorry. If there is anything—"

"It's wonderful of you to come. Just wonderful!" Tears choked her voice. "How did you know?"

"Your partner wrote me. I took the first train. If I'd been able to get a plane I'd have been here sooner."

"You are kind, oh, so kind."

"Are you suffering—much?"

"Not now—" Donna's heart was singing. "Not since you came into this room. Your voice, your smile, your presence makes up for everything."

The nurse placed a chair beside the bed, then discreetly stepped out of the room. Bill sat down, placed his hand on Donna's and held it gently. "When you are better I'm going to take you to the farm with me," he said.

"I'd love that. But I must get back to the circus as soon as possible. Don't think me vain, but the act needs me."

"The act will have to do without you for a long time. You've had a close shave. Dr. Cotton told me that at first he was certain you had a concussion. That could have been very serious."

"Nothing matters so long as my back is all right. It is, isn't it? They didn't tell me it was, just to bolster my courage?" Panic seized her.

"Your back is perfectly all right," he reassured her. "But I mustn't tire you. When you are stronger you can tell me how it happened."

"I don't know myself unless Traf—" She paused abruptly, unwilling to cast suspicion, when she was uncertain, upon one of her profession. "How is Grandfather Siddal?" she addel hastily.

"I didn't tell him you were hurt. Didn't want to worry him if I could help it, but since I'll have to stay longer than I expected I'll let him know now."

"Why should he worry about me?" she asked wonderingly.

"Why not, Madeline? You're the apple of his eye—"

Madeline! She had forgotten! He had come because he thought she was his cousin. Even with death so close, Madeline had kept up the masquerade. In her great joy at seeing him Donna had forgotten Bill did not know her real identity. He had come to her as a duty and she had thought—

Her icy fingers wriggled in his grasp. Bill loosened them and drew back, intuitively feeling that something was wrong. Yet what had he said to offend her? Certainly the mention of an old man's affection should not do that.

"I'll go now," he said, and arose. Her eyes were closed to hide the disappointment she felt.

At his feet lay Madeline's letter. He picked it up. "Yours," he said. "It hasn't been opened." He placed it on the bed near her hand. Don't try to read until you are stronger. And don't worry about anything. I'll be here in the morning, but if there is anything you want in the meantime have them send for me. I'm at the Commercial House."

"You're very kind," she murmured, but there was nothing more than formal politeness in her tone.

"I love him, I love him!" she moaned when the door closed behind him. "What shall I do?"

Her fumbling fingers tore open the flap of th letter. The words Madeline had scrawled danced crazily on the sheet but she could read enough to understand what they conveyed.

"I'll do it! I will be Madeline! It's her deception, not mine. What else can I do? Oh God, if this is a sin—don't punish me! Let him learn to love me! I love him so I can't send him out of my life. If this is wickedness, then I'm a wicked woman—but, oh, please God, give me my chance for love and happiness!"

Half-hysterical, with tears rolling down her cheeks, she tore the letter to shreds, then fainted with exhaustion.

Action on Substitutes

Forty-four substitute elementary and high school substitute teachers were released under the same arrangement; about half of the 27 high school substitutes never having been called into service this year, so that employment or dismissal are empty terms to them. The list includes:

Elementary substitutes — Mrs. Maxine Adams, June Arnold, Mrs. Josephine Barr, Madge Borden, Mrs. Virginia Brand, Mrs. Sigrid Brown, Helen Drake, Mrs. Josephine Glines, Mrs. Agnes Kemper, Mrs. Sadie Matics, Mrs. June Mayhall, Mrs. Blanche McCoy, Mrs. Mildred Morrison, Mrs. Ora Schieber, Lorine Shipe, Lucy Toalson, and Mrs. Louise Webber.

High school substitutes— Margaret Cianfoni, Mrs. Jean Ebersole, Faris Edgar, Alvin Edwards, Katherine Frankforther, Mrs. Hallie Freeman, T. F. Humiston, Phyllis Jamison, Marion Nau, Mrs. Ruth Newman, Mrs. Mabel Owens, Howard Paul, J. A. Randall, Mildred Ranney, Helen Richards, C. E. Roberts, Robert Schostag, Mrs. Miriam Sitton, Mrs. Alice T. Smith, Dorothy Smith, Mildred Staples, Mrs. Mary Steffenson, Leonora Tompkins, Mrs. Katherine Walton, Margaret Webster, W. W. Wieman, Velma Witt.

Similar reasons governed dismissal of the entire evening high school faculty, virtually all of which will be re-employed. They are the following:

Birdina Anderson, June Arnold, W. G. Axworthy, Ruth Bartlett, J. Bascom, Geo. E. Clark, Homer Chaney, W. C. Dunham, Mrs. Eleanor Harnois, Mrs. Dodley Page Harper, Mrs. Margaret Householder, Elba Johnson, Lillian Kirkwood, Dr. Melbourne Mabee, Harold Moomaw;

Pauline Neddermeyer, Mrs. Mabel R. Owens, Byron Quivey, Dr. G. Emmett Raitt, Helen Richards, R. R. Russick, Mrs. Miriam Sitton, Robert Speed, Chas. Tibbetts, H. H. Tracy, Mrs. Helen Walden, Charles Webber, Mrs. Muriel White, W. W. Wieman, Mrs. Ruby Wright.

Seek New Teachers

Recommendations of Superintendent Frank A. Henderson were followed by the board in dismassals and re-elections, but action was deferred on proposed additions of two new teachers, one for high school arts and crafts, and one for instruction of social studies in the junior college, both requested by Principal D. K. Hammond.

Miss Hazel Nell Bemus, at present principal at Hoover school, will be appointed to the high school faculty, and Calvin G. Flint, who has studied in the University of Paris, Roberts College at Istanbul and other universities, will receive the junior college appointment, if the board decides to make them. W. M. Burke, however, at the board meeting voiced doubt as to whether this is a good time to increase the faculties, so the matter was taken under consideration for a week.

Salary and service will be established later, when the financial situation becomes known, meanwhile the board notified each teacher elected that a minimum of $1350 and a maximum of $2880 is fixed for junior college salaries; the high school salary will range between $1350 and $2520, and the elementary schedule runs from $1200 to $1800.

Elections to the elementary school administrative department were: Miss Huberteen Kueneman, general elementary supervision; Herman I. Ranney, attendance supervisor; Dr. Murray Bates, director of the health department, and Margaret A. Kuehl, Rhea Miller, Edith M. Pithie and Margaret Van Scoyoc, nurses; Burton H. Rowley, general supervisor of industrial arts, part time basis.

Secondary school administrative appointments include: W. M. Clayton, L. H. Crawford, D. K. Hammond, Mrs. Grace Lund, Lyle B. Mitchell, H. G. Nelson, Mrs. Iva Webber, Mrs. Golden Weston. Junior college administrative appointments were McKee Fisk and D. K. Hammond.

Principals Named

Elementary teaching principals: Berthile Barclay, Wilson; Aubrey Glines, Jefferson; M. Alice Grimshaw, John Muir; Henrietta Horne, Logan; Linda Paul, Lincoln; Lottie Sweet, Franklin; Hazel Nell Bemus, Hoover.

Mrs. Anna Garlock, as permanent elementary teacher, and Otto Fischer, as permanent high school teacher, in the county juvenile home, were elected.

Dr. Margarete Baker voiced complaint that Santa Ana board had no control over policies or conduct at the juvenile home, although required by law to supply teachers there, because it is located in the Santa Ana district. The public, she said, criticizes the Santa Ana board, under the impression that it controls the situation.

Resignations were received from the following teachers: Mary Hope, Ethelyn Grainger, Margaret Lupton, Janet Pruett, Mrs. Marguerite Wilson, Lucinda Griffith, Lucille Harrison, Clara Spelman, Lois Sturgeon, Gertrude Winchester and Mrs. Helen Abbey.

Teachers Elected

Teachers were elected as follows:

Elementary Probationary: Mary Beebe, Katherine Blank, Eleanor Crookshank, Dorothy Jessee, Mrs. Alice McVey, Marie Osborn, Mrs. Mary Davies Smith, Mrs. Donna Ward.

Librarians: Mrs. Velma Sundquist, junior college; Mrs. Lura Livenspire, high school.

High school, permanent, full time. Includes high school and both junior highs: Eunice V. Adams, L. W. Archer, Josephine Arnoldy, Ralph Baker, Veda M. Ball, Mrs. Frances H. Beeson, Elfreda Biggin, Lota E. Blythe, W. H. Bracewell, Dorothy Broadway, Mrs. Maxine Bryte, Mrs. Mabel Budd, Iva Carl, Stuart Carrier, Tessie Childers;

Mrs. Frances Conklin, Clyde D. Cook, Mrs. Edith Cook, Edith Cornell, Meta C. Daniel, Esther Jean Davis, Walter A. Egger, M. Deborah Elliott, Lulu B. Finley, Lillian Fitz, Wm. W. Foote, E. Henrietta Foster, Mildred L. Frazier, E. D. Froeschle, Ruth Frothingham.

News Behind the News

public demand and it looks as if the industry is in for an uncomfortable summer. But if the price reduction contagion spreads it means a major showdown with NRA. Many business men are planning a sharp and concerted attack on the higher costs arising from wage and hour code provisions. They will argue they cannot possibly continue to operate under code conditions so long as the public refuses to pay more.

W. Averell Harriman — quietly growing in stature at NRA headquarters—is understood to sympathize warmly with this viewpoint. Meanwhile Mr. Consumer himself has done more to swat old man H. C. L. than all the Boards appointed for his protection.

RATES

The New York Public Service Commission won't wait long to try out its new powers of rate reduction. Several Consolidated Gas subsidiaries have been ordered to submit new cost data which will be used as a basis for shaving down charges to the five per cent return limit authorized by the state legislature.

This will be followed up by a similar onslaught on other utilities. Even the telephone company—hitherto generally exempt from rate rulings—is to be ridden to a fall.

But don't think the utilities will swallow the dose without a protest. The best legal talent available will be mustered for a finish in the courts. Many other state commissions will take their cue from the outcome.

COMMUNICATIONS

The NRA move to impose a code on communications companies links the latter with the utilities as special objects of government attention during the summer. Informed sources state that the detailed attention given these two industries is partly for the purpose of diverting the public gaze from the freedom allowed other industries—probably temporarily—to work out their problems in their own way.

Postal Telegraph welcomes the code because of competitive conditions but Western Union, RCA and American Telephone think the idea is all wet. Wage provisions will increase costs enormously. Authorities estimate that the increase for Western Union will be around six million dollars a year—more than the company has been making. The figures for A. T. & T. haven't been fully worked out but they will make quite a dent in earnings.

McGOLDRICK

Joseph D. McGoldrick — New York City's new comptroller — takes the office for which he narrowly missed nomination last year.

People who arranged the Fusion ticket considered him seriously for the job. W. A. Cunningham was finally given the preference because of his war record and the fact that he was a business man rather than a professor. These factors were believed to make him a stronger candidate.

McGoldrick is a Democrat with a strong anti-Tammany background. He is a Catholic from Brooklyn—which qualifies him politically in the event his office is contested in the special election this fall. He knows his stuff on city finance and the city's bankers are generally gratified at the choice.

The Fusion forces are divided as to the wisdom of trying to block an election this November. Some believe it's a swell opportunity to confirm their victory over Tammany with Tammany in a disorganized condition. Others can see no point in taking chances. The courts will decide.

FUSION

The Fusion effort to strengthen its grip on the city will stir curious cross-currents in the regular state election and make the outcome more uncertain than ever.

There will be Fusion candidtes for state senators and assemblymen from New York City but none for upstate constituencies or statewide offices such as governor. Kingsland Macy's attempt in the latter direction is doomed to failure because too many Fusion supporters are friendly to Governor Lehman. This makes it easier for the Democrats to re-elect Lehman but greatly improves Republican chances for control of the legislature.

Mayor LaGuardia comes in for plenty of private cussing from politically minded Fusionists. He still declines flatly to use patronage to build a permament organization despite feverish entreaties by some of his colleagues.

SALARIES

The Federal Trade Commission will have fun trying to dig executive salary details out of the forty unwilling corporations. Most of them are prepared to put up a strenuous fight for their privacy. Comment runs that the $50,000 awarded the Commission for the purpose is so inadequate they might as well use it to buy guppies.

SIDELIGHTS

Some of the New York department stores are beginning to wonder if they were a trifle hasty in joining the anti-Nazi boycott. They're feeling pressure from the opposition. . . . Producers and retailers are cooperating better on prices under NRA than they ever have before.

GANGLAND PAYS HEAVY TOLL IN LAST YEAR

for life in Michigan's Marquette prison, he muttered a low "Thanks!" He had reason to be thankful for Michigan's lack of a death penalty.

The list of Burke's crimes was so long and so bloody that he would have richly earned the gallows in any state which had the death penalty.

Beginning in 1927, Burke went through a series of crimes that ranged from machine gunner in Chicago's disgraceful St. Valentine's Day massacre down through forgery and larceny to the cold-blooded murder of a youthful patrolman, Charles Skelley, who jumped on the running board of Burke's car to arrest him for a petty traffic offense at St Joseph, Mich.

Several states sought Burke when he was finally captured, but his luck held, and Michigan won the doubtful honor.

Boy's Tip Nabs Killer

The Burke capture is a typical example of the amateur succeeding when the professional is stymied.

Burke was living at a farmhouse near Milan, Mo., and was seen only on infrequent visits to town. There a young farm lad who aspired to detective work noted his suspicious manner and his resemblance to the wanted man. The lad watched closely for weeks the comings and goings of Burke, his mannerisms and speech. Then he wrote a letter to St. Joseph, Mo., police.

And they came out and nabbed Burke without firing a shot, catching him in bed with his heavy armament of guns just out of reach.

NEXT: The slate is not yet clean—a number of desperate outlaws still remain to settle their scores with society. Two of the most-wanted are Pretty Boy Floyd and Clyde Barrow. Read their detailed descriptions and stories next.

CONDITION IMPROVED

GARDEN GROVE, May 16.—The condition of Walter Ziegler, president of the sophomore class of Garden Grove Union High school, who was injured when a rock struck him on the head recently, was reported improved today. Ziegler, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Bryam, was attending a schol picnic at Corona del Mar when a rock was accidentally dislodged by classmates. An operation may be necessary, it is reported.

DONNA of the BIG TOP

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Donna Gabriel, and Madeline Siddal who call themselves "The Gabriel Sisters" are trapeze performers with Renfroe's circus. Con David, the animal trainer is in love with Donna who regards him merely as a friend. Madeline, in love with Con, has been flirting with Ned Trafford, boss canvasman.

When Madeline's grandfather, Amos Siddal, asks her to spend the week-end on his farm she persuades Donna to take her place. Donna is much attracted by Bill Siddal, Madeline's cousin.

Two weeks later Donna falls from the trapeze and is taken to a hospital, badly injured. Madeline sends word to Bill that "Madeline" is ill. She leaves a note telling Donna to continue the impersonation until she is well. Then Madeline goes on with the circus.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER VIII

Bill Siddal was not conscious that he had been praying all that long, bitter night as he sat in the shabby, ill-ventilated day coach in a train that seemed to be drawn by slow-footed oxen instead of a steam engine.

Madeline's letter had been not only a shock but an eye-opener. Until he had learned of the accident he had not analyzed his feeling toward the girl he believed to be his cousin. Her visit had been a never-to-be-forgotten event in his colorless life. Her charm and beauty had made an indelible impression, but he had not realized that he loved her until he read the letter telling him of her danger. How much danger he dared not think about.

Wishing to spare his grand-uncle suspense and worry, he made an excuse to get away, intending to keep all knowledge of the accident from the old man, if possible, until Madeline was on the road to recovery.

Haggard-eyed, unshaven, and wearing his work clothes with stout cowhide boots, he did not present a very prosperous appearance when he strode into the hospital that bright morning at eight o'clock. Dr. Cotton, though by no means mercenary, wondered if he were going to have a charity patient on his hands and whether he had not been foolish to permit the other sister to leave without paying or at least one week in advance.

"Is she alive?" the young man demanded across the desk.

Assured that she was, Bill sank weakly into a chair and for several seconds seemed unable to speak.

"But she can not be moved at present," Dr. Cotton said. "Not for two weeks at least."

"I—I may see her?"

"Surely, Miss Wyatt—take Mr. Siddal to 39."

Donna was asleep when they stepped into the hushed chamber. The nurse in attendance sat by the window, reading a magazine. She arose and instantly became professional.

Bill crossed to the bedside and looked down at the white, pinched face. It required a tremendous effort not to bend down and kiss that face, not to murmur the love, that surged through him like a tumultuous torrent. He wanted to hold her close in his arms and beg her to live for his sake, to put aside forever the hazardous career she had begun and stay in his love and shelter.

"You must go now," the nurse said when he had stood motionless for several minutes.

"She—is going to live?"

"Of course. But she must not have any excitement."

Below Dr. Cotton was waiting for him. "Miss Gabriel—er—the other sister said that you—it's customary to pay hospital bills in advance, but the circumstances were such that—"

"I understand," Bill said gravely. "I will take care of Miss Siddal's expenses." He drew a check book from his pocket, asked the amount and filled in a blank.

In all his 26 years Bill had never known a sick day. Possibly it was his own virile health that had prompted him to take up the study of medicine. All that he had learned about it was forgotten now in the flood of relief that swept over him. Madeline would recover! He did not question Dr. Cotton's diagnosis, nor his statement that she could not be moved for two weeks. If she had to stay, then Bill would stay.

Not until hours later did the fact of their close relationship discolor his dreams of their future together. Then, like a specter, this fact arose to haunt him. Even if Madeline loved him could they face a community that would look upon their marriage as a sin? So long as Grandfather Siddal lived, Bill knew he was tied to the farm and the environs of Lebanon.

Almost, with this new anguish of spirit, he hoped she would be maimed, or crippled so that it would be his joyful duty to care for her all her life, even though marriage were out of the question. But immediately he pushed this thought from him. How could he even think of such a thing!

At noon Dona wakened and the nurse informed her that her "cousin" had come.

"Cousin? I — I haven't any cousin."

"Mr. Siddal, dear. You were asleep when he arrived. He said he would be back this afternoon."

Vaguely Donna understood the words. But she was still too befogged to understand the real meaning of the statement. The knowledge that Bill Siddal cared enough to come to see her caused a warm glow in her heart and brought tears to her eyes.

"My—my sister?" she managed.

"That's just too bad, but she had to go on with the circus."

"Yes, of course, she had to go on," Donna fought to smile bravely.

"She left a letter for you, but I don't think you are strong enough to read it yet. Shall I read it to you?"

It was no premonition of what the letter contained that prompted Donna to refuse the offer. She was merely too weary to listen to whatever excuse Madeline might have made. She shook her head and contrived to stretch out her unbandaged arm.

"Just give the letter to me," she said. "I know what she says."

Madeline's letter was clutched in Donna's damp fist when Bill came the second time. It slipped from her fingers to the floor as her eyes met his. His face, inexpressibly dear, seemed covered with a thick haze that cleared, then became more opaque. He came closer and she could see nothing except his eyes—kind, compassionate, loving. Again the warm glow enveloped her. Her pain-wracked body seemed to float through space, drawing nearer and nearer to him.

Neither spoke for a full minute. Bill dared not say what he wanted to and could find no words for anything else.

"I know, and I'm sorry. If there is anything—"

"It's wonderful of you to come. Just wonderful!" Tears choked her voice. "How did you know?"

"Your partner wrote me. I took the first train. If I'd been able to get a plane I'd have been here sooner."

"You are kind, oh, so kind."

"Are you suffering—much?"

"Not now—" Donna's heart was singing. "Not since you came into this room. Your voice, your smile, your presence makes up for everything."

The nurse placed a chair beside the bed, then discreetly stepped out of the room. Bill sat down, placed his hand on Donna's and held it gently. "When you are better I'm going to take you to the farm with me," he said.

"I'd love that. But I must get back to the circus as soon as possible. Don't think me vain, but the act needs me."

"The act will have to do without you for a long time. You've had a close shave. Dr. Cotton told me that at first he was certain you had a concussion. That could have been very serious."

"Nothing matters so long as my back is all right. It is, isn't it? They didn't tell me it was, just to bolster my courage?" Panic seized her.

"Your back is perfectly all right," he reassured her. "But I mustn't tire you. When you are stronger you can tell me how it happened."

"I don't know myself unless Traf—" She paused abruptly, unwilling to cast suspicion, when she was uncertain, upon one of her profession. "How is Grandfather Siddal?" she addel hastily.

"I didn't tell him you were hurt. Didn't want to worry him if I could help it, but since I'll have to stay longer than I expected I'll let him know now."

"Why should he worry about me?" she asked wonderingly.

"Why not, Madeline? You're the apple of his eye—"

Madeline! She had forgotten! He had come because he thought she was his cousin. Even with death so close, Madeline had kept up the masquerade. In her great joy at seeing him Donna had forgotten Bill did not know her real identity. He had come to her as a duty and she had thought—

Her icy fingers wriggled in his grasp. Bill loosened them and drew back, intuitively feeling that something was wrong. Yet what had he said to offend her? Certainly the mention of an old man's affection should not do that.

"I'll go now," he said, and arose. Her eyes were closed to hide the disappointment she felt.

At his feet lay Madeline's letter. He picked it up. "Yours," he said. "It hasn't been opened." He placed it on the bed near her hand. Don't try to read until you are stronger. And don't worry about anything. I'll be here in the morning, but if there is anything you want in the meantime have them send for me. I'm at the Commercial House."

"You're very kind," she murmured, but there was nothing more than formal politeness in her tone.

"I love him, I love him!" she moaned when the door closed behind him. "What shall I do?"

Her fumbling fingers tore open the flap of th letter. The words Madeline had scrawled danced crazily on the sheet but she could read enough to understand what they conveyed.

"I'll do it! I will be Madeline! It's her deception, not mine. What else can I do? Oh God, if this is a sin—don't punish me! Let him learn to love me! I love him so I can't send him out of my life. If this is wickedness, then I'm a wicked woman—but, oh, please God, give me my chance for love and happiness!"

Half-hysterical, with tears rolling down her cheeks, she tore the letter to shreds, then fainted with exhaustion.

TANNENBAUM BROADCASTS ON DON HALF HOUR

Robert Tannenbaum, who recently won an oratorical contest at Santa Ana Junior college to choose a representative to the Orange Empire League Oratorical Contest to be held at Pomona college May 25, will give his oration: "Hitler and the Jews," tonight at 6:45 on the "Don Quarter-Hour" broadcast from KREG.

A first prize of $50 and a second prize of $25 will be given to the winners of the league contest and Santa Ana J. C. hopes to place high in the finals.

Walter Kring, J. C. student announcer and program director, will conduct tonight's broadcast.

INTERNATIONAL HOUSE EPISODE ON AIR TONIGHT

The second episode of "International House" on KREG tonight at 7:30 promises to furnish listeners with plenty of laughs and chuckles, it was stated, as "Mike" Nishiwaki will relate the story of the conflict between Oriental and Occidental forms of etiquette when he attended a banquet.

As the writer of "International House" is familiar with Japanese customs, all situations portrayed in the feature are said to be authentic in every detail. The one who has the role of "Mike" speaks the Japanese language and listeners will recognize many words in their own tongue, it was said.

The first episode was broadcast last Monday and introduced Masugashi (Mike) Nishiwaki, a young Japanese business man who is in this country to study American business methods and to improve his English. At a Southern California college dormitory, he meets Phillip (Monty) Montgomery and Jason (Slim) Butterworth who proceed to take him in hand and give him a thorough introduction to American customs.

It is planned to present "International House" each Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 7:30 p. m. on the local station.

KREG NOTES

This evening's Adult Education broadcast from KREG at 5:30 by Mrs. Julia Hyde will concern Yellowstone National park and give details of a two weeks' trip.

Mrs. Hyde speaks each Wednesday on vacation trips, none of which take more than two weeks to make.

New Lewis and Harriet Seeger, vocalist and pianist, will be heard at a new time, 7:45, tonight on KREG; 15 minutes later than as usual. The change will probably be permanent.

RADIO FEATURES

Time References Are Pacific Standard Time

The tender and lovely song, "Oh Promise Me," from DeKoven's light opera, "Robin Hood," will be featured by Nino Martini in his broadcast with Andre Kostelanetz' orchestra and chorus over the Columbia network including KHJ from 5 to 5:30 this evening. Another well-loved melody, "By the Bend of the River," and Walther's Prize Song from Wagner's music drama, "Die Meistersinger," will complete his program.

Albert Spalding, America's outstanding native violinist, will introduce his protege, 17-year-old Joan Field, during his broadcast over the Columbia network including KHJ with Conrad Thibault, baritone, and Don Voorhees' orchestra at 6:30 tonight.

THURSDAY

Vadso, Norway, which will become the world's northernmost broadcasting point at that time, will be the scene of a special broadcast over the Columbia network including KHJ from 10:30 to 10:45 a. m., Thursday. As that date marks the Norwegian national holiday, it has been chosen for the inaugural of the new broadcasting station at Vadso, which is located within the Arctic Circle on the extreme tip of Finmark province near the North Cape. The program from the land of the midnight sun will be comprised of Finmark's folksongs.

Lo Carrillo To Talk On KREG Tonight

Leo Carrillo, genial favorite of young and old alike, will speak to KREG listeners tonight at 7 o'clock during his interview by Edwin Schallart of the California Broadcasting System.

Tonight's interview broadcast offers another opportunity for an "out-of-character" study and insight into the personality of a famous actor, program officials stated.

"OLD CHESTNUTS" PROGRAM ON KREG

The program "Old Chestnuts," featuring Joan Johann at the organ and Hal Conrad at the microphone, 10:30 to 11 p. m. nightly on KREG, offers a $5.00 prize to the one who can think of the oldest song which is reasonably well known in American history.

Miss Johann believes that it is listed in her repertorie of ten thousand songs which she can play by memory. Hal Conrad may be seen looking in Miss Johann's private music files for dates on musical numbers, but the C. B. S. Program Department will pay off only to some radio listener, and not to a member of the staff.

ANAHEIM VOTES $275,000 BOND ISSUE TUESDAY

ANAHEIM, May 16.—Anaheim voters yesterday expressed their approval of the proposed addition to the high school through carrying the $275,000 bond issue for the work by a large majority. The bonds were approved by a margin of 400 votes more than the required two thirds majority. Unofficial check of the returns reveals that there were 2106 votes cast favoring issuing the bonds and 813 cast against the project.

J. C. Clayes, principal of the high school, said this morning that it is probable that work on the new unit at the high school will not get under way in less than 60 days. The vote cannot be canvassed until next week when the high school board meets and after the canvass the returns will be forwarded to the board of supervisors who will issue the bonds. Following the sale of the bonds plans and specifications will be forwarded to Sacramento for approval of the State Board of Architects and departments of schoolhouse planning.

Clayes said this morning that when contracts finally are called for each contract will contain specifications that local men be employed in the construction work.

The bond issue will provide funds for demolition of the damaged portions of the high school buildings that have been closed since the earthquake of March 10, 1933. Under present plans a complete new unit including an auditorium, administration offices, library and 16 class rooms will be built on the Center street side of the high school property and the undamaged wings of the present building will be moved back. Since the earthquake students have been attending classes in temporary quarters on the campus.

60TH BIRTHDAY AT ST. MICHAEL CHURCH HELD

ANAHEIM, May 16.—Marking the Sixtieth anniversary of the founding of St. Michael's Episcopal parish in this city congratulations were extended the rector, the Rev. D. Howard Dow and members of the parish by Bishop W. Bertram Stevens of the Los Angeles diocese and outstanding churchmen. The congratulations were extended at a reception and program given last night in the church and formed the high point of a series of programs being given this week to mark the anniversary of the official recognition of the parish by the San Francisco diocese which, 60 years ago, was in charge of parishs in Southern California.

Bishop Stevens in his talk congratulated the rector and the parish on the progress made by the church during the past 60 years saying that much of the success of the parish was based upon the work and lives of members who blazed the trail. He also congratulated the parish on the fact that this week marked the clearing all indebtedness against the parish. Other speakers on last night's program were the Very Reverend Harry Beale, dean of St. Paul's cathedral in Los Angeles, the Rev. W. J. Hatter, rector of the Church of the Messiah in Santa Ana, the Rev. Charles Maltus, rector of the church in Fullerton and others. The Rev. D. Howard Dow, rector of St. Michael's extended the greetings of the parish to the visitors and introduced noted guests and speakers. Several pioneer members of the church were called upon and spoke briefly recalling the history of the parish.

On the musical portion of the program Reginald Taylor, Anaheim vocalist, sang two groups of songs. He was accompanied at the piano by Katherine Stewart. Refreshments were served by members of the parish guild.

Observation of the anniversary started last Sunday with a picnic in Anaheim city park following services in the church at which time Dean A. G. H. Bode, former rector of St. Michael's was the speaker. In his talk he made a stirring appeal for Christian leadership pointing out that "the Christian church and Christian conscience are on trial today for their life."

SOCIETY

Plans for Wedding in June Made Known At Tea

Bridal white and the delicate pastels of the season were evidenced in decorative appointments in the home of Mrs. John Lutz, jr., 403 Grant street, Saturday afternoon when she entertained at tea announcing the engagement of her sister-in-law, Miss Dorothy Lutz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Lutz, to William Kolkhorst, son of Mrs. Sophia Kolkhorst of Orange. Miss Lutz was charming in a starched chiffon frock worn with a gardenia corsage. The hostess wore flowered chiffon with a corsage of sweet peas.

In the receiving line with Mrs. John Lutz, jr., were mothers of the engaged couple, Mrs. Sophia Kolkhorst and Mrs. John Lutz, complementing their pretty frocks with sweet pea clusters. Since Miss Dorothy Lutz has been employed in the office of the county recorder for the past few years, it seemed especially appropriate that Miss Justine Whitney's great niece, little Miss Justine Zabel, wearing a ruffled frock of white organdy, should lend her assistance in presenting each guest with a corsage bouquet. To each dainty flower cluster was attached a parchment card bearing the names of Miss Lutz and Mr. Kolkhorst with the date June 16 for their wedding. About 75 relatives and close friends were thus acquainted with the romantic news.

Miss Lutz' sister-in-law, Mrs. Willard Lutz of this city, and Mrs. David Churchill of South Pasadena poured tea from a table made lovely with its lace cloth, central bouquet of white blooms, glowing tapers and other decorative details in white. The Misses Louise Bryant, Dorothy Dresser, Viola Andres and Mrs. Lawrence Kokx served open-faced sandwiches, cookies and other dainties with the tea.

Miss Andres also had assisted the hostess in decorating for the occasion. Especially effective was an arrangement of Easter lilies and blue delphiniums at the fireplace. Other white flowers and tiny blue blossoms completed the floral background.

Both Miss Lutz and Mr. Kolkhorst attended Santa Ana Junior college, the bride-to-be having her earlier schooling at Santa Ana High school and Mr. Kolkhorst at Orange high. He is employed in Orange. His fiancee has been in the offices of the county recorder for the past few years. She is an active member of Wrycende Maegdenu club of the Y. W. C. A.

Ebell Program Offers Unusual Variety in Its Features

As Ebell society approaches the end of its year of study and programs, the events seem to increase in interest for women of the organization. This applies to Monday's session in the clubhouse where the short business meeting conducted by the president, Mrs. Charles V. Davis, was preceded by a delightful social phase of club life, and followed by the monthly book and political review presented by Mrs. Jack Vallely.

Fourth Household Economics section members with their leader, Mrs. A. Thorndike, had planned the luncheon served in the peacock room to scores of clubwomen. The conventionalized flower designs which had graced the recent Junior Ebell dance remained to emphasize the springtime motif. Tables were graced with the loveliest of garden flowers, and the menu was planned to appeal to appetites eager for spring dainties. Mrs. Wyckoff Hoxie and her hospitality committee had arranged the tables; Mrs. W. E. Watkins and her finance committee had charge of decorations, and Junior Ebell members assisted with the decorations and did the serving.

A special program opened with solos by Marquise Hare with Miss Esther Vogt as accompanist. His numbers, "I Love Life" (Manna Zucca); "In a Luxembourg Garden" (Manning) and "Green-Eyed Dragon" (Woolsey), were thoroughly enjoyed and he was recalled for an encore, choosing "Oh the Dear Little Girl."

Introducing Robert L. Brown to whom had been delegated the honor of presenting the guest speaker, Lieutenant John V. Deuel, Mrs. Davis took opportunity to express to Mr. Brown, the club's appreciation of the attractive programs which he had provided as place cards, and which listed luncheon menu, program and books to be reviewed.

In his introduction of the guest speaker, Lieut. Deuel, Mr. Brown told of his long acquaintance with the author, famous for his "Speed Wings", and especially for his latest book, "White Cayuca." Travels through the Amazon valley which form the basis of "White Cayuca," also provided the theme of Lieut. Deuel's interesting talk.

He declared that the 2800 mile journey into South American jungles was so extensive that for a brief talk he was forced to center on only one phase of it, the Amazon valley. He told of the ramifications of the native tribes, declaring that there were probably 500 main tribes in the valley alone, each with its branching tribes as various as the tributary streams of the region. He gave a vivid account of his audience with a tribal chieftain, and his talk was so thoroughly enjoyed with its flashes of delightful humor, that clubwomen were reluctant to have it come to a close.

At the business session conducted by Mrs. Davis in the auditorium, the customary announcements were followed by a succinct report of the California Federation conclave in Riverside, given by Mrs. John M. Cloyes and a similar report on the Junior convention, by Mrs. Emrys D. White.

Announcements included that of the Girls' Ebell program of three one-acts in the auditorium on the night of May 25, and one made by Mrs. R. Carson Smith regarding the benefit bridge tea and fashion revue for children to be given in the clubhouse on May 24 under auspices of Child Study section of Junior Ebell.

Junior Ebell Group Makes Prizes

Those present were Mrs. R. Carson Smith, general chairman, and Mesdames Edward Lee Russell, Milo Tedstrom, Sam Walker, Cassius Paul, Raymond Smith, R. C. Harris and Mrs. Moomaw. The hostess served refreshments at the evening's close.

Announcements

As the culminating event of a Japanese project on which the True Triangle Girl Reserve club of Julia Lathrop Junior high school has been engaged for several weeks, a Japanese program and tea will be given Friday at 3:30 p. m. in the Y. W. C. A. rooms. Study of the Orient has been conducted under direction of Mrs. Glen Bast. The girls have fashioned their own costumes for the team, carving Japanese sandals to complete ther attire. The program will include songs, dances, a short play, "The Purple Iris" and a demonstration of flower arrangement. Those on the program will include Violet Brown, Norma Area, Maxnie Knight, Lucille Haskill, Mary Jane Sartor, Agnes McKenna, Marguerite Fox, Helen Hicks, Thelma Finnegan, Elizabeth Wilson and Florence Nelson.

Damascus White Shrine

Mrs. Elise Bohling and Mrs. Doris Cox received recognition as the oldest and youngest mothers present at the meeting.

Special escort honors were accorded Mrs. Winifred Courtlour, supreme queen's attendant, and Mrs. Eleanor Osborn, past worthy high priestess, both of Nazareth Shrine, Long Beach; Mesdames Della Maude Ryan, Marie Beisel and Helen Aubin, past worthy high priestesses of Damascus Shrine; Messrs W. O. Patterson, W. B. McConnell, James Tarpley, Henry Meyer and Dr. C. T. Cleland, past watchman of Shepherds of Damascus White Shrine. Mrs. Alma Wright of Fullerton was introduced.

Refreshments were served in the dining room, where Mrs. Jeannette Tarpley was chairman. She had assistance of Mrs. Kreighbaum, Mrs. Laura Keseman, Mrs. Elizabeth Lewis, Mrs. Florence Tralle and Mrs. Clara Tollifaro.

Bridge was played for the remainder of the evening. Bouquets awarded as table prizes went to Mesdames Sue Henry, Emma Henry, Minnie Pyle, Lillian Dawson, Carrie Roberts and Messrs Walter Wright and Willard Patterson.

Church Societies

First Presbyterian

Bowls of pink carnations and pink sweet peas decorated the home of Mrs. R. G. Bond Friday for the meeting of Mrs. T. S. Blair's Bible class of the First Presbyterian church.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. H. K. Pollock, and prayer was led by Mrs. Blair. Mrs. O. Scott McFarland gave an interesting talk on the living habits of the Indians at Ganado mission in Arizona, which she had visited.

Delightful refreshments were served by a committee including Mrs. R. G. Bond, chairman; and Mesdames R. D. Flaherty, Charles Winans, Nannie Dale, Maude Pegues and S. A. Jones.

Spurgeon Memorial

The pleasant P. E. Dooley cabin at shady Trabuco Oaks welcomed members of the Golden Rule Sunday school of Spurgeon Memorial Methodist church, when they met recently for a covered dish luncheon.

The afternoon was spent informally, and guests were afforded a rare treat when they were privileged to view for a moment the large antlered deer that appeared on the hillside near the cabin.

Members present were Mrs. J. F. Walton, teacher; and Mesdames Blanche Palmer, Max Temple, H. Anthony, J. B. Anthony, N. N. Martin, J. A. Staton, Laura Looney, Minnie Perry, Maud Cox, Flora Heemstra, H. C. Miller, Plummer, Farr, Oscar Kurtz, P. E. Dooley, and the Misses Irene Anderson, Mollie Anderson, Mellie Matheny, and guests, the Rev. and Mrs. C. M. Aker, and Messrs N. N. Martin, Bob Walton and P. E. Dooley.

PINCHOT LOSES NOMINATION IN PENNSYLVANIA

Joseph F. Guffey, whose chief campaign plea was that "I'm for Roosevelt," won the Democratic primary contest and will oppose the incumbent Reed.

Attorney General William A. Schnader, staunch Republican, and George H. Earle, Democratic administrator standard bearer, will contest the governorship.

The climax of the turbulent primary came when Pinchot conceded the senator's nomination.

The entire Democratic organization slate was nominated for lieutenant governor, secretary of internal affairs and judge of the superior court. The powerful Republican organization also was victorious in nominating its candidates.

That will mean that the newly-organized Democratic machine will battle it out against the old and almost politically perfect Republican Mellon-Grundy-Vare organization at the November election.

Returns from 5516 precincts of the 7930 gave Reed 489,249 and Pinchot 367,521.

KIDNAPERS OF GETTLE GIVEN LIFE SENTENCE

ty. Kirk was dissatisfied and summoned a second lawyer. He, too, suggested they accept the state's ultimatum. The conference ended at 7:30 p. m.

Within the quarter-hour, they stood before Judge Fricke with offers to plead their guilt.

The prisoners stared down at their shoes as Gettle was summoned to the witness stand and briefly sketched an account of his misadventure. Judge Fricke then passed sentence and the prisoners were led back to their cells.

Both Kirk and Kerrigan had local police records. Three years ago Kirk was arrested on a charge of forging Gettle's name to a check but he escaped conviction. Police also knew him as a bootlegger. Kerrigan had been arrested several times for misdemeanors. Williams, a laborer, said he worked on the Gettle estate last fall under the name of "Tate". He had no criminal record.

TANNENBAUM BROADCASTS ON DON HALF HOUR

Robert Tannenbaum, who recently won an oratorical contest at Santa Ana Junior college to choose a representative to the Orange Empire League Oratorical Contest to be held at Pomona college May 25, will give his oration: "Hitler and the Jews," tonight at 6:45 on the "Don Quarter-Hour" broadcast from KREG.

A first prize of $50 and a second prize of $25 will be given to the winners of the league contest and Santa Ana J. C. hopes to place high in the finals.

Walter Kring, J. C. student announcer and program director, will conduct tonight's broadcast.

INTERNATIONAL HOUSE EPISODE ON AIR TONIGHT

The second episode of "International House" on KREG tonight at 7:30 promises to furnish listeners with plenty of laughs and chuckles, it was stated, as "Mike" Nishiwaki will relate the story of the conflict between Oriental and Occidental forms of etiquette when he attended a banquet.

As the writer of "International House" is familiar with Japanese customs, all situations portrayed in the feature are said to be authentic in every detail. The one who has the role of "Mike" speaks the Japanese language and listeners will recognize many words in their own tongue, it was said.

The first episode was broadcast last Monday and introduced Masugashi (Mike) Nishiwaki, a young Japanese business man who is in this country to study American business methods and to improve his English. At a Southern California college dormitory, he meets Phillip (Monty) Montgomery and Jason (Slim) Butterworth who proceed to take him in hand and give him a thorough introduction to American customs.

It is planned to present "International House" each Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 7:30 p. m. on the local station.

KREG NOTES

This evening's Adult Education broadcast from KREG at 5:30 by Mrs. Julia Hyde will concern Yellowstone National park and give details of a two weeks' trip.

Mrs. Hyde speaks each Wednesday on vacation trips, none of which take more than two weeks to make.

New Lewis and Harriet Seeger, vocalist and pianist, will be heard at a new time, 7:45, tonight on KREG; 15 minutes later than as usual. The change will probably be permanent.

RADIO FEATURES

The tender and lovely song, "Oh Promise Me," from DeKoven's light opera, "Robin Hood," will be featured by Nino Martini in his broadcast with Andre Kostelanetz' orchestra and chorus over the Columbia network including KHJ from 5 to 5:30 this evening. Another well-loved melody, "By the Bend of the River," and Walther's Prize Song from Wagner's music drama, "Die Meistersinger," will complete his program.

Albert Spalding, America's outstanding native violinist, will introduce his protege, 17-year-old Joan Field, during his broadcast over the Columbia network including KHJ with Conrad Thibault, baritone, and Don Voorhees' orchestra at 6:30 tonight.

THURSDAY

Vadso, Norway, which will become the world's northernmost broadcasting point at that time, will be the scene of a special broadcast over the Columbia network including KHJ from 10:30 to 10:45 a. m., Thursday. As that date marks the Norwegian national holiday, it has been chosen for the inaugural of the new broadcasting station at Vadso, which is located within the Arctic Circle on the extreme tip of Finmark province near the North Cape. The program from the land of the midnight sun will be comprised of Finmark's folksongs.

Lo Carrillo To Talk On KREG Tonight

Leo Carrillo, genial favorite of young and old alike, will speak to KREG listeners tonight at 7 o'clock during his interview by Edwin Schallart of the California Broadcasting System.

Tonight's interview broadcast offers another opportunity for an "out-of-character" study and insight into the personality of a famous actor, program officials stated.

"OLD CHESTNUTS" PROGRAM ON KREG

The program "Old Chestnuts," featuring Joan Johann at the organ and Hal Conrad at the microphone, 10:30 to 11 p. m. nightly on KREG, offers a $5.00 prize to the one who can think of the oldest song which is reasonably well known in American history.

Miss Johann believes that it is listed in her repertorie of ten thousand songs which she can play by memory. Hal Conrad may be seen looking in Miss Johann's private music files for dates on musical numbers, but the C. B. S. Program Department will pay off only to some radio listener, and not to a member of the staff.

ANAHEIM VOTES $275,000 BOND ISSUE TUESDAY

ANAHEIM, May 16.—Anaheim voters yesterday expressed their approval of the proposed addition to the high school through carrying the $275,000 bond issue for the work by a large majority. The bonds were approved by a margin of 400 votes more than the required two thirds majority. Unofficial check of the returns reveals that there were 2106 votes cast favoring issuing the bonds and 813 cast against the project.

J. C. Clayes, principal of the high school, said this morning that it is probable that work on the new unit at the high school will not get under way in less than 60 days. The vote cannot be canvassed until next week when the high school board meets and after the canvass the returns will be forwarded to the board of supervisors who will issue the bonds. Following the sale of the bonds plans and specifications will be forwarded to Sacramento for approval of the State Board of Architects and departments of schoolhouse planning.

Clayes said this morning that when contracts finally are called for each contract will contain specifications that local men be employed in the construction work.

The bond issue will provide funds for demolition of the damaged portions of the high school buildings that have been closed since the earthquake of March 10, 1933. Under present plans a complete new unit including an auditorium, administration offices, library and 16 class rooms will be built on the Center street side of the high school property and the undamaged wings of the present building will be moved back. Since the earthquake students have been attending classes in temporary quarters on the campus.

60TH BIRTHDAY AT ST. MICHAEL CHURCH HELD

ANAHEIM, May 16.—Marking the Sixtieth anniversary of the founding of St. Michael's Episcopal parish in this city congratulations were extended the rector, the Rev. D. Howard Dow and members of the parish by Bishop W. Bertram Stevens of the Los Angeles diocese and outstanding churchmen. The congratulations were extended at a reception and program given last night in the church and formed the high point of a series of programs being given this week to mark the anniversary of the official recognition of the parish by the San Francisco diocese which, 60 years ago, was in charge of parishs in Southern California.

Bishop Stevens in his talk congratulated the rector and the parish on the progress made by the church during the past 60 years saying that much of the success of the parish was based upon the work and lives of members who blazed the trail. He also congratulated the parish on the fact that this week marked the clearing all indebtedness against the parish. Other speakers on last night's program were the Very Reverend Harry Beale, dean of St. Paul's cathedral in Los Angeles, the Rev. W. J. Hatter, rector of the Church of the Messiah in Santa Ana, the Rev. Charles Maltus, rector of the church in Fullerton and others. The Rev. D. Howard Dow, rector of St. Michael's extended the greetings of the parish to the visitors and introduced noted guests and speakers. Several pioneer members of the church were called upon and spoke briefly recalling the history of the parish.

On the musical portion of the program Reginald Taylor, Anaheim vocalist, sang two groups of songs. He was accompanied at the piano by Katherine Stewart. Refreshments were served by members of the parish guild.

Observation of the anniversary started last Sunday with a picnic in Anaheim city park following services in the church at which time Dean A. G. H. Bode, former rector of St. Michael's was the speaker. In his talk he made a stirring appeal for Christian leadership pointing out that "the Christian church and Christian conscience are on trial today for their life."

SOCIETY

Plans for Wedding in June Made Known At Tea

Bridal white and the delicate pastels of the season were evidenced in decorative appointments in the home of Mrs. John Lutz, jr., 403 Grant street, Saturday afternoon when she entertained at tea announcing the engagement of her sister-in-law, Miss Dorothy Lutz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Lutz, to William Kolkhorst, son of Mrs. Sophia Kolkhorst of Orange. Miss Lutz was charming in a starched chiffon frock worn with a gardenia corsage. The hostess wore flowered chiffon with a corsage of sweet peas.

In the receiving line with Mrs. John Lutz, jr., were mothers of the engaged couple, Mrs. Sophia Kolkhorst and Mrs. John Lutz, complementing their pretty frocks with sweet pea clusters. Since Miss Dorothy Lutz has been employed in the office of the county recorder for the past few years, it seemed especially appropriate that Miss Justine Whitney's great niece, little Miss Justine Zabel, wearing a ruffled frock of white organdy, should lend her assistance in presenting each guest with a corsage bouquet. To each dainty flower cluster was attached a parchment card bearing the names of Miss Lutz and Mr. Kolkhorst with the date June 16 for their wedding. About 75 relatives and close friends were thus acquainted with the romantic news.

Miss Lutz' sister-in-law, Mrs. Willard Lutz of this city, and Mrs. David Churchil of South Pasadena poured tea from a table made lovely with its lace cloth, central bouquet of white blooms, glowing tapers and other decorative details in white. The Misses Louise Bryant, Dorothy Dresser, Viola Andres and Mrs. Lawrence Kokx served open-faced sandwiches, cookies and other dainties with the tea.

Miss Andres also had assisted the hostess in decorating for the occasion. Especially effective was an arrangement of Easter lilies and blue delphiniums at the fireplace. Other white flowers and tiny blue blossoms completed the floral background.

Both Miss Lutz and Mr. Kolkhorst attended Santa Ana Junior college, the bride-to-be having her earlier schooling at Santa Ana High school and Mr. Kolkhorst at Orange high. He is employed in Orange. His fiancee has been in the offices of the county recorder for the past few years. She is an active member of Wrycende Maegdenu club of the Y. W. C. A.

Ebell Program Offers Unusual Variety in Its Features

As Ebell society approaches the end of its year of study and programs, the events seem to increase in interest for women of the organization. This applies to Monday's session in the clubhouse where the short business meeting conducted by the president, Mrs. Charles V. Davis, was preceded by a delightful social phase of club life, and followed by the monthly book and political review presented by Mrs. Jack Vallely.

Fourth Household Economics section members with their leader, Mrs. A. Thorndike, had planned the luncheon served in the peacock room to scores of clubwomen. The conventionalized flower designs which had graced the recent Junior Ebell dance remained to emphasize the springtime motif. Tables were graced with the loveliest of garden flowers, and the menu was planned to appeal to appetites eager for spring dainties. Mrs. Wyckoff Hoxie and her hospitality committee had arranged the tables; Mrs. W. E. Watkins and her finance committee had charge of decorations, and Junior Ebell members assisted with the decorations and did the serving.

A special program opened with solos by Marquise Hare with Miss Esther Vogt as accompanist. His numbers, "I Love Life" (Manna Zucca); "In a Luxembourg Garden" (Manning) and "Green-Eyed Dragon" (Woolsey), were thoroughly enjoyed and he was recalled for an encore, choosing "Oh the Dear Little Girl."

Introducing Robert L. Brown to whom had been delegated the honor of presenting the guest speaker, Lieutenant John V. Deuel, Mrs. Davis took opportunity to express to Mr. Brown, the club's appreciation of the attractive programs which he had provided as place cards, and which listed luncheon menu, program and books to be reviewed.

In his introduction of the guest speaker, Lieut. Deuel, Mr. Brown told of his long acquaintance with the author, famous for his "Speed Wings", and especially for his latest book, "White Cayuca." Travels through the Amazon valley which form the basis of "White Cayuca," also provided the theme of Lieut. Deuel's interesting talk.

He declared that the 2800 mile journey into South American jungles was so extensive that for a brief talk he was forced to center on only one phase of it, the Amazon valley. He told of the ramifications of the native tribes, declaring that there were probably 500 main tribes in the valley alone, each with its branching tribes as various as the tributary streams of the region. He gave a vivid account of his audience with a tribal chieftain, and his talk was so thoroughly enjoyed with its flashes of delightful humor, that clubwomen were reluctant to have it come to a close.

At the business session conducted by Mrs. Davis in the auditorium, the customary announcements were followed by a succinct report of the California Federation conclave in Riverside, given by Mrs. John M. Cloyes and a similar report on the Junior convention, by Mrs. Emrys D. White.

Announcements included that of the Girls' Ebell program of three one-acts in the auditorium on the night of May 25, and one made by Mrs. R. Carson Smith regarding the benefit bridge tea and fashion revue for children to be given in the clubhouse on May 24 under auspices of Child Study section of Junior Ebell.

Junior Ebell Group Makes Prizes

Those present were Mrs. R. Carson Smith, general chairman, and Mesdames Edward Lee Russell, Milo Tedstrom, Sam Walker, Cassius Paul, Raymond Smith, R. C. Harris and Mrs. Moomaw. The hostess served refreshments at the evening's close.

Announcements

As the culminating event of a Japanese project on which the True Triangle Girl Reserve club of Julia Lathrop Junior high school has been engaged for several weeks, a Japanese program and tea will be given Friday at 3:30 p. m. in the Y. W. C. A. rooms. Study of the Orient has been conducted under direction of Mrs. Glen Bast. The girls have fashioned their own costumes for the team, carving Japanese sandals to complete ther attire. The program will include songs, dances, a short play, "The Purple Iris" and a demonstration of flower arrangement. Those on the program will include Violet Brown, Norma Area, Maxnie Knight, Lucille Haskill, Mary Jane Sartor, Agnes McKenna, Marguerite Fox, Helen Hicks, Thelma Finnegan, Elizabeth Wilson and Florence Nelson.

Damascus White Shrine

Damascus White Shrine members paid special compliment to mothers at their latest meeting in Masonic temple. Presiding officers were Mrs. Sue Henry, acting worthy high priestess in the absence of Marie Patterson, and Wilford Lewis, watchman of shepherds.

Mrs. Elise Bohling and Mrs. Doris Cox received recognition as the oldest and youngest mothers present at the meeting.

Special escort honors were accorded Mrs. Winifred Courtiour, supreme queen's attendant, and Mrs. Eleanor Osborn, past worthy high priestess, both of Nazareth Shrine, Long Beach; Mesdames Della Maude Ryan, Marie Beisel and Helen Aubin, past worthy high priestesses of Damascus Shrine; Messrs W. O. Patterson, W. B. McConnell, James Tarpley, Henry Meyer and Dr. C. T. Cleland, past watchman of Shepherds of Damascus White Shrine. Mrs. Alma Wright of Fullerton was introduced.

Refreshments were served in the dining room, where Mrs. Jeannette Tarpley was chairman. She had assistance of Mrs. Kreighbaum, Mrs. Laura Keseman, Mrs. Elizabeth Lewis, Mrs. Florence Tralle and Mrs. Clara Tollifaro.

Bridge was played for the remainder of the evening. Bouquets awarded as table prizes went to Mesdames Sue Henry, Emma Henry, Minnie Pyle, Lillian Dawson, Carrie Roberts and Messrs Walter Wright and Willard Patterson.

Church Societies

First Presbyterian

Bowls of pink carnations and pink sweet peas decorated the home of Mrs. R. G. Bond Friday for the meeting of Mrs. T. S. Blair's Bible class of the First Presbyterian church.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. H. K. Pollock, and prayer was led by Mrs. Blair. Mrs. O. Scott McFarland gave an interesting talk on the living habits of the Indians at Ganado mission in Arizona, which she had visited.

Delightful refreshments were served by a committee including Mrs. R. G. Bond, chairman; and Mesdames R. D. Flaherty, Charles Winans, Nannie Dale, Maude Pegues and S. A. Jones.

Spurgeon Memorial

The pleasant P. E. Dooley cabin at shady Trabuco Oaks welcomed members of the Golden Rule Sunday school of Spurgeon Memorial Methodist church, when they met recently for a covered dish luncheon.

The afternoon was spent informally, and guests were afforded a rare treat when they were privileged to view for a moment the large antlered deer that appeared on the hillside near the cabin.

Members present were Mrs. J. F. Walton, teacher; and Mesdames Blanche Palmer, Max Temple, H. Anthony, J. B. Anthony, N. N. Martin, J. A. Staton, Laura Looney, Minnie Perry, Maud Cox, Flora Heemstra, H. C. Miller, Plummer, Farr, Oscar Kurtz, P. E. Dooley, and the Misses Irene Anderson, Mollie Anderson, Mellie Matheny, and guests, the Rev. and Mrs. C. M. Aker, and Messrs N. N. Martin, Bob Walton and P. E. Dooley.

versus the old deal will be joined squarely in the coming election.

Joseph F. Guffey, whose chief campaign plea was that "I'm for Roosevelt," won the Democratic primary contest and will oppose the incumbent Reed.

Attorney General William A. Schnader, staunch Republican, and George H. Earle, Democratic administrator standard bearer, will contest the governorship.

The climax of the turbulent primary came when Pinchot conceded the senator's nomination.

The entire Democratic organization slate was nominated for lieutenant governor, secretary of internal affairs and judge of the superior court. The powerful Republican organization also was victorious in nominating its candidates.

That will mean that the newly-organized Democratic machine will battle it out against the old and almost politically perfect Republican Mellon-Grundy-Vare organization at the November election.

Returns from 5516 precincts of the 7930 gave Reed 489,249 and Pinchot 367,521.

ty. Kirk was dissatisfied and summoned a second lawyer. He, too, suggested they accept the state's ultimatum. The conference ended at 7:30 p. m.

Within the quarter-hour, they stood before Judge Fricke with offers to plead their guilt.

The prisoners stared down at their shoes as Gettle was summoned to the witness stand and briefly sketched an account of his misadventure. Judge Fricke then passed sentence and the prisoners were led back to their cells.

Both Kirk and Kerrigan had local police records. Three years ago Kirk was arrested on a charge of forging Gettle's name to a check but he escaped conviction. Police also knew him as a bootlegger. Kerrigan had been arrested several times for misdemeanors. Williams, a laborer, said he worked on the Gettle estate last fall under the name of "Tate". He had no criminal record.

NRA MEMBER U.S. WE DO OUR PART

A BIGGER AND FINER NEWPORT BEACH

The Register would like to call attention to a new program for Newport Beach. It appears very strongly, from both the news and editorial columns of the last issue of the Newport News, that the people of Newport Beach have caught a bigger vision of the possibilities of their city, and of the character of desired residents, than they have ever had before.

From the pen of the president of the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. A. B. Rousselle; from the former harbor master and secretary of the state senate, who long has been a resident of Newport Beach, Joseph Allan Beek; from a letter of the minister there, Rev. Russell Stroup, and from an editorial in the News, we see that all citizens are uniting on a policy for making Newport Beach more and more worthy of an investment and a place of residence for those citizens who are not primarily after the noise and froth.

This is a paragraph from the story of the president of the Chamber of Commerce of Newport Beach:

"The experience of the past Easter week has clearly demonstrated to all of us what we do not want at Newport and Balboa; that the property owners who are paying heavy taxes for the privilege of living here have come to the place where they will no longer tolerate the presence in the community of those who would turn it into an all-night playground and who have no respect for the investments or the rights of others."

He also says:

"A new future has been created by the development of the harbor, which is going to attract a high class permanent resident and visitor class to our community. In the past we have been forced by necessity to cater and extend privileges to anyone who would care to come. We could not be choosers but now with our future assured we can take pains to decide what that future shall be."

The editor, Mr. S. A. Myers, says, in part:

"Now is the time to settle on some definite policy for our future, and having settled on what our policy is to be, let us get behind it and push for all we are worth.

"Shall we make the town attractive to the people who want to settle here, and are willing to pay their share of our taxes, or shall we cater to the transient crowd who come for a few hours, leaving their trash behind for the community to clean up, and who do not contribute anything toward our taxes?

"The first big step toward making our city attractive is to do away with the rowdyism and noise which goes on until 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning, and one way of accomplishing this is to have all places of amusement and other businesses close at midnight, instead of running until two in the morning.

"Another point is to have a stricter enforcement of the City ordinances, with regard to noises on the streets, speeding in cars, promiscuous drinking on public property, illegal parking of cars, and nuisance abatement in general.

"Let people come down here to have a good time, but take care that one person's good time does not mean a bad time for all the neighbors. Let us get rid of the idea that the Harbor District is a place where everyone can do as he likes regardless of anyone else."

The minister joins in with these words:

"I have long felt and expressed myself upon numerous occasions that in encouraging those who are a source of disturbance and who desire to turn the city into an all night town or another Coney Island we have pursued a policy which is highly detrimental to the larger and finer growth of the community. What we want is, as I have often said, a high class residential resort which would attract the best element in the Southland; those who will own their homes, maintain an establishment, bring here their boats and in every way make a permanent and worthwhile contribution to our Community. We cannot attract these persons if we are to allow the city to be overrun with a cheap, noisy, undesirable element which destroys rather than builds and is not even financially profitable to us since they spend very little money themselves and drive away those who might in taxes and living contribute thousands of dollars to our city."

It would appear that all the elements of Newport Beach are united and determined to add mightily to the attractiveness of the city and insure the finest investors the highest value for their money, in their quest for homes and recreation.

We want to congratulate the citizens of Newport Beach on their enterprise, on their vision and on their spirit. With this wonderful harbor soon to be perfected; with its accessibility from all points in Orange county, and its proximity to Long Beach and the great city of Los Angeles, and with Riverside and San Bernardino residents looking for the finest in the way of a summer home, we can imagine nothing to complete the picture of certainty in the future of the beautiful city than the purpose which now seems to be that of the citizens of the city themselves.

With the finest kind of wholesome, yet harmless, recreation; with all the other advantages, Newport Beach is the ideal place for summer and even year-round residence.

SENATOR REED DEFEATS GOVERNOR PINCHOT

Senator Reed has beaten Governor Pinchot out as the candidate on the Republican ticket in Pennsylvania.

It was a singular contest. The figures are not complete at this writing, but 800,000 votes have been reported. Of this number about 460,000 votes are for Reed and 360,000 votes for Mr. Pinchot.

Governor Pinchot, although running in the Republican primaries, declared himself unequivocably in favor of President Roosevelt and his policies.

He urged this in season and out of season. This is probably the most remarkable thing that has occurred in any Republican primary in this country,—a Republican governor, running in a Republican primary, for the United States Senatorship, declaring himself on behalf of the national administration, which is Democratic, and then receiving about three votes out of seven, of all the votes that are cast in the Republican primaries.

The surprise is not that Reed won; the surprise is that so many votes were cast for the president in the primaries. For undoubtedly many of the Republicans have done just what they have done in California, already registered as Democrats.

The real fight will come at election in November, when the issue between the administration and the anti-administration will appear. With Pinchot and his followers distinctly for Roosevelt and his policies, it would appear that Mr. Reed would have a tremendous fight on his hands.

It is very plain that if Mr. Pinchot could have had the support of the Democrats, he would easily have won. If the Democratic candidate, Mr. Guffey, has the support, by the same token, of the followers of Mr. Pinchot, he will probably be elected.

In spite of names, it is becoming a contest between the ultra-conservative and the progressive groups in the country. The same contest is very likely to develop in California unless a known and distinct progressive is nominated by both parties.

GOVERNOR ROLPH WITHDRAWS

Governor Rolph has definitely decided that he will not be a candidate for re-election. We are sorry that the governor is in the physical condition he is.

Undoubtedly he has, in his way, given sincere and faithful service to the public and done the thing which he believed in the interest of the public good.

Governor Rolph is a genial, sympathetic, emotional, and shrewd man, who has many of the strong points of a politician by nature. He has not had to put them on as a coat.

But from the standpoint of the real values in our civilization; from the standpoint of business and economical administration; from the standpoint of public service being a public trust, and the appointments on the basis of merit and effectiveness, rather than on the strength of personal loyalty, are the points in which Governor Rolph fails to measure up to the possibilities of a real administrator.

It, therefore, must be somewhat of a relief to millions of citizens in California, to note that he has eliminated himself from this campaign. Probably the candidates for the governorship have all announced now. Soon we can begin to weigh them.

We will have to take into consideration their personal character, their ability and their purposes, as demonstrated by their lives.

We will have to consider their present statements, with 90 per cent off for tare, on most of them.

With some of them, the primary consideration will be the forces that are behind them, and are likely to control them, which forces we know support only those whom they know they can control.

Luxurious Travel For the Steam Railroads

Riverside Enterprise

The luxury of the new railroad accommodations, after years in which railroad travel was mostly regarded as an endurance test, almost passes belief. Not content with reducing rates to 1 1-2 or 2 cents a mile, air-cooling Pullmans, bringing in new streamlined trains and putting more speed, comfort and service into the whole business, they are now providing trains with entertainment. A southeastern line has a miniature night club on its Florida trains, with hostesses and soft music.

Very likely we'll soon have a hostess along with the porter on every Pullman, with radio service and other extras on the coaches, and a place to dance in the middle of the dining car. Or inventive genius and managerial enterprise will sweep away all these crudities and give us something finer than drummers or millionaires ever dreamed of. The business coupe and family bus will have to step some to keep up.

Widow of Lenin

The Oakland Tribune

The widow of Lenin is taken to task because in her book of reminiscences she admitted the human qualities of her husband. He was both soft and sentimental, she wrote, and a soft and sentimental man is not in the pattern of the one who is rapidly becoming a myth in Russia.

On another count the widow of Lenin was remiss. She did not make much of his association with the present dictator Josef Stalin, quite forgetting to say a word of the latter's abilities and the confidence imposed in him by the old leader.

The widow of Lenin has "been taken severely to task" and may feel properly chastened. It is more likely she wishes she dared ask: "Who's writing this book, anyway?"

ADVICE TO A CAT

If you will just take my advice,
Please note it down with care,
You'll stick to catching rats and mice
For which you have a flair.
You may have other talents, too,
But you are in the wrong
If you so much as dream that you
Possess the gift of song.

Those concerts that you give at night
Can only do you harm,
The voice in which you so delight
Has neither lilt nor charm.
It has a sound like greaseless wheels,
A rasping, sour tone,
An eldritch cadence which appeals
To no ears but your own.

Your purr, I own, is not so bad,
It does not grind nor jar,
Moreover, I had better add,
It does not carry far.
But when you try to do your best,
For deathless fame athirst,
As countless people will attest
You do your very worst.

I am no wanton murderer,
Take no undue alarm,
Hereafter, if you'll only purr
I shall not do you harm,
But if you lift that voice once more
In shrill nocturnal song
You'll be transported to a shore
Where such as you belong.

Little Benny's Note Book by Lee Pape

Pop litt his cigar and looked around for a ash tray to put the empty match on, saying, When I bild the ideal home it's going to have hunderds of built in ash receevers in the shape of bewtiful berds, lovely ladies, graceful gazelles, frolicking fawns, and chubby childern.

What an affecting picture, and that reminds me, ma said. I was in Hookbinders notion department this afternoon, she said.

You didn't by any dizzy flite of the imagination pick up an ash tray? pop said, and ma said, No, not one, 2 dozen, hee hee.

You wouldn't mock a poor ash ridden smoker who never did you any harm? pop said, and ma said, They're in the shapes of the diffrent sweets of cards, harts, spades diamonds and clubs, and they're so attracktive and they were really so reasonable, ony a meer song in the ferst place and reduced to practically nothing, that I took 2 dozen.

Then it's really true, this is a momentous occasion, pop said. I'm going to throw a stag party, I'm going to invite 6 inveterate smokers who suffer from poor circulation of ash trays in their own homes, and I'm going to strew those 2 dozen ash trays all over the place and then we'll all lite up and shut our eyes and let the ashes fall where they may and they cant miss an ash tray, what a luxury, what larks, pop said.

Well my lands, you dont need to run on like a proverbial brook, how do you know I'll win any? ma said, and pop said, Win any what for Peet sake? and ma said, Any ash trays of course, I got them to use as prizes at the ladies bridge and tea I'm giving next Sattiday.

Alass sweet dreems, farewell falts hopes, adoo fond illusions, pop said.

Meening good bye ash trays.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

SOCIALIZING SCIENCE

Yesterday and the day before I called attention to the fact that the rapid scientific progress of the last quarter century has resulted in a ruinous social instability because research in the social sciences has perfected social control.

This means, as I have said, that the fate of our civilization depends upon the outcome of this race between scientific progress and social instability.

Researchers fired the gun that started this race. And those who pulled the trigger cannot escape responsibility for the resultant casualties.

Any scientist who cannot see in the current situation the possibility of a popular revolt against science and a social throttling of research has, in my judgment, lived too long in the subdued light of the cloister to see clearly in the broad daylight of human affairs.

I set it down as of critical importance to the future of scientific research, in the puhysical sciences no less than in the social sciences, that scientists should come together in a conscious and common effort so to plan, prosecute, and publish their researches that the scientific progress of the next quarter century shall, as far as may be humanly possible, stabilize and enrich life instead of producing further and perhaps fatal social instability.

This is, I admit, asking scientists to assume a new obligation. Traditionally, scientists have been reluctant to assume responsibility beyond the production of new knowledge. They have tended to lift aloofness to the dignity of a virtue, assuming, when they have not asserted, that scientific objectivity is impossible apart from social neutrality. They have too often built their laboratories on the sidelines of the social turmoil and sound-proofed their libraries against the cries of the street.

In the interest of their own survival as well as from a sense of social obligation, the current situation demands that, aside from those fundamental researches dealing with matters that are still far from the stage of social application, all research be planned, executed and interpreted by scientists with a living sense and deliberate consideration of its immediate and long time impact upon the structure and functions of the society which conditions our lives and enterprises.

Whether they like it or not, scientists dare not longer assume that the production of new knowledge is automatically and always good and that if a new discovery blights instead of blesses mankind the blame must rest upon predatory business men and blundering politicians, not upon scientists. In the long reach of the centuries this assumption doubtless holds. But mankind, at least in a phase of stress and strain like this, does not think in centuries. Even statesmen find difficulty in remembering that the unborn are part of their constituency.

There is no hope that political and business leadership will suddenly and magically grow wise enough promptly to absorb and adapt the flood of discoveries and inventions in ways that will prevent the dangerous instability that discovery and invention have to date produced. The scientists themselves must turn attention to this problem at tis source.

Our Children By Angelo Patri

"BRAVE BEPPO"

Miller Thompson, aged ten, owned Beppo, a bull pup who had certain timidities not usually associated with his breed. He showed an unworthy tendency to turn tail and go away from there at the sight of a cat. When an otherwise timid soul discovered that if he stamped his foot and shouted "BOO" Beppo would streak it for home and the safety of darkness under the sofa. He Boohed loudly and laughed proportionately. Miller Thompson, aged ten, was shamed before his fellows. But he loved the fearful and timid little armful of silken hair and bounding joy all the more. "Just wait until he gets a little bigger. He'll show you."

But courage came slowly to Beppo. Even when riding in the car, safely braced against master's chest, he cringed when a truck passed, or when a sudden blast of a horn split the air. At sight of a rapidly advancing car he would drop to the floor and hide his head under the rugs, between the bags, until he felt the danger over and done.

"Brave dog you have there, son. Guess you'd better christen him Scared Cat and done with it, eh?"

"He isn't cowardly, dad. He's as brave as brave as—"

"A lion?" said father laughing. "Well, you just keep on thinging so, son. Maybe he will look a mouse in the face some day."

Miller Thompson, ashamed before men, put both arms about the quivering, shivering Beppo, pressed him to his breast and whispered something in his cocked ears, whereupon Beppo licked him all over the face with an enthusiastic and very moist tongue.

A truck rumbled in the distance and Beppo showed signs of taking flight. Miller Thompson held him close to him and said, "Brave dog. Fine dog. Stand right up to him, Beppo, stand right up to him. Thataboy. Show him every one of your 42 teech. Thataboy."

Beppo squirmed and wiggled down to the floor. Miller Thompson, aged ten, picked him up again, and over and over, he chanted his song of courage to his faltering charge. With unflagging faith and patience he held and patted and praised and encouraged and with unfailing fear Beppo jumped and shivered and hid. Father looked at the earnest face of Miller Thompson, aged ten, and kept his thoughts to himself. But he watched. What he saw as time went by was the faithful, loving persistence of the lad and the gradual understanding of the little dog. In the end, Miller Thompson, aged ten, won. The day came when Beppo stood on his four firm legs, showed every one of his 42 teeth to a passing truck and driver and growled in his innermost regions as he saw him fade into the distance.

"You see, dad, you see? He is a brave dog. He is a real dog. Good old Beppo. I knew you were brave as a lion. Noble dog. Two bones for you tonight, Yes sir-r-r."

"What I can't get over is how the kid knew to do it. How do you suppose he knew that was the way to train the dog? He'd never seen anybody with a dog. He's only ten years old but he took hold of that dog, like a veteran and pulled him through by the scruff of his neck. He'll stand up to anything now. Just because that kid believed he had it in him."

Queer about dogs and children. Both of them have secret places and hidden powers and magical transformations. Just give them a hand up whenever you meet them. Miller Thompson was being brave for two.

NRA MEMBER U.S. WE DO OUR PART

A BIGGER AND FINER NEWPORT BEACH

The Register would like to call attention to a new program for Newport Beach. It appears very strongly, from both the news and editorial columns of the last issue of the Newport News, that the people of Newport Beach have caught a bigger vision of the possibilities of their city, and of the character of desired residents, than they have ever had before.

From the pen of the president of the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. A. B. Rousselle; from the former harbor master and secretary of the state senate, who long has been a resident of Newport Beach, Joseph Allan Beek; from a letter of the minister there, Rev. Russell Stroup, and from an editorial in the News, we see that all citizens are uniting on a policy for making Newport Beach more and more worthy of an investment and a place of residence for those citizens who are not primarily after the noise and froth.

This is a paragraph from the story of the president of the Chamber of Commerce of Newport Beach:

"The experience of the past Easter week has clearly demonstrated to all of us what we do not want at Newport and Balboa; that the property owners who are paying heavy taxes for the privilege of living here have come to the place where they will no longer tolerate the presence in the community of those who would turn it into an all-night playground and who have no respect for the investments or the rights of others."

He also says:

"A new future has been created by the development of the harbor, which is going to attract a high class permanent resident and visitor class to our community. In the past we have been forced by necessity to cater and extend privileges to anyone who would care to come. We could not be choosers but now with our future assured we can take pains to decide what that future shall be."

The editor, Mr. S. A. Myers, says, in part:

"Now is the time to settle on some definite policy for our future, and having settled on what our policy is to be, let us get behind it and push for all we are worth.

"Shall we make the town attractive to the people who want to settle here, and are willing to pay their share of our taxes, or shall we cater to the transient crowd who come for a few hours, leaving their trash behind for the community to clean up, and who do not contribute anything toward our taxes?

"The first big step toward making our city attractive is to do away with the rowdyism and noise which goes on until 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning, and one way of accomplishing this is to have all places of amusement and other businesses close at midnight, instead of running until two in the morning.

"Another point is to have a stricter enforcement of the City ordinances, with regard to noises on the streets, speeding in cars, promiscuous drinking on public property, illegal parking of cars, and nuisance abatement in general.

"Let people come down here to have a good time, but take care that one person's good time does not mean a bad time for all the neighbors. Let us get rid of the idea that the Harbor District is a place where everyone can do as he likes regardless of anyone else."

The minister joins in with these words:

"I have long felt and expressed myself upon numerous occasions that in encouraging those who are a source of disturbance and who desire to turn the city into an all night town or another Coney Island we have pursued a policy which is highly detrimental to the larger and finer growth of the community. What we want is, as I have often said, a high class residential resort which would attract the best element in the Southland; those who will own their homes, maintain an establishment, bring here their boats and in every way make a permanent and worthwhile contribution to our Community. We cannot attract these persons if we are to allow the city to be overrun with a cheap, noisy, undesirable element which destroys rather than builds and is not even financially profitable to us since they spend very little money themselves and drive away those who might in taxes and living contribute thousands of dollars to our city."

It would appear that all the elements of Newport Beach are united and determined to add nightily to the attractiveness of the city and insure the finest investors the highest value for their money, in their quest for homes and recreation.

We want to congratulate the citizens of Newport Beach on their enterprise, on their vision and on their spirit. With this wonderful harbor soon to be perfected; with its accessibility from all points in Orange county, and its proximity to Long Beach and the great city of Los Angeles, and with Riverside and San Bernardino residents looking for the finest in the way of a summer home, we can imagine nothing to complete the picture of certainty in the future of the beautiful city than the purpose which now seems to be that of the citizens of the city themselves.

With the finest kind of wholesome, yet harmless, recreation; with all the other advantages, Newport Beach is the ideal place for summer and even year-round residence.

SENATOR REED DEFEATS GOVERNOR PINCHOT

Senator Reed has beaten Governor Pinchot out as the candidate on the Republican ticket in Pennsylvania.

It was a singular contest. The figures are not complete at this writing, but 800,000 votes have been reported. Of this number about 460,000 votes are for Reed and 360,000 votes for Mr. Pinchot.

Governor Pinchot, although running in the Republican primaries, declared himself unequivocably in favor of President Roosevelt and his policies.

He urged this in season and out of season. This is probably the most remarkable thing that has occurred in any Republican primary in this country,—a Republican governor, running in a Republican primary, for the United States Senatorship, declaring himself on behalf of the national administration, which is Democratic, and then receiving about three votes out of seven, of all the votes that are cast in the Republican primaries.

The surprise is not that Reed won; the surprise is that so many votes were cast for the president in the primaries. For undoubtedly many of the Republicans have done just what they have done in California, already registered as Democrats.

The real fight will come at election in November, when the issue between the administration and the anti-administration will appear. With Pinchot and his followers distinctly for Roosevelt and his policies, it would appear that Mr. Reed would have a tremendous fight on his hands.

It is very plain that if Mr. Pinchot could have had the support of the Democrats, he would easily have won. If the Democratic candidate, Mr. Guffey, has the support, by the same token, of the followers of Mr. Pinchot, he will probably be elected.

In spite of names, it is becoming a contest between the ultra-conservative and the progressive groups in the country. The same contest is very likely to develop in California unless a known and distinct progressive is nominated by both parties.

GOVERNOR ROLPH WITHDRAWS

Governor Rolph has definitely decided that he will not be a candidate for re-election. We are sorry that the governor is in the physical condition he is.

Undoubtedly he has, in his way, given sincere and faithful service to the public and done the thing which he believed in the interest of the public good.

Governor Rolph is a genial, sympathetic, emotional, and shrewd man, who has many of the strong points of a politician by nature. He has not had to put them on as a coat.

But from the standpoint of the real values in our civilization; from the standpoint of business and economical administration; from the standpoint of public service being a public trust, and the appointments on the basis of merit and effectiveness, rather than on the strength of personal loyalty, are the points in which Governor Rolph fails to measure up to the possibilities of a real administrator.

It, therefore, must be somewhat of a relief to millions of citizens in California, to note that he has eliminated himself from this campaign. Probably the candidates for the governorship have all announced now. Soon we can begin to weigh them.

We will have to take into consideration their personal character, their ability and their purposes, as demonstrated by their lives.

We will have to consider their present statements, with 90 per cent off for tare, on most of them.

With some of them, the primary consideration will be the forces that are behind them, and are likely to control them, which forces we know support only those whom they know they can control.

Luxurious Travel For the Steam Railroads

Riverside Enterprise

The luxury of the new railroad accommodations, after years in which railroad travel was mostly regarded as an endurance test, almost passes belief. Not content with reducing rates to 1 1-2 or 2 cents a mile, air-cooling Pullmans, bringing in new streamlined trains and putting more speed, comfort and service into the whole business, they are now providing trains with entertainment. A southeastern line has a miniature night club on its Florida trains, with hostesses and soft music.

Very likely we'll soon have a hostess along with the porter on every Pullman, with radio service and other extras on the coaches, and a place to dance in the middle of the dining car. Or inventive genius and managerial enterprise will sweep away all these crudities and give us something finer than drummers or millionaires ever dreamed of. The business coupe and family bus will have to step some to keep up.

Widow of Lenin

The Oakland Tribune

The widow of Lenin is taken to task because in her book of reminiscences she admitted the human qualities of her husband. He was both soft and sentimental, she wrote, and a soft and sentimental man is not in the pattern of the one who is rapidly becoming a myth in Russia.

On another count the widow of Lenin was remiss. She did not make much of his association with the present dictator Josef Stalin, quite forgetting to say a word of the latter's abilities and the confidence imposed in him by the old leader.

The widow of Lenin has "been taken severely to task" and may feel properly chastened. It is more likely she wishes she dared ask: "Who's writing this book, anyway?"

ADVICE TO A CAT

If you will just take my advice,
Please note it down with care,
You'll stick to catching rats and mice
For which you have a flair.
You may have other talents, too,
But you are in the wrong
If you so much as dream that you
Possess the gift of song.

Those concerts that you give at night
Can only do you harm,
The voice in which you so delight
Has neither lilt nor charm.
It has a sound like greaseless wheels,
A rasping, sour tone,
An eldritch cadence which appeals
To no ears but your own.

Your purr, I own, is not so bad,
It does not grind nor jar,
Moreover, I had better add,
It does not carry far.
But when you try to do your best,
For deathless fame athirst,
As countless people will attest
You do your very worst.

I am no wanton murderer,
Take no undue alarm,
Hereafter, if you'll only purr
I shall not do you harm,
But if you lift that voice once more
In shrill nocturnal song
You'll be transported to a shore
Where such as you belong.

Pop litt his cigar and looked around for a ash tray to put the empty match on, saying, When I bild the ideal home it's going to have hunderds of built in ash receevers in the shape of bewtiful berds, lovely ladies, graceful gazelles, frolicking fawns, and chubby childern.

What an affecting picture, and that reminds me, ma said. I was in Hookbinders notion department this afternoon, she said.

You didn't by any dizzy flite of the imagination pick up an ash tray? pop said, and ma said, No, not one, 2 dozen, hee hee.

You wouldn't mock a poor ash ridden smoker who never did you any harm? pop said, and ma said, They're in the shapes of the diffrent sweets of cards, harts, spades diamonds and clubs, and they're so attracktive and they were really so reasonable, ony a meer song in the ferst place and reduced to practically nothing, that I took 2 dozen.

Then it's really true, this is a momentous occasion, pop said. I'm going to throw a stag party, I'm going to invite 6 inveterate smokers who suffer from poor circulation of ash trays in their own homes, and I'm going to strew those 2 dozen ash trays all over the place and then we'll all lite up and shut our eyes and let the ashes fall where they may and they cant miss an ash tray, what a luxury, what larks, pop said.

Well my lands, you dont need to run on like a proverbial brook, how do you know I'll win any? ma said, and pop said, Win any what for Peet sake? and ma said, Any ash trays of course, I got them to use as prizes at the ladies bridge and tea I'm giving next Sattiday.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

SOCIALIZING SCIENCE

Yesterday and the day before I called attention to the fact that the rapid scientific progress of the last quarter century has resulted in a ruinous social instability because research in the social sciences has perfected social control.

This means, as I have said, that the fate of our civilization depends upon the outcome of this race between scientific progress and social instability.

Researchers fired the gun that started this race. And those who pulled the trigger cannot escape responsibility for the resultant casualties.

Any scientist who cannot see in the current situation the possibility of a popular revolt against science and a social throttling of research has, in my judgment, lived too long in the subdued light of the cloister to see clearly in the broad daylight of human affairs.

I set it down as of critical importance to the future of scientific research, in the puhysical sciences no less than in the social sciences, that scientists should come together in a conscious and common effort so to plan, prosecute, and publish their researches that the scientific progress of the next quarter century shall, as far as may be humanly possible, stabilize and enrich life instead of producing further and perhaps fatal social instability.

This is, I admit, asking scientists to assume a new obligation. Traditionally, scientists have been reluctant to assume responsibility beyond the production of new knowledge. They have tended to lift aloofness to the dignity of a virtue, assuming, when they have not asserted, that scientific objectivity is impossible apart from social neutrality. They have too often built their laboratories on the sidelines of the social turmoil and sound-proofed their libraries against the cries of the street.

In the interest of their own survival as well as from a sense of social obligation, the current situation demands that, aside from those fundamental researches dealing with matters that are still far from the stage of social application, all research be planned, executed and interpreted by scientists with a living sense and deliberate consideration of its immediate and long time impact upon the structure and functions of the society which conditions our lives and enterprises.

Whether they like it or not, scientists dare not longer assume that the production of new knowledge is automatically and always good and that if a new discovery blights instead of blesses mankind the blame must rest upon predatory business men and blundering politicians, not upon scientists. In the long reach of the centuries this assumption doubtless holds. But mankind, at least in a phase of stress and strain like this, does not think in centuries. Even statesmen find difficulty in remembering that the unborn are part of their constituency.

There is no hope that political and business leadership will suddenly and magically grow wise enough promptly to absorb and adapt the flood of discoveries and inventions in ways that will prevent the dangerous instability that discovery and invention have to date produced. The scientists themselves must turn attention to this problem at tis source.

Our Children

By Angelo Patri

"BRAVE BEPPO"

Miller Thompson, aged ten, owned Beppo, a bull pup who had certain timidities not usually associated with his breed. He showed an unworthy tendency to turn tail and go away from there at the sight of a cat. When an otherwise timid soul discovered that if he stamped his foot and shouted "BOO" Beppo would streak it for home and the safety of darkness under the sofa. He Boohed loudly and laughed proportionately. Miller Thompson, aged ten, was shamed before his fellows. But he loved the fearful and timid little armful of silken hair and bounding joy all the more. "Just wait until he gets a little bigger. He'll show you."

But courage came slowly to Beppo. Even when riding in the car, safely braced against master's chest, he cringed when a truck passed, or when a sudden blast of a horn split the air. At sight of a rapidly advancing car he would drop to the floor and hide his head under the rugs, between the bags, until he felt the danger over and done.

"Brave dog you have there, son. Guess you'd better christen him Scared Cat and done with it, eh?"

"He isn't cowardly, dad. He's as brave as brave as—"

"A lion?" said father laughing. "Well, you just keep on thinging so, son. Maybe he will look a mouse in the face some day."
